

WE'VE NEVER PUSHED

Boys' shirt waists for the front. Why, we can hardly tell, unless it is due to the fact that we were too busy with goods that figured into more money.

And Yet We Sell Them

Freely—in fact, our stock runs up into thousands of dozens, and there is not a good make or a prominent style of boys' waist on the market that we do not carry.

LITTLE LORD FAUNTILER

Leads all others as a common sense, dressy-looking waist. We have it in white, printed materials, etc. You can get the same style elsewhere, but you cannot get such a large line to select from, and you cannot get them at the figures we quote.

"MOTHER'S FRIEND"

Is the old reliable standby, and for practical thrift and true economy, there's nothing on the market today to surpass it.

We have it in all sizes, qualities and materials, and prices for a good, fast color Cambrie begin at 20c.

THE WAIST STORY

Is not half told yet, but why prolong it further?

If we can get you to understand that we carry two or three ordinary stocks of shirt waists for boys, and sell them at a big percentage lower than all competitors, we have accomplished all we desire.

Common prudence and good sense on your part will do the rest.

QUAY AND THE FARMERS

How He Defeated the Tax Bill Which They Wanted Passed.

STORY OF THE LEGISLATURE

Ex-Chairman W. H. Andrews, Quay's Chief Lieutenant, in Defeating the Desires of the Farmers, Now Asks Them to Help Him in a Crisis.

Special to the Scranton Tribune.

Harrisburg, July 5.—The friends of Senator Quay, notably ex-State Chairman William H. Andrews, of Crawford county, are endeavoring to make it appear that in the present contest in the Republican party Senator Quay is the only friend of the Granger. They boast that his strength lies principally with the farming element of Pennsylvania; that the farmers and members of the State Granges are his most ardent adherents. On this basis they are endeavoring to secure the Granger support for Senator Quay in the present contest.

If Senator Quay is the friend of the farmers of Pennsylvania his friendship must have been of swift and sudden growth, since June 8, when the late legislature adjourned. During the last session of the legislature Senator Quay was not only not the friend of the Granger, but he used all the prestige of his name, and all of the political power that he possessed in that legislature to defeat the expressed wishes of the farmers of the state. This statement is borne out by the facts and is substantiated by members of the legislature.

One bill which received the conspicuous and undivided support of every farmer, and farmer's friend in the last legislature, was what was known as the revenue tax conference bill. Distinguished members of the state grange and others from the rural districts were members of the conference which formulated the revenue tax conference bill. Leonard Rhoads, grand master of the State Grange; Hon. Frank Moore, member of the legislature from Bradford county, and Hon. Jerome B. Niles, of Tioga county, were conspicuous representatives of the farmers in this vote who helped to frame, and who voted for the passage of this bill.

Quay Defeated the Tax Bill.

Senator Quay defeated that bill in the legislature.

He gave the orders to his followers, and it was defeated after one of the most stubborn fights on the part of the farmers ever known in the history of Pennsylvania's legislature.

In the defeat of that bill the men who are now conspicuous as the leaders of Senator Quay's faction were the men who compassed its killing. It was distinctly a farmer's measure. The ten of thousands of names of grangers which were attached to petitions asking for the passage of the measure, the endorsement of Pomona granges, even the petition of the State grange, asking for its passage, were ignored by Senator Quay.

To furnish a reason for thus trampling on the wishes of the farmers of Pennsylvania, Senator Quay enlisted the aid of statisticians at Harrisburg, who were his friends. By an elaborate series of arguments they presumed to show that the bill would not furnish as much revenue as the present law. In less than six weeks these statisticians endeavored to prove that men who stand highest in point of authority on tax laws in Pennsylvania, men who had given them years of careful thought and study, and who had heard representatives of all classes upon the subject, had made a series of inexcusable blunders.

The facts are that after Mr. Quay's statisticians had made their statement Joseph D. Weeks, of Pittsburgh; Stuart Patterson, the most eminent lawyer of Philadelphia; Leonard Rhoads, grand master of the state grange, and General Miles, simply tore their arguments to tatters. They proved that the figures from the auditor general's office, furnished at Senator Quay's orders, were entirely misleading and were furnished for a purpose.

These farmers on the tax conference had no political end to subservise. They were laboring for the people. But Senator Quay's orders, given through ex-Chairman Andrews, were all powerful and the measure was defeated.

Asked Quay to Pass It.

Before the defeat of the bill had been finally accomplished a delegation of farmers and others favorable to this granger bill visited Senator Quay at his home in Beaver and asked him to throw the power of his influence toward the passage of the measure. Senator Quay told them that if his statisticians showed that the bill would bring in as much revenue, or more than the present law, that he would be in favor of it; if not, he would be against it.

