WILL MAKE MANY CHANGES. Fears of What the New Teachers' Committee Will Do. MAY SQUARE OLD ACCOUNTS. Board of Control Committee Meets To-night—Its Members Are Ant to Last Year's Ruling Faction—Teachers and Individuals Are Anxious.

The teachers' committee of the board of control is in a predicament over appointments for the next school year and will try to sift down scores of applications to fit the few vacancies that exist. The committee meets tonight and its deliberations will be unhampered but for the fact that many teachers have asked to be assigned to new schools, controllers have requested changes, influential citizens have urged the appointment of disengaged teachers, while scores of personal applications have been made.

The report of the teachers' committee is considered the most important work of the body during the year, at least in the eyes of the board of control, the teachers themselves and persons who have championed their interests. It is seldom that the report fails to be accepted, for the reason that if a change or two is made it leaves just so many vacancies, which entails considerable discussion and further tangle.

Rule of the Past. The rule of past years has been to place the control of the year's appointments in the hands of the teachers themselves, but it is also true that in recommending its appointments the committee has always considered the interests of the schools.

This year's teachers' committee is composed of John H. Williams, of the Fifteenth ward, chairman; C. H. Von Storch, of the Second ward; H. J. O'Malley, of the Third ward; W. S. Watrous, of the Tenth ward; John P. Mahon, of the Sixth ward; F. S. Barker, of the Seventh ward, and C. J. Conrad, of the Eleventh ward. The majority of these members are anti to the faction which was the more influential in the past year's appointments, and this fact has suggested a probable departure, in one respect, from the custom of previous years. Rumor has it that the members of the committee individually have been at odds and ends with last year's ruling faction on account of the forthcoming appointments, and that to settle old scores the present committee, which feels that it has the opportunity, will square accounts by giving the schools a house cleaning.

WHI Changes Be Made. For the past few days there have been constant button-holings and the working of many a sensitive pill by the controllers, who this year are out in the cold. Men conversant with city affairs say, however, the report of the committee will result in sweeping changes. This view has been generally accepted by controllers and teachers alike as well with much impatience waiting the committee's findings.

PLAN NOT PRACTICABLE. So Decided Committee of Select Council About Robinson Street Improvement. Another sprag has been manufactured for use in the Robinson street improvement project, this time by the streets and bridges committee of select council, and will surely be inserted at the next meeting of that body.

The people of the West Side are clamoring for a possible outlet to the central Robinson street, but this street is in bad shape. It is narrow, rutted and of uneven grade. Recently after a fight of over two years the West Side board of trade was successful in obtaining a majority of the names of property owners on Robinson street to a petition, asking for the paving of the street.

Action of Select Council. The measure went into select branch, and last Thursday night that body authorized its street and bridge committee to meet and look over the ground for the proposed improvement. This was done yesterday. Every member of the committee, C. E. Chittenden, Finley Ross, John E. Roche, Horatio Feltus and Victor Lauer, accompanied by the city engineer, Common Councilman Joseph O'Leary, D. M. Jones, Fellows Mason, M. Wayne, A. E. Morse, of the West Side board of trade, and Common Councilman P. J. Nealis, looked over the ground yesterday afternoon. The meeting was disastrous to the West Side.

Mr. Roche declared that the plans were decidedly impracticable and the other members, except Mr. Fellows, with one accord, registered their disapproval against the present plans for paving. Mr. Phillip's idea is to have Ninth street, from the northern intersection with Robinson, filled in as far as about 150 feet from Jackson street. This filling will break opposite the Connors' property, and from that point westward will gradually slope southward to the Robinson street, where it will terminate. A retaining wall will run on the extreme easterly side of the filling to its full length. This wall will reach far up to the porches of at least seven dwelling houses on Ninth street.
