WILKES-BARRE

[The Tribune has opened a branch office at No. 23. Laning bu'lding, Public Square, Wilkes-Barre, for the transaction of business. The publishers propose to extend the circulation of The Tribune in Wilkes-Barre and surrounding towns, and to that end will present a very complete department of Luzerne county news. For success in this undertaking dependence is placed solely upon the superiority of The Tribune as a purveyor of all the news of the day-domestic, foreign, local, commercial and financial. The general interests of the people of Wilkes-Barre and the Wyoming valley will have in The Tribune an earnest advocate, editorially and otherwise. It is the purpose of the publishers to issue a newspaper as valuable to the general public as the metropolitan dailies, and deliver it to the people throughout northeastern Pennsylvania from three to five hours earlier than the Shiladelphia and New York papers can reach them.]

A GREAT SURPRISE.

The Without the knowledge of Judge Rice, I that the governor had decided to tender the appointment to Judge Rice.

Some of the judge's friends here are inclined to doubt that he will accept under the peculiar circumstances that the offer comes to him. The judge, however, is in the highest degree a ser sible man and will appreciate the difficulties that have encompassed the governor in making these appointments. The fact that Luzerne and Lackawanna are adjoining counties is not so very significant. The governor has appoint ed General Beaver, of Center, and Mr. finest sensibilities, but his strong common sense always predominates. CONCERNING POPULATION.

Names. The city directory for 1895 is about completed and the fact has been ascertained that it contains a little more than 28,000 names. On the customary basis of figuring this would indicate population exceeding 50,000, but some o the more enthusiastic citizens will not nsent to any estimate that falls beincreasing rapidly in population durany one who resides here and has no ticed the building operations that have been going on during that time. But those who estimate the present population of the city at 60,000 are undoubtedly as wide of the mark as are those Scrantonians who are claiming 125,000 important and growing cities is a matter of speculation, and discussion at the middle of each decade. Now there ought to be enough enterprice in such cities to cause a careful enumeration to be made five years after a national census has been taken. This is done in some cities, usually as the result of newspaper enterprise. The suggestion is thrown out that it might not be a losing enterprise for some one of the newspapers of Wilker-Barre to present to its readers a complete enumeration of the city by wards. In a compact ofty like Wilkes-Burre"this work could be done thoroughly in a half a day if the city were divided into many districts, and an intelligent man assigned to each to make the enumeration. The expense would not be great either, and would be more than covered in value as an advertisement to the paper suffichiefly enterprising to undertake it.

The Oldest Chinaman. Sam Kee, the oldest, most intelligent ever located in this city, was buried yesterday morning. He was among the first Chinamen to settle here, and he came to stay. He carried on the launolfe church, and high mass was celebrated at St. Mary's yesterday, preparatory to his interment in the Hanover cemetery. When the Geary act was passed requiring Chinamen to reglster he was mong the first to comply with the law and through his efforts and influence every Chinaman in Lu-zerne also complied with the law. He was a shrew business man and a good citizen, although the court refused to naturalize 1.1m when years go he applied placed in the new No. 3 Delaware and into the rollers and made ready for Without exception this structure is far superior to any in this section, and probably in the world. The work complete reflects great credit on Boss Carpenter Abram Schaffer, who planned the whole himself. The mahinery is of the latest improved make and when first put in motion moved with a smoothness seldom, if ever, mel with on a first trial. Since the breaker was consumed by fire many anxious eyes have watched every move of the carpenters. Many rumors have been circulated as to when the colliery would start, which have all proved groundless, but now everything seems assured, as the mules have been lowered into the mine. The outlook from a financial standpoint is now much brighter than it has been for some ime past, and merchants will be rewarded in full for the amount lost since he conflagration which threw so many honest hands out of work. At least 500 men and boys will be required at the start, and it is quite likely that the number will be much larger before nany weeks have passed away.

Work was suspended at No. 5 Delaware and Hudson colliery yesterday owing to the breaking of a rope. Preparations are being made for raising the dirt plane 40 feet so that the culm may be deposited where it will not interfere with the interests of residents. Some ime will be consumed in building the necessary supports, and within a short time work will be suspended until such me as it can be completed.
