CAVEAT WAS NOT FILED

Question of Veracity Between Atherton and His Deputy.

TESTIMONY OF THE PORMER

Says Mr. Ake ly Told Him He Threw the Caveat in the Waste Basket -Mr. Ackerty Denies That He Did Anything of the Kind.

There were developments of a somewhat sensational nature yesterday in a hearing in the office of Attorneys Hulslander & Vosburg, before Attorney W. F. Boyle, sitting as commissioner.

Some time ago court granted a rule to show cause why James Nichols should not be allowed to file a caveat against the probating of the will of his father, the late Dr. Hiram Nichols, of Clark's Summit, and have it marked as if filed Oct. 5, 1886. Attorney Boyle was appointed to take testimony on this rule and yesterday was the first hearing held.

Dr. Hiram Nichols died about Sept. 28, 1886, and in his will disinherited his son, James Nichols, who says that on Oct. 5 he directed Attorney W. W. Watson to file a caveat against the probating of the will. The paper cannot now be found in the register of wills' office, and to replace it the present proceedings were begun, Mr. Nichols maintaining that at the time the caveat was filed the will of his father had not been offered for probate. Mr. McGinley's Testimony.

Attorney M. A. McGinley swore that n October, 1886, he was a law student in the office of Attorney W. W. Wat-son, who asked him about Oct. 5, of that rear, to take a caveat in the Nichola case to the register of wills office and have it filed. He obeyed instructions and gave the paper to Deputy Register of Wills B. F. Akerly. A Mr. Clark testified that by directions of James Nichols he went to Attorney Watson's office to have the caveat filed, and then A. A. Atherton, who was register of wills in 1886 was called to the stand. He said that his deputy, Mr. Akerly, told him that Mr. McGinley brought n a caveat in the Nichols case, and that he, Akerly, threw it into the waste basket and did not file it as directed. James Hopkins, the present deputy egister of wills, testified that he had made diligent search for the caveat, out was unable to find it among the archives of the office. An adjournment was taken until Saturday, when the testimony of Attorney W. W. Watson will be heard. Attorneys Hulslander & Vosburg represent James Nichols and Attorney R. H. Holgate the will.

Will Be Attncked. When Dr. Nichols died he left a property valued at upwards of $15,000. If James Nichole succeeds in getting the court to allow him to file the caveat as of Oct. 5, 1886, he will make an effort to have the will set aside on the ground that his father was not of sound mind when the will was made and that he was subject to undue influence.

Attorney B. F. Akerly was seen by a Tribune reporter after the hearing yes-terday and he denied in emphatic terms that he had thrown the caveat into the waste basket when it was brought to him to file. He said that on Oct. 6, 1886, the Nichols will was admitted to probate and a day or two later the caveat in question was brought to the office by Mr. McGinley. He told him that it was too late, as the will had been admitted to probate and that other steps would have to be taken.

Caveat Was Not Filed.

The caveat was not filed for the reason that it would do no good to take such action with regard to it at that time. He placed it carefully among the papers of the office after calling Register Atherton's attention to it, and it was among the papers of the office when he severed his relations with Mr. Atherton a few months later.

Dr. Nichols was the husband of Mrs. Sarah Nichols, whose will has also been contested by the children. The matter ow awaits the decision of Register Hopkins.

LOWER COURT AFFIRMED.

Decisions Handed Down by the Supremi Court at Philadelphia. The supreme court at its sitting in Philadelphia yesterday handed down opinions in a large number of Lackawanna county cases.

In the case of Connecton against the Delaware and Hudson Canal company the judgment of the lower court was affirmed. This is a victory for the company, which was represented by ex-Judge W. H. Jessup. Attorney S. B. Price was attorney for the plaintiff, who was a well known resident of Bellevue and sued to recover damage for the death of his daughter, Miss Katle Connerton, who was killed at the Dodgetown crossing of the defendant company while returning from work

The judgment of the lower court was also affirmed in the cuit of John D. Boyle's Sons against the Hamburg Fire keeurance company to recover on poll-cies held with the company for stock destroyed by fire in their store at Dunmore. Willard, Warren & Knapp were the attorceys for the plaintiff and Jes-sups & Hand for the company. The decision of the supreme court de-cides the case in favor of the plaintiff, and the company will have to pay the amount in dispute.

In the suit of Jones against the Erie and Wyoming Valley Railroad company the court below was affirmed, which is a victory for the company. It was the last case decided by Judge Smith before retiring from the bench. Attorneys H. M. Hannah and S. B. Price were counsel for the plaintiff and Willard and Warren for the company. The decision ends litigation of several years' standing. Judgment was affirmed in the action of the New York, Ontario and Western Land company against Weldner and a similar decision was rendered in the case of the Delaware and Hudson Canal company against Genet, which is a vic-tory for the latter. Major Everett Warren was attorney for Genet, and ex-Judge W. H. Jessup for the com-

Lackawanna County's School System Is Steadily Improving.

HE COMMENDS THE PARR BILL

Believes That in Mining Towns Comput sory Attendance Is Necessary-School Terms Are Being Lengthened and Salaries of Teachers Increasing.