That was all the satisfaction that the statesman from Beaver would give them. He knew at that time just what report his statisticians would bring in. He knew that their figures on the face would be unfavorable to the bill.

Even while the delegation of grangers and friends of an equitable tax law were besieging Senator Quay at his home in Beaver to help them pass their bill, he had resolved on its defeat and had given orders accordingly, for Senator Andrews, Senator Grady and other Quay lieutenants in the legislature were announcing the fact to their friends that the granger bill was "killed."

Martin, Mayor Warwick, Senator Flynn and C. L. Magee, of Allegheny, are striving to defeat the wishes of the Republican party in the rural counties. The Grangers and other agriculturists who read this can judge of the truth of this species of agitation after reading the above.

Senator Quay's friends are very foolish to raise this cry of country against city. Who are Senator Quay's confidential advisers and lieutenants in this present war, which he is waging against the administration? Ex-Magistrate Israel W. Durham, State Senator Boise Penrose, late candidate for the Philadelphia mayorality; Senator C. Wesley Thomas, Senator John C. Grady, Representative Adolph Beyerline, Senator George Handy Smith, Senator Elwood Becker, all of Philadelphia, and Senator Arthur Kennedy, and Representative O. W. Scaffer, of Allegheny; State Senator W. H. Andrews, of Crawford county, and Lieutenant Governor Lyons, of Pittsburg. Of the above but one of his followers are from the country districts upon which Senator Quay claims to have a mortgage.

Hastings and the Farmers

Governor Hastings alone is the staunchest friend and conspicuous leader of the rural Republicans of Pennsylvania. He was born and raised on a farm. He does not come from a great city. He has signed every bill that has come to his hands that was of value to the farmer. He insisted that the legislature create the department of agriculture. His cabinet officers with but one exception, Insurance Commissioner Lambert, of Philadelphia, came from the country districts. A few of these facts the question for farmers in this contest is an easy one to solve. Governor Hastings and not Senator Quay is the logical leader of the rural Republicans of Pennsylvania.

THE OUTLOOK IS BRIGHT.

Indications for a Lively Fall Trade Are Favorable According to Reports of Dun & Co.

New York, July 5.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade tomorrow will say:

There is 6,857 commercial failures in the first half of 1895, against 7,629 in the first half of 1894, and 6,401 in the first half of 1893. These commercial failures involved liabilities of $88,829,944 this year, against $101,793,296 last year, and $168,864,144 in 1893.

The midsummer reports from all commercial centers are of especial interest, covering the questions on which the future business depends. They indicate distinctly a crop prospects than other official or commercial accounts, a marked increase in retail distribution of products, and active demand for goods, and a general enlargement of the working force, with some advance in the wages of more than half a million hands. At the same time they show that the rapid advance in prices has somewhat checked buyers of a few classes of products. In every part of the country the outlook for fall trade is considered bright.

Nothing disturbs the money market, the government begins the new fiscal year with more than the required gold reserve, and the disbursement of nearly $90,000,000 by corporations in interest and dividends will stimulate business in many branches. The latest agreement of railroad presidents is treated at Chicago as meaning more than usual, and shipments have increased, amounting for four weeks to 208,877 tons east and against 187,269 last year, and 208,118 in 1893.

Earnings of railroads in June thus far reported amount to $23,080,870 in the United States and are 8.8 per cent. larger than last year, but 15.7 per cent. less than in 1893. The advance in iron continues and the Thomas company has raised anthracite No. 1 another dollar per ton. Comparison of prices for various iron products shows an advance ranging from 72.2 per cent. since February for wire nails to 7.1 per cent. for anthracite pig, and in all kinds averaging 22 per cent. The demand and rise have come so suddenly that even the first order for shipment of steel billets to Europe, given some time ago, when prices were low, is being announced, the price here has advanced from $17 in April to $22.25, or about 31 per cent.

MR. QUAY'S TOUR.

After a Visit to Lackawanna He Will Encourage Friends Elsewhere.

Philadelphia, July 5.—Senator Quay said tonight that instead of returning directly to his home at Beaver when he left here on Saturday as he expected to do at first, he will go to Scranton on Sunday afternoon. There he will see his friends in Lackawanna county and from there make a brief tour of the state, encouraging his partisans before he returns to Beaver. The delegates of Delaware county held a meeting tonight at Chester and unanimously voted to support Quay.

Senator Quay this evening expressed himself as well satisfied with his fight, and confident that he would win, although he added in a somewhat regretful tone that it would have been better pleased Mayor Warwick was upon his side. Senator Quay has advised the senatorial investigation committee to accept the offer of the citizens Municipal association of $20,000 to defray the costs of the investigation. Senator Quay said he did not think the investigation would begin before September.

