WE LOSE BOTH GAMES.

Scranton Makes a Decent Showing Against Springfield in the First Game, but the Second Was a Farce-Players Seemingly Did Not Try to Play.

Springfield, Mass., July 11 .- Scrandroped two games to the Springfields this afternoon in the easiest kind of style. The games were marked by Murray, Shannon, Lezotte 2, Earl. Double more kicking and wrangling than has been seen here this year. The players did it with the evident intention of roasting Umpire Snyder, and Ward was fined $10 for back talk.

The first game was the more exciting of the two. Both Coughlin and Johnson pitched fine games and were well supported. Scranton did not score after the first inning, but in the ninth an error by Shannon and a base on balls gave the visitors a chance, which, however, was not accepted. Scranton Rider at Asbury Gets a Place it the Third Preliminary Heat of the Two-Mile Handleap-Professionals Paced by Zimmy and Wheeler on a Tandem.

Asbury Park, N. J., July 11 .- The rain which fell this morning upon the trial heats of the first day's racing of the League of American Wheelmen's national meet ceased before the afternoon's work began, although lowering clouds lingered and damp breezes threatened during the entire day. The weather, however, had little diminishing effect upon the crowd which completely filled the grandstand and went a long way out on the big new bleachers. Before the racing began Referee Mott attempted to stop practice on the stack and shook a bamboo walking stick ominously at A. D. Kennedy, the Chicago flyer. Kennedy made an uncomplimentary remark and was ordered off the path. The racing was all of a high order and unexpectedly free from accidents considering the dangerous banking on the ordinary. McKay, of Denver, looked a winner until the last shoot, when C. won out easily with McKay second.

others at the very tape.

The class A tandem events were oretty but rather tame; Caldwell, of Manchester and Tom Butler having an easy thing in heat and final.

Paced by a Tandem. The main interest today, however lay in the single professional event. Zimmerman and Wheeler, paced on a tandem, which Fred St. Onge caught, with Berlo, Starbuck, Eaton, Bartholomew, Cutter and McCurdy tagging on in order. The race was too hot, however, and St. Onge soon lost the tandem and fell at the three-quarters. Berlo did the rest alone, Starbuck and

Titus and MacDonald Ride a Dead Heut. The first heat was a beauty. Mac-Donald, Titus, Scott and Earl started. when MacDonald went up taking Titus with him. These giants hung to each other until the quarter pole, at which post Titus, who seemed to feel that he satisfactory arrangements are not reached by tomorrow it is probable that must do something pretty soon, ran out and gained twenty yards before Mac-Donald saw him. Then came a memorable rush down the stretch, MacDonald gaining at every inch, and Titus forging along like a Kansas cyclone. The men almost touched elbows as they flashed over the tape at the same instant, Monte Scott beating Barl easily for third place. The judges announced t a dead heat. The other heats were less exciting and caused a good deal of uneasiness owing to the large fields of starters although big Willie Terrell was th only "B" man to cleave the earth. Little Kiser and Gardiner made a game fight for the tandem at the push off and to every one's surprise Kiser got it. The first mile was handsomely paced, and the men stuck to their work nicely The Johnsons picked up the crowd prettily for the last scramble and all went well till the tandem ran away and Kiser lost his grip. Butler, Gard-iner and Coulter had it hot on the run home, coming in side by side. At a ahead and the others came over with

In the mile open Baid, the Columbia orack, sustained his reputation for this sort of thing, although he had his hands full in doing so, for Titus showed his old form and came within an inch or two of the rise. Gardiner, Madden, Allen and Church were the rest of the bunch who followed Mayo and Saunders on their tandem. Bald and Gardiner chased for the pacing machine at the start and the latter aught it, but Bald went shead of the tandem, getting the pole, and when the Gardiner, and after a lively tussle captured the coveted place. Titus played his cards well all the way, being ready when the tandem dropped out on the back stretch and Bald started his sprint, to leap beside him. CORNELL'S CONDITION. Next Venr-Vala Presents the Cold Shoulder. Henley, July 11 .- On the third and last day of the Henley regatta, the river was alive with craft of all descriptions, and the police boats had all they could do to keep the course clear of obstructions. A wealth of color was lent to the scene by the profusion of flags and flowers with which the launches, house-boats, boat-houses, etc., were dressed, and the varied costumes of the thousands of ladies. The attendance of Americans was much smaller than on the previous days, and the few Cornell men to be seen were far from being obtrusive.

Numbers of friends of Miss Anna Ansley, the well-known teacher of and her numerous pupils, gathered last evening at the lady's home on Meridian street, and enjoyed a number of excellent selections rendered in a very clever manner. Then came a valse duett by Miss Grace Barber, which was received well, foilowed by "Evening Bell," given in a pleasing way by Miss Edna Stevens and a duo by Miss Gertrude Gilhool who is a performer of merit. Miss Ide Whetston was at ease in playing two short selections from Streabog. After this Miss Katherine Dunn was applauded for a good execution of a trio, followed by a duo by Miss Ruth Brooks, who delighted all. Miss Margaret Jones, a charming vocal soloist, sang in exquisite tone a selection from Wellings. Miss Jones is a soloist who ranks among the best in the city. Miss Clarence Debow played in an acceptable manner and a brilliantly executed double selection was played by Miss Alda Atkinson, who won many encomiums for her work. Miss Edna Stevens played, and the "Reverle" and "Andante" were treated artistically by Miss Henrietta Dunkerly Then came another solo by Miss Jones consistent with her former effort, and solo by Miss Jessie Smith, played with a finish.
