Constable Hosie Tried to Extort Money from Hotelman Couch.

ASKED FOR SEVENTY DOLLARS

In Consideration of That Amount of Money He Would Not Push the Prosecution Against Couch for the Alleged Selling Liquor on Sunday.

In effect, Constable James Hosie, of Jermyn borough, was convicted in quarter session court yesterday of using his office to extort money from liquor sellers. Hosie was the prosecutor in a case against Hotelkeeper Michael Couch, of Jermyn, and the jury re-turned a verdict of not gulky, and placed the costs on the constable. Hosie alleged that Couch sold liquor on April 14 and 21, those being Sundays. To substantiate his charge he put John Walsh on the stand, who said he got a pint of whiskey from Couch one Sunday v representing that his wife was sick paid 25 cents for it. He obtained the liquor at the instance of Hosie, who promised to divide with him whatever was realized out of Couch. Another man named Walsh had beer in the place one Sunday, but did not pay for

Michael Dymond swore that he tried number of times to get Hquor from Couch on Sunday but was always unsuccessful. He knew a number of other

Hosie on the Stand. Constable Hosie was then sworn and denied making any promise to divide money with Waish. He also denied that he had made any attempts to extort money from Couch. The latter, he said, had made overtures to him to settle the case. One time he offered him $33, again $100, and still later "all the money he wanted."

The commonwealth rested and the defense opened, Landlord Couch being the first witness placed on the stand He said that he never sold liquor to any one on Sunday. Some time before his arrest Hosle came to him and demanded $60 or $65. It was refused and soon after the present prosecution was be Since he was indicted Hosie on ten or a dozen occasions came to him and offered to settle for a money consideration.

The Interview at Callahan's. On one occasion Hosle induced him to come to this city to see the district attorney, but when they arrived in Scranton the constable, knowing that Mr. Jones would not consent to a settlement, refused to go to him, and the party adjourned to Callahan's hotel, where Hosie demanded $70 of Couch to cettle the case. Payment of that amount of money was refused.

P. F. Callahan, proprietor of the hotel, corroborated the testimony of Couch about the amount of money Brook and Linden street bridge bonds, asked by Hosle. Philip McDonald, of Jermyn, swore that he had a talk with Hoele in this city on the day Couch was returned to court. He asked him why he had picked out Couch when there were others who were much greater violators, "Couch is too slow," was Hosle's reply. He then told McDonald that it of $54,618,87. would cost Couch $60 or $65 to settle the case.

Could Not Buy Liquor.

Thomas Clark said that Hosie gave him money to try and get whisky at Couch's one Sunday, but Couch refused to sell him anything. In charging the jury Judge Edwards spoke severely of constables who make a practice of levying blackmatt

"There is a general impression abroad," he said, "that many constables make a living by levying a tax on saloon-keepers and proprietors of unlicensed places. From my experience as district attorney and from that of other district attorneys I know that it is a notorious fact that constables collect what is known among them as the 'constable's license.' If evidence can be secured against such officials we will have every one of them prosecut-

The judge then instructed the jury that if they found the defendant not guilty they would have the costs to dispose of. Though the prosecutor was a public officer, the costs could be placed on him if it was the conclusion of the jurors that the prosecution was not brought in good faith.

Willard, Warren & Knapp, Attorneys and Counselors, Scranton, Pa., June 26, 1895. My Dear Governor-Acknowledging recipt of yours yesterday tendering me at ppointment as a member of the new Suerior court bench. I thank you most sincerely for this expression of your confidence, and accept the same. I shall take great pleasure in meeting you and the other gentlemen constituting the new court on Friday next at the hour named. Very cordially yours,

E. N. Willard. Gov. D. H. Hastings, Harrisburg, Pa.

Friday morning Mr. Willard will kave for Harrisburg, where he will attend the first meeting of the new judges, which will be held in the executive chamber at 2 p. m. that day. This meeting will be held for the purpose of deciding the preliminary work to be done in connection with organizing the new court.

The time and place for holding the first meeting of the court cannot be determined upon at this meeting of the judges, as it will be necessary to first ascertain where the people of the different ounties wish their writs made returnable. FINANCES OF THE CITY.

orm the Subject of a Report by City

Trensurer Reese G. Brooks. City Treasurer Reese G. Brooks' report of the finances of the city for the fiscal year ending March 31 was com piled yesterday and will be read at this vening's meeting of council.

The balance on hand April 2, 1894, at the beginning of the year was $118,-707.90, and the receipts from all sources during the year were $714,180.13, making a total of $832,888.03. A recapitulation of the amounts from all sources is as follows: Received by city treasurer, $694,288.94; by Mayor W. L. Connell, $2,982.65; by City Solicitor J. H. Torrey $56,565.04; by Street Commissioner Philip Kirst, $250; by Secretary Walter Briggs, of board of health, $46.75; by Chief Engineer H. F. Ferber, $100; by City Clerk M. T. Lavelle, $24; from County Treasurer D. W. Powell, for liquor licenses, $78,680.65.

The total amount of disbursements for the year was $472,553.36, which left a balance in Treasurer Brooks' hands at the beginning of the present fiscal year of $360,334.67. The greatest source of revenue was from the sale of Roaring

Among the disbursements the one largest individual account was the total of the general city expenditure represented in 6,341 city warrants, amounting to $277,786.72. This is virtually the cost of the city government for the year. The other expenses are for interest on bonds and money outlayed on street and sewer improvements. There was paid on the new bridges the sum

The report represents a great amounof care and effort in its preparation, and its arrangement is simplicity itself. The financial standing of the city is shown to be in prime condition.