HE WAS LOVED BY A NURSE

Dr. Palen Has a Branch of Promise Suit on His Hands.

A BRIDEGROOM'S PREDICAMENT

Margaret May Thompson Wants $25,000 in Return for Blighted Affections. He Is Related to the Gould Family.

Philadelphia, July 5.—Miss Margaret May Thompson, a professional nurse, today brought suit in the common pleas court against Dr. Gilbert J. Palen, a well-known Philadelphia physician, for $25,000 damages for alleged breach of promise. On June 11 Dr. Palen, whose mother is a sister of the late Jay Gould, was married to Miss Adams, of Germantown. Miss Thompson, who will be 21 years of age on Aug. 31, is the daughter of Samuel M. and Georgiana Thompson, of Huntingdon, Pa. She has been a professional nurse in this city since July, 1893.

Miss Thompson, in her affidavit, states that while employed as a nurse at the Philadelphia Lying-in charity she became acquainted with the defendant in March, 1894. He immediately paid marked addresses to her, and on July 9, 1894, agreed to marry her as soon as he would complete his medical studies at the Hahnemann Medical college. For some time after that the complainant avers, his addresses continued with much ardor. Miss Thompson declares the defendant had broken her betrothal ground to suppose, she is in no way responsible for the broken engagement, as she has always conducted herself in a ladylike and proper manner, and that the defendant intends to presently leave this country to complete his medical studies in Europe.

Judge Gordon issued a capias for Dr. Palen's apprehension, with special bail fixed at $1,000. The Palen-Adams wedding was a notable affair. To attend the nuptials, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Gould brought a party from New York, making the journey by coach and returning the same way. Dr. Palen is a son of Dr. Gilbert E. Palen, of this city, a wealthy practitioner.

PALEN IS SURPRISED.

Dr. Palen was seen by a reporter this afternoon in the office of his bankers, whether he had gone to purchase letters of credit, to be used in his trip abroad, as he has engaged passage for himself and wife on the steamship Southwark, which will leave this city tomorrow morning.

The young physician was asked for a statement as to the charge preferred by Miss Thompson. He was apparently surprised and said: "I am greatly surprised that this matter has been made public. But it is as well now as later on. In reference to Miss Thompson's suit against me I wish to say that her charge is false in every particular. I not only did not promise her marriage, but was never on such terms of intimacy with her as to give her any slightest ground to suppose that a marriage between her and myself was either remotely possible or even to be contemplated for a moment. It is a case of blackmail, pure and simple."

Dr. Palen's lawyer denied that his client and Miss Thompson had ever been anything but friends, and in proof of this assertion showed the reporter a letter from Miss Thompson to Dr. Palen. The letter was written to Dr. Palen at the time of his marriage and concluded as follows: "I offer you congratulations, and wish you and Mrs. Palen happiness and long life."

The letter was written in a neat, pretty hand, and bore as its signature "M. T."

"That letter," said Lawyer Keater in conclusion, "proves that Miss Thompson only conceived the bringing of this suit since his marriage, when she discovered by the reports what his connections are."

WILDCAT ATTACKS A WOMAN.

She Is Nearly Killed by the Beast Before Rescued.

Mt. Carmel, Pa., July 5.—A wildcat yesterday attacked Mrs. Andrea Cain and seriously wounded her before she was rescued from the furious beast by her son. Mrs. Cain resides at Germantown, three miles from this place. Mrs. Cain was gathering eggs in the henry when she was startled by a low growl from a corner of the little building. She looked and beheld two bright eyes glaring at her and she instantly turned to run. At the same moment the huge wildcat sprang upon her and began to tear and claw at her flesh, at the same time giving vent to the most unearthly screams.

The woman fought off the animal bravely, shouting for help, and succeeded in grasping it by the throat. It tore long strips of flesh from her arms and lacerated her face and hands in a fearful manner. Nearly all of her clothing was torn away, Mrs. Cain's hand had been called and rushed to her assistance with shotgun. Then the beast fled. The young man fired and shot off one of the wildcat's legs and then beat the animal to death with stones. It was three feet long and weighed twenty pounds.

WAR CLOUD IN SAMOA.

Rebel Party Wants Peace, but Price Is the Deposition of King.

San Francisco, July 5.—The steamer Alameda, this evening brought the following advices from Samoa dated June 19: "The situation between the two parties here has reached a stage which may be described as critical. 'The rebel party last week held a meeting attended by several thousand. Although the rebels expressed a desire for peace, they made the principal condition of the maintenance of peace the deposition of King Mafeta. 'The meeting was held under the guidance of H. J. Moore. There is a strong feeling against him for his action in the matter, and it is expected that he will be called to account for it. A meeting was held on the German warship Buzzard yesterday, where six of the rebel chiefs, and three consuls attended. Nothing has so far transpired.

as to what was done. It was impossible for the consuls to arrange peace, having for its basis the downfall of Mafeta. It is thought that ere long more blood will be shed. No feeling of unity prevailed among the foreign officials, in fact relations are very much strained amongst them.

