The Mozart band have decided on the new dress uniform they are to have. The material is of a dark olive green, broad cloth, the coats are to be made in the sack pattern, quite long, and the breeches are to be tastefully trimmed with gold braid, and the sleeves will be ornamented by the exhibition of the trousers are of the ordinary kind, with wide, silk braid on the outside seam, and the cap is a "beaver" and will set the suits off admirably. It is made of genuine black velvet, patterned high with a small peak, on the left side, and an overlap with the word "Mozart" in gold letters. The whole will be surrounded with a plume of red feathers. While the suit is not exactly it will go somewhat with the exhibition, which they render, and Carbondale may feel proud of the band.

Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Smith's little 8-year-old grandson had the misfortune to shoot himself in the leg last Friday with a revolver he had found about the house. Quite a bad flesh wound was made. The bullet was probed for but was not found. The little fellow is out, and in a fair way to be as sound and lively as ever in a few days.

J. T. Bush is working at Dalton, repairing the feed mill of Francis & Derheimer.

There is unmistakable evidence that the section of Factoryville borough on the north side of the railroad is of very little importance to the borough, so far as improvements or any outlay of taxes are concerned. But in the matter of valuation and taxation it is second to no other part of the borough, and is closely looked after in that respect.

Dr. Holler's old house has been repaired.

NOVEL QUESTION OF LAW

Is Curing by Faith in the Case of John A. Dowie Genuine?

STATEMENTS OF WITNESSES

Many Persons Take Oath That Prayer Has Completely Healed Them—What the Skeptics Say—Important Law Case in Chicago.

[Concluded from Page 1.]

He makes his defense on the truthfulness of his works. He cites as a great miracle the result of his prayer for Sadie Cody. She swears that by some mysterious power her left leg was healed, after three months' disableness, to enable her to walk without a limp. Her relatives verify her story.

Miss Cody was carried into the home in a stretch, taken from the train a helpless, disabled woman. The people of her Indian town told her she would die among strangers. She came to the tubercle in her extremity. She asserts that all the physicians in the town had pronounced her incurable for the grave, and swore before a notary that Dr. C. A. David, in State street, had declared her beyond the assistance of medical science. Conviction that she was to be instantly healed, reads the affidavit, came the moment she became a resident member of the singing, praying band. She so told Mr. Dowie, but he sent her to a room to spend a season with her Bible. Others were sent to the same room, and prayer lasted two days, and then the preacher concluded the time had come for the laying on of hands. Miss Cody was carried to the house of healing and placed upon the sofa.

Mr. Dowie listened to her confession of faith and then prayed, so did Miss Cody. Mr. Dowie concluded his ministrations by a command to "arise and walk in the name of the Lord." Miss Cody describes in her affidavit that she felt within her some terrific force. She struggled, and arising, stood upon her feet. She walked across the room, the first time she had stood without assistance in a year. Within eight weeks, she says, she left the home a well woman.

She came to Chicago from Morris Hill, to bear witness to the genuineness of the cures of Mr. Dowie.

Schooner's Statement Attacked.

William Schooner is a merchant in Argus, Ind. The miracle which he says was worked upon him consisted in the immediate restoration of the power of his legs. Dowie's neighbors in Edgewood, Ind., testified that he made the affidavit for pay, and charge that the demonstration was a hippodrome. He alleges he was carried from a secondary home to the healing room in the mail-building on Monday. He arose at the conclusion of the first prayer from the lips of the preacher and "was then and there able to do and did rise up without any assistance at the command of John Alexander Dowie to walk in the name of the Lord."

George W. Blazg, whose house is across the way, witnessed the so-called miracle. He hoots at its genuineness, declaring that the procession of singing people which followed Schooner were dupes and parties to a scheme to make an impression on the neighborhood to the end that hostilities might end. Owing to the opposition claim that Schooner was paid to be leading the procession.

Mrs. Margaret C. Stafford and Miss Black, who live at 481 Oden avenue, have been listed by Mr. Dowie's opposition as people who have fared ill at his hands. They were forced to bring suit in court to get payment on a note for money loaned. This transaction cost them time and worry and money, and upon that score it was insisted they would deny the asylum and repudiate the tubercle. But they both uphold Dowie and his methods.

Mr. John Hayden was brought from Dixor by her husband to be treated for blindness. One eye was completely darkened and the other less than half useful. Mr. Dowie opened both, according to the affidavit of witnesses. It is recorded under oaths of the members of the congregation that with the fall-zed of the scales there also came a violation which stripped the body of locomotor staxia. The chapter dealing with her case recites that she was carried into the healing room by her husband and her maid. People who saw her believed she was truthful in claiming to be helpless, and they profess to have been startled to see her walking from the room within a few moments. She had prayed in her faith, the muscular affliction passed in an instant and the eyes gradually received the light.

The Case of Mrs. Young.

Mrs. Amanda Young has contributed a cushion and a set of braces to the gallery of trophies which Mr. Dowie produces as evidence of the success of his practice. They are nailed to the wall of the sanctuary behind his pulpit, forming a part of a series of trophies which completely hides the plaster in this end. She refers to the trophies discarded as proof that the prayers were powerful in her case. She lives at 640 Oden avenue, and insists the neighborhood know full well she is a helpless cripple.

