But there are no diseases which cannot be benefited and life prolonged with the right kind of treatment. Dr. Smith has ever made it a life long rule to be honest with his patients. If he says he can cur your trouble he will accomplish it. When springs into new being within their breasts and from that very instant a change takes place which, as a rule, brings them back to physical as well as mental health and vigor. It is this new birth of hope and confidence in Dr. Smith, an ab-solute faith in his powers and an absolute belief in his methods which has led hosts of patients to remark, "Wetl, doctor, I feel a hundred per cent, better for just having had this talk with you." And there is a psycological reason for this statement which is much deeper than any one would suppose. When a patient loses confidence n a doctor, no matter how skilled he may be, that doctor's usefulness ceases. The absolute belief of a patient that he has at