POISON IN HIS GRAVE.

La Plata's Fair Alleged Murderer in a Flight.

La Plata, Md., July 5.—The nation's holiday was lost sight of here because of the interest in the Farrell murder trial. For several hours today witnesses occupied the attention of the court and a great throng of spectators. Much of the evidence was very important, particularly that portion which proved beyond a reasonable doubt that strychnine was found in Frederick Farrell's vital organs when his body was disinterred, and that a quantity of the poison was found in the possession of Farrell's wife after his demise.

The experts from Washington, Drs. Schaefer and Kalusowski, who performed the autopsy on the hotel-keeper's remains, were subjected to a severe cross-examination without impairment to the direct testimony.

KILLED BY A TRAIN.

Mary Morgan and Mary Lafferty Are Struck by a Locomotive While Returning from a Picnic.

Philadelphia, July 5.—Mary Morgan, aged 31 years, and Mary Lafferty, one year her senior, who were included in a party of picnickers near Holmesburg Junction yesterday, were struck by a Pennsylvania railroad train last night and instantly killed. Their bodies were found this morning. The young women started to walk from the picnic grounds down the railroad tracks to Holmesburg Junction station, for the purpose of taking a train for their homes in Philadelphia. They were without escorts and were struck by a train and their bodies were thrown into a clump of bushes beside the tracks. When the bodies of the pair were discovered, the score or more of other picnickers searched for them until late in the night, but without success.

FOUGHT WITH TRAMPS.

Mount Carbon Citizens Defend Their Grounds from Hobos.

Pottsville, Pa., July 5.—A free fight took place yesterday afternoon between residents of Mount Carbon and a band of tramps, in which knives, clubs and stones were used as weapons. The Mount Carbon residents were celebrating the day drinking beer, and while the Jollification was in progress a band of tramps invaded the picnic grounds, and upon being ordered away, turned upon the picnickers and showed fight. The challenge was accepted and the result of the battle is the probable fatal wounding of James Reardon, alias Joseph Evans, and Ambrose Kelly, two of the band. Both men were taken to the hospital at the county almshouse.

SHOT DOWN THE PENDERS

Amandus Rice Defends His Castle with a Gun.

RESULT OF A PIERCE FIGHT

The Hotel-Keeper Is Seriously Injured by Being Beaten with Clubs and Beer Glasses—Henry Pender Liable to Die.

Bethlehem, Pa., July 5.—Late last night Amandus Rice, proprietor of the Mountain View hotel, between Wind Gap and Ross Common, resented an insult to his wife by shooting down three brothers, Henry, John and Patrick Pender, probably fatally injuring Henry Pender. Rice shot the men in a fierce fight, in which he was half beaten to death with clubs and beer glasses.

A few days ago the Pender boys came to the hotel in Rice's absence, and Mrs. Rice claimed that they insulted her. Her husband said openly that he would resent the insult as soon as the opportunity afforded.

Last night there was a dance at the hotel and the Pender boys intruded. In a free fight which followed Rice fired seven shots from a revolver at them, only one taking effect. John Pender sustained a scalp wound. When he fell his two brothers overpowered Rice and beat him badly. The crowd separated the fighters, when Rice ran upstairs, got his shotgun and dragging himself out into the street fired his gun through the bar room window at the Pender brothers at close range. Henry Pender received nearly the full charge of shot in his breast and head, while Patrick was painfully, though not seriously wounded. Henry was removed to the county hospital at Nazareth, and his condition tonight is precarious.

TIPTON'S AWFUL CRIME.

Shoots His Wife and a Young Man with Whom She Was Talking.

Cleveland, O., July 5.—A special from Gallipolis, Ohio, says: The Sons of Veterans at Lincoln, gave an ice cream supper at the Grand Army of the Republic hall last night. Among those present were Calvary Tipton, his wife, from whom he had lately been separated, and John Willis, a young school teacher, and the son of a wealthy farmer. Tipton has boasted that he should kill the next man whom he caught talking to his wife. During the evening the woman engaged Willis in conversation, and Tipton's attention was called to it. He immediately left his seat, went outside and placing a revolver close to Willis' head fired two shots into his brain, through the window. He then shot and killed his wife before any one could interfere and escaped to the hills. At last accounts he was being pursued by a posse, and if caught, the county will be saved the expense of a trial.