The cushion was for her back and the braces for her spine. Physicians, says Mrs. Young in her enthusiasm, advised an operation to save her life. She refused to submit. She conceived divine healing as a last resort and sat a hopeless listener to Mr. Dowie in the tubercle. The appointed moment came. All the surgical appliances were removed and she has no doubt her good health and ability to come from a confirmed invalid to a strong woman was due entirely to prayer.

Mr. Dowie has also affidavits from his few holders to help him prove to doubters that it is not essential that he be at the side of the afflicted. Thomas Winkler, of 609 Dickey street, has contributed several pages from the court on this point. Having learned of the modern wonders in the tubercle from the lips of Mr. Dowie, he proceeded to have all his family and relatives brought to the understanding. Clifford Kilpatrick, of Dickinson county, Iowa, is his first convert. He is a brother-in-law. He was down with heart disease—so low all business had been abandoned. He came to the Edgerton avenue Mecca to "learn the teaching."

There was one season of prayer with the ministrations of the hands, and both the patient and his advocate swear he went back to his farm without an ailment. Mr. Dowie continued to pray for him across two states and Mr. Kilpatrick writes he has become as a man who has discovered the fountain of perpetual youth. His affidavit has no vouchers.

Another Strange Case.

Dr. Eanger Brown has had opportunity to know exactly all the details leading to one of the most remarkable claims which ever came out of Zion. It is the instance of Annie Schaeffer. Her declaration, which have been widely spread by the preacher, are to the effect that Dr. McGraw, Oxner, Sangor, Brown, Turk, Tinning, and Ryan had attended her. She says she was as helpless as a babe, unable to move her arms, legs or feet without disabbling the joints. Cook county hospital doctors gave her strychnine hyperdermically for seven months. She was pronounced incurable.

She Brown, in the remarkable affidavit of the woman, took her before the association of physicians—some sixty in number—who united in a verdict Miss Schaeffer had "idiopathic muscular atrophy," which is the scientific name for the trouble the girl, in simplicity, described. She returned to the home of Mrs. Buchanan, 62 West Van Buren street. There her attention was called to the divine healing institution. She begged to be driven there. She met Mr. Dowie in the tubercle. He asked the condition of her faith. She replied she believed in prayer. This was accepted as a symptom pointing to a healing. The preacher prayed, and from that moment Miss Schaeffer has not known legs or feet pain. This is what she swears on a Bible.

Henry Greenbaum, who lives in the midst of the homes, has no confidence in the stories or affidavits of the people who have lived to the day. He took the assembly of unfortunates has made life very miserable in the locality, out, aside from this objection, reason the claims of the congregation are preposterous, illogical, barbarous and menacing to the science of the day. "Whether Dr. Dowie is right or he is wrong," he argues, "if Dr. Dowie is right, then, in my opinion, we are pretty near the time of the millennium, and we stand a fair show, without any great deal of establishing the kingdom upon earth, if all these sick people can be cured by faith and prayer what is the use of having any medical colleges? What is the use of having any drug stores? According to Dr. Dowie, it is sinful to take any medicine at all. There would be no need of the medical profession.

"More than that, if ailments of the body can be cured by faith it is logical to say that any deficiency in morals or intellect can be cured by the same divine dispensation. It is logical to say that any ailment of the mind or body can be cured by faith and prayer what is the use of having any medical colleges? What is the use of having any drug stores? According to Dr. Dowie, it is sinful to take any medicine at all. There would be no need of the medical profession.

"The Argument of Skepticism.

"Now then, as I understand it, all that is necessary is to have faith. If this proposition is correct, then we are all profane, and in our hands of faith we have been in the wrong direction. Instead of following up scientific research we should have built up faith as a cure for all ills of every kind. If these things can be accomplished by faith, why do we need the medical profession in the same agency. That being the case, in my opinion, we would have no need even of newspapers. When we go to bed at night we will simply pray to the Lord to put us in possession of all the goods of this world, and we will in some way be removed and find ourselves in New York city. It is true that everybody don't agree upon the efficacy of prayer in this way. It is said that General Lee always prayed for success in his evening preceding a battle. The rebellion did not succeed, notwithstanding.

Completing a Canal by Prayer.

"I know there are statements in the Bible of wonderful results of prayer. These are legends, biblical legends, and like all legends must not be taken literally. The Jews have prayed for 1,800 years for a return to Palestine and it did not avail them. True it is that they addressed their petitions to the God of Israel and did not appeal to the Lord Jesus. I hold that if faith and prayer will accomplish what Dr. Dowie claims it will, then instead of paying out $100,000 per year for pensions, all that would be necessary is to give the veterans a month's pension and by the agency of prayer all of them could spend all the money they pleased as long as they lived and the amount on which they pockets would always remain the same. We would not have to spend $300,000,000 to build the canal. All we would have to do is to have faith in Jesus and pray fervently to give us that ditch by divine agency, and behold it would be completed in twenty-four hours. I do not know anything about the history of any one specific case, but I do know that there are a whole lot of foolish people in the world who do many foolish things."

"How to Cure All Skin Diseases.

"Simply apply 'Swain's Ointment.' No internal medicine required. Cures tetter, eczema, itch, all eruptions on the face, hands, nose etc., leaving the skin clear, white and healthy. Its great healing and curative powers are possessed by no other remedy. Ask your druggist for Swain's Ointment.
