The Delaware, Lackawanna and Western is averse to running execursions, one would judge from the few that go over the road during the summer. With the exception of one or two execursions run by Delaware, Lackswanna and Western railroad societies no excursions go over this line, although it has numerous beautiful and enticing summer outing spots along the route. The Erie has applied to the interstate commerce committee for an extension of time within which to comply with the law requiring railroad companies to equip all freight cars be-fore July 1, 1895, with safety appliances. This is the second application, and if couple more applications will be necessary ere the system is fully equipped.

The Moses Taylor lodge, No. 420, Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, will run an excursion to Eldridge Park, Elmirs, N. Y. The trainmen's excursions are always thoroughly enjoyable. SERVICES AT HOME AND GRAVE

Many Beautiful Tributes Paid to the Worth of Decensed-Large Number of Floral Offerings-Out of Town Persons Who Attended Funeral.

Many have been the written tributes o the memory of the late W. George Powell, but the greatest tribute of all was that paid by the multitude of friends that gathered yesterday and paid the last respect to the departed. Soon after 2 o'clock the funeral services were begun at the family home on North Lincoln avenue. At this time the home was crowded and the numbers outside necessitated an open air service. The speakers stood upon the porch, and for two hours the departed was extolled by many prominent divines. A double quartette, consisting of Misses Clara Saunders, Lizzie Jenins, Mrs. Cora Metzgar and Mrs. Mary I. Boston-Williams, Evan Miles, Edwin Bowen, Lewis Davis and John W lones, sang "It is Well With My Soul," and afterward "God Be With You Till We Meet Again." The music was sweet and was given with a depth of feeling. Rev. William Bell, of the Plymouth Congregational church, prayed, and the following divines spoke: B. Morgan, Olyphant; J. T. Morris, Bellevue Welch Calvinistic Methodist church; and Hugh Davis, Welch Calvinistic church. After this part had been finished the thering to the number of about 2,000

Rev. T. C. Edwards' Tribute. The body was lowered into the grave and Rev. Hugh Davis spoke a few words, introducing the eloquent Rev. C. C. Edwards, of Kingston, who feelngly paid a glowing tribute to the departed. The effort was sublime, and is onsidered the most worthy of the enleavors yet made to honor the dead. The speaker told of the muture mind in a frail body, the adult in youth, who dwelt in realms far beyond the compreiension of the multitude. "He aimed high," said the speaker, "he shot at the stars. Perhaps his very blindness was only a way in which to further commune with the Infinite. No one knows what passed between God and Mr.

"He is dead, but his works shall follow him. The pupils who have received his attention, in them will forever live the teachings of him that is gone." Poet D. M. Jones, of Wilkes-Barre, read the following tribute in verse to Professor Powell.

Thought-gems where beauty's promise brightly shone; Or sighed to hear his uncomplaining lute, When strength had failed ambition's brave pursuit.

Poet Osborne's Beautiful Words. Theron G. Osborne, of Greenwood, the devoted friend of the deceased, read the following: Let the bays for the poet's forehead From loving hands descend But better to him from me, I know, Is this, "I have lost a friend." A friend! 'tis a jewel rarer Than the crown of king e'er bore,

When a friend goes on before.. With the flush of youth upon us, Success that is ours to win, What faith in self and the present As we hoard our precious store! When a friend goss on before,

THAT JUDICIAL CONTEST.

Woodward's Right to Succeed

Judge Rice Is Questioned. A snag has sprung up in the Dunham-Sittser judicial contest through the appointment of Judge Charles Rice, of auzerne, to the Superior court bench, which creates a vacancy in the judicial commission appointed by the governor o carry on the contest.

