W. J. McINTYRE ON TRIAL

Charged with Conspiring to Defraud Columbia Company Stockholders.

CASE IN HANDS OF THE JURY

Jurors in the Proceedings Against the Hewitts Could Not Agree and Were Discharged—Evidence Adduced in the Case Against Thomas Holtham.

W. J. McIntyre, general agent for the Industry Savings and Life Insurance company, of Philadelphia, and sub-agent for the Columbia Loan and Investment company, of Washington, D. C., was put on trial before Judge Peck yesterday, charged with conspiracy and obtaining money under false pretenses by C. W. Coleman, junior, of the Second Presbyterian church, J. F. Harris, who was indicted with McIntyre, had the city and McIntyre had to go to trial alone yesterday. Their plan of operations was set forth in detail in The Tribune at the time of the arrest of McIntyre, early in May.

The present prosecutor is only one of a large number of persons who make similar charges against them. City Solicitor Torrey and ex-District Attorney John P. Kelly conducted the prosecution yesterday and attorneys J. Elliot Ross and Nathan Vidaver defended McIntyre, who is charged with illegal acts in connection with the Columbia concern only. Harris was the agent for the company and he appointed McIntyre as his assistant to make collections and look after the business generally in his absence.

HE DOESN'T NEED BAIL.

Water Pierce carries his bondsman in his pocketbook. Complaint came at 2.30 yesterday morning from a house at 354 Lackawanna avenue, kept by Mrs. Emma Jones, that a man was there trying to pass counterfeit money. Patrolman Gschelde arrested him and before putting him in the cell searched him and found $367 in legal tender, three bogus half-dollar coins and a patched $5 bill. Alderman Miller gave the prisoner a hearing yesterday and the man said his name is Walter Pierce, is a butcher by trade and lives at 225 Penn avenue. He is 22 years old. Pending an investigation the alderman remanded him for a hearing Monday morning at 10 o'clock and directed the jail to furnish bail in the sum of $50.

SHE IS SOLID MULDOON.

Alderman Miller's breath did not come to him for a few seconds when he saw his entrail take a "roll" out of his pocket and count out the amount of the bail in cash. Patrick Rogan, of South Washington Avenue, is afraid of a woman. Next to the Stafford Meadow brook on South Washington avenue is the property of Mrs. Mary Muldoon, and next to that is the property of Patrick Rogan. The families could not agree in reference to the fence that should divide the lots and by arbitration Civil Engineer Edmund A. Bartl was selected to give the correct compass.

N. G. Parke, of West Pittston, officiated. He took for his text the thirtieth chapter of Hebrews, the fourteenth verse: "Here We Have No Continuing City." His remarks were touching and sympathizing. And in concluding he spoke of the great help she had been to the Home for the Friendless and other institutions.

 Her husband sat with District Attorney James Jones at Powderly and the prosecutor, Special Officer Tierney, at the commonwealth's table, while Defendant Holtham sat a few feet away with his attorneys, Richard Busted, Walter E. Davis and John F. Stragg. A number of young women who worked for Mrs. Mahon, of Oakford court, were also present. A noble prospect was frequently met there in dimly lighted rooms. One witness, Maggie Langan, who peered through a key hole into a room occupied by Mrs. Robb and Holtham, swore that Mrs. Robb was preparing to follow the example of Tribby in the studios of the Latin quarter of

FOREMAN CHARLES ROLFE.

Superintendent of one of the Biggest Composing Rooms in America.

Up in the top story of The Globe building where the typesetting and other machines do everything but talk, says the Boston Globe, there is a pleasant-faced, clear skinned, light complexioned man of 52, who has been with The Globe ever since the birthday of that great paper. He is the night foreman of the composing room, and looks fully 15 years younger than he really is. His name is Charles Rolfe.

Nervous headaches that well-nigh drove him to distraction first introduced him to Paine's celery compound. That was five years ago, and until that time he was one of the most pronounced opponents of prepared remedies to be found in the city.

Just how Paine's celery compound was first brought to his attention he does not remember, but it has done him so much good that the compound has no more enthusiastic champion living. He is as happy as any one in the enjoyment of good health could be, and for that happiness he gives full credit to Paine's celery compound. Read what he has to say about the medicine.

"I am always ready to recommend Paine's celery compound when I hear of a case similar to my own. Some five years ago I was suffering from headaches which were sometimes so severe during working hours of the night that I would clap my hands over my head to 'hold the top on,' the pain being excruciating. These attacks would occur sometimes as often as three times a week. Sleep was out of the question, the pillow seeming but a block of wood.

Just at the time I was suffering most I bought a bottle of Paine's celery compound, began at once to take it, and before a week had passed a link of the headaches began to disappear. I felt almost a new man before the bottle was empty. I purchased more, and for two years kept it in the house for use whenever I felt a return of the old pains. It never failed in giving me relief. The other members of my family also began to take it—my wife for a feeling of general weakness, she being at that time much 'run down' and never feeling well enough to perform the work of the home. Within a week she was, as she expressed it, 'as well as ever in her life,' and similar reports came from all our friends to whom we had recommended it.

"I feel confident that in nervous headaches and a 'run down' system the compound will be beneficial every time, if not a perfect cure.

"In some instances we have not only recommended it, but furnished it to very aged friends, and the effect of one bottle has seemed marvelous, one particular old friend of mine telling me that before one bottle had been used he felt at least ten years younger, and certainly had not felt as good for ten years."

"During the last five years I have used a great many bottles of the compound—that is, in my home. I am positive that it is a sure cure for nervous headaches and a broken-down feeling, especially in the case of elderly persons.

"There is one case in particular I call to mind, in which Paine's celery compound asserted its good qualities. We had a young married lady friend, who was nursing her 4-year-old child, and found that she could not perform her household duties on account of the weak condition she seemed always to be in. On the recommendation of my wife and myself she took one bottle of the compound, and before two weeks had passed was able to do her own washing even, in addition to household work. About three bottles were used. I have yet to hear from any friend to whom I recommended it other than the most favorable results."

SCRANTON'S CHEAP FUEL.

Figures Compiled by Secretary Atherton, of the Board of Trade. In looking through the columns of "The Ohio Valley Manufacturer," published at Wheeling, W. Va., Secretary D. B. Atherton, of the board of trade, observed the following table of the cost of maintenance of electric lights, street arc lamps, giving the expense of each light of 2,000 candle power burning all night and every night for the year:
 Albany, N. Y., $182.50; Brooklyn, N. Y., $182.50; Buffalo, N. Y., $146; Philadelphia, $177; Cambridge, Mass., $180; Lowell, Mass., $182; Boston, $237; Washington, D. C., $219; Worcester, Mass., $206; Scranton, $90; New York city, $127.50.

It shows that the Electric City discounts them all. Mr. Atherton's opinion, and it is one that commands attention, is that the relative profits of these companies, has nothing whatever to do with the disparity in the prices of electricity. By the figures it will be noticed that Buffalo and New York city are next to Scranton in cheapness of lights, and Mr. Atherton bases that condition on the cost of fuel at these places. Both of them use, in fact, the distributing coal and oil stations of the country, and they have the advantage of cost prices in the coal market.
 Scranton's cheap electricity, he says, is due to the low price of fuel, which can be had at from 25 to 50 cents a ton. He is enthusiastically ready to proclaim that electricity can be manufactured here cheaper than in any other part of the country outside of north-eastern Pennsylvania. Not electricity alone, but also any other manufactured product, and he points to the new industries that have been attracted here by cheap fuel to prove out his assertion.