County Superintendent of Schools J C. Taylor, as required by law, has sent his annual report to the state department. It contains very interesting information, and is written in terse, vigorous style. The rules of the department limit the yearly report of county superintendents to 600 words. It is as follows:

Dr. N. C. Schaeffer, Superintendent of Public Instruction, Harrisburg, Pa. Dear Sir—I have the honor to submit the following report for the year ending June 3, 1895. While we have made no startling changes in our work, we be-lieve that our schools are steadily im-proving. The school terms are grownger and salaries are rising in many districts. There is a growing demand for better teachers. In several cases trained teachers have been chosen, rather than others having strong local influence but poorer qualifications. Never before have there been so many students from this county attending academies, col-leges and normal schools but I am sorry to say that many positions are still secured by the use of so-called "po-litical" influence without regard to qual-ifications. Until all our directors rise above personal considerations and choose the best teachers that apply, we cannot have such schools as our chil-

New School Buildings. In Lackawanna township at Moosic, a fine six-room house, costing about $8,000, has been built; in Jermyn, a handsome four room high schoolhouse, with Smead, Wills & Co.'s system, has been erected at a cost of about $6,000; in Old Forge, a model two-room house, Smead system, at $4,000; in Fell, a substantial two-room house for $2,500, and in Scott a one-room building for $1,000. All these buildings have large, lofty, well-lighted rooms, modern furniture and slate blackboards. Outhouses are in a much better condition than they were two years ago, but there are some school boards that in this respect are neglectful of their duty.

I have visited every school in the county this year, and many a second time. Eighty-one directors accompan-ied me at different times. In too many cases it was probably the only visit made by the directors during the year. Everywhere the need of closer super-vision is apparent. Where supervising principals are employed, better and more uniform work is done. Inquiries sent to all teachers in the county about children out of school show that at-tendance is better in farming districts than in mining towns.

Many country teachers reported "No children under 16 years out of school; but from mining towns long lists of children under that age out of school were sent to me. A compulsory attendance law, properly enforced, will be a great blessing in many mining towns. Night Schools Opened.

To remedy this non-attendance evil, public night schools have been opened in all our mining towns, and continue from two to four months each year. But even the night schools are to some extent an evil. for they induce some parents to send their children to work two or three years sooner than they otherwise would. Where competent teachers are hired for night schools, much good work is done; in other cases the money is wasted.

Our annual institute was held in The Scranton teachers held a separate institute, which reduced our enrollment to 290. Instructors were Dr. N. C. Schaeffer, Dr. E. E. White, Dr. S. H. Schaeffer, Dr. E. E. White, Dr. S. H. Albro, Dr. E. O. Lyte, Professor C. H. Albert, Professor F. M. Loomis, Professor J. M. Eppstein, and Miss Lelia E Partidge and Miss Gertrude M. Edmund. No stronger corps ever appeared before the teachers of this county. Evening entertainments were: A lecture, "Character Building," by Dr. John B. DeMotte, and a concert by Amphian Ladies' Quartette. Many who heard Dr. DeMotte said it was the best lecture they ever heard.

Meeting of Directors. The second annual meeting of the Directors' association was held on Tuesthe State Appropriation be Used?" and "Educational Influences of School Outhouses and School Grounds." Discussion was free, and many took part. The sion was free, and many took part. The new officers of the association are: President, Thomas Hunter; vice presidents, John L. Stone and T. J. Jennings; secretary, B. J. Cummings; treasurer, Horace Seamans; executive committee, T. J. Jennings, Henry Myers, L. G. Colvin, M. J. Horan and Thomas Department. G. Colvin, M. J. Horan and Thomas Donnelly. On motion of F. L. Wormser it was decided that steps should be taken toward forming a State Directors' association, and the following were ap-pointed a committee for that purpose: F. L. Wormser, R. H. Holgate, T. J.

Kielty, James J. O'Malley ad C. D. San-

At the county institute Page's Theory and Practice of Teaching was adopted for study during the year. Local institutes were held at Moscow, Elmhurst, Old Forge, Carbondale, Mayfield, Jermyn, and Dickson, Music was introduced into the schools of Olyphant, Blakely, Jermyn and Dickson, and drawing into the schools of Archbald.

Association of Teachers

Association of Teachers.

The County Teachers' association held its fourth annual meeting at Scranton. March 2, 1885. Addresses were delivered by Professor R. N. Davis, of Archbald; Professor E. L. Kemp, of Stroudsburg; Professor George W. Twitmeyer, of Honesdale; Mrs. Lucy Booth, of Scranton, and Professor Edward G. Ward, of Brooklyn.

At the close of the year an examination was held for scholars who had completed the common branches. Seventy candidates were examined, and thirty-four, having made an average of 89 four, having made an average of 80 per cent. or above, received the common school diploma. While this plan of graduation in comon branches may be open to some objections, it has had a beneficial effect upon many of our schools. It has aroused enthusiasm and created a friendly rivalry among the several districts. It has kept pupils in school who, otherwise, would have dropped out, and has drawn attention

A comparison of results for the past two years shows that the plan is grow ing in popular favor. Last year ther ing in popular favor. Lass year there were 128 pupils in the central examination, 36 in the final, and 14 diplomas granted. This year 234 pupils took the central examination, 70 the final, and 34 diplomas were granted. It seems to be a good thing for common school pupils to have a mark to aim at, and I do not believe it will sufficient consists. not believe it will militate against higher education.

Death of William Masters. On June 13, 1895, William Masters, of Jefferson, was killed in a railroad accident; he was secretary of the Jefferson school board, and an easnest friend to education. In him Jefferson jost an honest, straightforward man a good citizen, and an able school director. Very respectfully submitted,

J. C. TAYLOR, Superintendent of Schools of Lackawanna County.