Judge Rice was president of the comnission, and his retirement from it will cause that function to devolve on Judge R. W. Archbald. Both Judge Archbald and Judge Searle have ruled that in the departure of Judge Rice his place on the board reverts to Judge Stanley Woodward, now president judge of Lu-

Against this ruling of the two remaining judges there has been a good deal of dissenting on the part of the contestant, but Judge Archbald feels confident that before the next meeting of the commission Governor Hastings will have sent on the commission of Judge Woodward as a member of the board.

reposed in a handsome quartered oak All the testimony direct, cross, and edirect has been taken, and Stenographers H. H. Coston and Willis D. Coston are busy transcribing it. The next meeting of the commission will be held at Laporte, Sullivan county, on Tuesday, Aug. 6. The attorneys of both sides are required to then have a list of illegal voters as they allege. The judges will take the testimony, selecting from the list such voters as the tesimony shows to be illegal.

The ballot boxes will then be opened to determine for whom the illegal votes were cast, and when upward of 2,000 names are thus scrutinized the contest will be over.

TAX BONDS FILED.

Judgment Entered Against the Sureties in Prothonotary Pryor's Office. Several tax collectors' bonds were vesterday put on record in court. The bond of William A. Rogers, treasurer of Taylor school district, was the largest, it being in the sum of $18,000, with Thomas R. Brooks, of this city; Thomas R. Lovering and G. T. Davis, of Greenwood; and William T. They Have Recently Been Organized in

This City. Two tents of the Order of Knights of the Maccabees have recently been organized in this city, one on the West Side and one in Scranton proper, Tents have also been organized in Clark's Summit and Hawley. This evening Hyde Park tent will convene in regular session, when E. S. Watson, of Williamsport, great commander of the order in Pennsylvania, will be present. Mr. Watson was in the city yesterday afternoon. After calling upon old-time friends he went to Clark's Summit on tour of inspection, and where a tent of the order was recently established. Today he will return to the city and in the evening will visit the Hyde Park tent, when he will deliver a lecture upon the merits and standing of the order. All Maccabees are invited to be present, and no doubt there will be large gathering. The Hyde Park tent meets this evening in Ivorite hall, over 126 South Main.

New Church to Be Brected by St John's Congregation, South Side.

KNITTING MILL'S DOUBLE TURN

of Orders - Richard A. Keenan Honored in West-News of North End and Dunmore.

SOUTH SIDE.

Irrespective of religious denomina tion the people of the South Side are deeply interested in the excursion of St John's parish on Monday, July 29, to Mountain park. The pastor, Rev. E. J. Melley, and a committee of prominent and active members of the congrega tion are making all the preparations required to insure a day of unexcelled endoyment.

Under the guidance of Father Melley St. John's parish has grown rapidly, holding a position in the front rank of parishes in the diocese. As an organ izer he has no superior among the clergy; his work is reflected in the flourishing parochial school and the constantly growing church societies. His aim is to provide means for the erection of a church that will be in keeping with this most progressive por tion of the city. It is to be one of the finest churches in point of architecture and size in the Scranton diocese.

Started on Double Turn.

Such an amount of work through or ders daily arriving has accumulated at the Lackawamaa Knitting mills that the management has set a double turn going. This is most cheerful news and the best feature of it is its prospect of continuing for some time. The silk mills are working more than the regu lar hours daily, some of the depart ments of the Sauquoit mill being in operation until late at night. The steel mills are working night and day; every industry but the coal mines is in full blast, and the people are consequently happy. Another encouraging matter is the erection of so many buildings, the carpenter's hammer being heard on almost every street.

Honors for a Former South Sider. Recently Richard A. Keenan paid a visit to former friends on the South Side, Mr. Keenan settled near Rock Springs, Wyoming, in a small town called Hopkins. He grew up with the country and Hopkins has enlarged to a fine inland city. As a progressive citizen he became identified with its growth, and a few weeks ago was growth, and a few weeks ago was chosen mayor, an honor which his Woman in Scranton South Side friends will join in wishing to be only the first in a series of future

Tomorrow evening the Welsh Baptist church will take its "Trip to Europe." This opera is brimfull of laughing feacomic dialogues and beautifu tures, solos, duetts and choruses. The "Sea lick" chorus, in which all the party are down with sea-sickness, is very realistic. An excellent concert will be held on board the ship before sailing. The "Burlesque Band," a feature of the oncert, will be extremely amusing. The admission is 15 and 25 cents.
