000. Priests' vestments and robes of silver, 2,010,000; trumpets, 2,000,000. To this add the expense of building materials, labor, etc., and we get some wonderful figures. Ten thousand men hewing cedars, 60,000 bearers of burdens, 80,000 hewers of stone, 3,200 overseers, all of which were employed for seven years and upon whom, besides their wages, Solomon bestowed 15,725,997.

If their daily food was worth 2 shillings each, the sum total for all was 12,577,988 during the time of building. The materials in the rough are estimated as having been worth 2,542,337,000. These several estimates show the total cost to have been 17,442,442,168, or 177,521,655,936 in United States money.

RECOGNIZED BY ROYALTY.

The Knighting of Henry Irving is a layed Measure of Justice, but How About the Women of the Stage?

Propos of the knighting of Henry Irving the Chicago Times-Herald says: For the first time in English history the profession of acting is recognized as worthy of an honor so ancient and so long and slow. It was in the golden age of English literature that the actor was most despised. Under Elizabeth a statute was enacted reading that all common players "other than players of the noblest sort" were to be regarded as "ill-judged, tinkers, peddlers and petty chapmen shall be taken, adjudged and deemed rogues, vagabonds and sturdy beggars." It was further ordered that they should sustain "oysse and punishment," and that they be stripped naked from the middle upward, and shall be whipped until his or her body be bloody, and shall be forthwith sent from parish to parish by the officers of every town, where he or she be way to the parish where he was borne. After which whipping the same person shall have a Testimonyall testifying that he has been punished according to law."

The statute was slightly modified in the reign of Anne and again under George the Second, but the actor remained a criminal liable to be publicly whipped, up to the fifth year of the reign of George the Fourth, during the period, therefore, which witnessed the noblest development of English drama. The cable reports that Lord Rosebery feared the queen, in her characteristic adhesion to precedents, would not consent to give even a "sit" to an actor.

But if the man player is to be honored of the court, shall the woman play go without honor? She, too, was whipped in public for her playing. Shall she have no "testimonyall"? Scarcely from Queen Victoria, nor a generation of Englishmen, did a sovereign who had lavished titular favors on every other sort of subject, from drummers up to Henry Irving has so keen a sense of humor that when his Sir sword shall wring his neck he will smile to think that such a number of his kind were vouchsafed to them, would add nothing to the fame of Betterton, Garrick, Quin, Barry, Foote, Macklin, John Kemble, Cooke, Edmund Kean or Macready.

ONE WOMAN'S RANCH.

She is Making a Nest Sum on It, as This Will Be Manifest.

Mrs. H. W. R. Strong, of Whittier, is known as the "woman fruit-grower of Southern California." She has what is accounted to be the largest walnut grove in the world owned by one individual. She has 150 acres of walnut trees in full bearing, and in other kinds of nuts and fruits she has been equally enterprising. Mrs. Strong lately read before the state board of trade a paper presenting the value of pampas grass and the pomegrante as California products.

From the pampas plumes, growing on either side of the avenue on her property, 300 feet in length, she has realized from $2,000 to $4,000 per annum. She pointed out that pampas grass makes the finest bank paper known and can be used for many other purposes. The pomegrante makes jellies and syrups of superior quality, and its fruit, therefore, is a source of untold wealth. She thought this fruit, if generally cultivated, would prove a great source of wealth to the state.

"How to Cure all Skin Diseases." Simply apply "Swayne's Ointment." No internal medicine required. Cures tetter, eczema, itch, all eruptions on the face, hands, neck, etc., leaving the skin clear, white and healthy. Its great healing and curative powers are possessed by no other remedy. Ask your druggist for Swayne's Ointment.

A Soft Answer, Etc. If we must part, let us part friends, Good-by, and may all that's good go with you."

He decidedly—"If all that's good went with me, you would not remain here."

Then she smiled and laid her head upon his shoulder and he remained.—Chicago News.
