ROUNDING UP HOLMES' PALS

The Chicago Police Make Still Another Arrest.

VISITORS SWARM THE CASTLE

Scheme of an Entertaining Jeweler. Weaving the Nets of Evidence. Lawyer Shoemaker Threatens an Alibi-The Canadians Slumber.

Chicago, July 29.—Fully 5,000 curious people visited Sixty-third and Wallace streets yesterday and sought admission to Holmes' castle. Enterprising jewelers have equipped part of the drug store in the building, had made arrangements to admit visitors on payment of a 10-cent fee and expected to reap a rich harvest, but the police heard of it and forbade admission to the building above the first floor.

The information given by the mechanic, Charles M. Chappelle, who was examined by the inspector yesterday, is undoubtedly the most valuable that has been obtained. Another arrest was made yesterday, that of H. S. Mack, who worked for Holmes during the last six months he lived in the Sixty-third street house. The police have been looking for him since Friday, and they admit that they have the most important witness they have yet rounded up. They are certain that he knows all about Pat Quinlan and his wife and their connection with Holmes from certain admissions he has made to friends.

The inspector and Chief Badenoch say they have sufficient evidence to convict Holmes and Quinlan, and as the present grand jury will be the last one until September, it is being made to get the evidence in shape to present to that body before its adjournment. From present indications it is likely that the matter will be laid before the grand jury tomorrow.

Summing up the gist of the police work yesterday, it may be said on the authority of the police that they expect to hang Pat Quinlan, H. H. Holmes, the man Harris, alias Ziegler, and James C. Allen, the Little Rock convict, before they finish with the castle.

Skeletons Not Perfect. The skeletons mounted by Chappelle are not perfect. Inspector Fitzpatrick said this morning that he expected to get the remainder of them, but would not tell from what source.

Medical experts pronounce the skeletons as having belonged to two girls about the age of 20 and a woman of middle age. Not all the teeth were removed, and the police hope that there may be some sort of identification from those which remain. He is not at all certain that the bones belong to Holmes' victims. As an insurance winder nothing would have been more natural than for him to have procured the skeletons and then have their skeletons articulated as an extra course of revenue.

The market price of a human frame, when neatly mounted, ranges from $40 to $50, and the furnaces in the cellar, which it is believed were used for bending plate glass, would have been placed to hold the bodies and dispose of the flesh. Patrick Quinlan still maintains a sturdy front.

As Important Development. Philadelphia, July 29.—The confession of Cephus Humphrey, the colored Chicago expressman, made yesterday to the police in this city, in which he stated that he had been employed by Holmes to remove several packages that apparently contained human bodies, is accepted by the authorities here as an important development in the mysterious case and one that is apt to upset several of the theories of the police and the district attorney.

Correspondence is going on between the district attorney and the authorities at Chicago, but the Toronto end of the case is about dropped, as the chance of securing a conviction there are considered to be far less than at Chicago. Lawyer Shoemaker, who represents Holmes, stated today that he had visited his client at the county prison and conversed with him.

Can Prove an Alibi. "I had a long talk with my client," said he, "and while it would be unwise and unprofessional to make public the result of the conference, I can say that if the western authorities do not discontinue making charges against Holmes he will soon be charged with having been directly responsible for every mysterious disappearance of a man, woman and child that the police of all cities have failed to unravel. We are prepared at this moment to prove an alibi in every case thus far brought against Holmes, and both myself and my client would welcome any legal action that would be taken to clear up the answer the charge of having murdered any one in this city or elsewhere. Chicago seems to be anxious to secure him and any case that the authorities there have against him we can meet."

Holmes and his long known wife are the joint owners of several pieces of property in Chicago and elsewhere, and Mr. Shoemaker, at their request, is negotiating to convert this into cash for the purpose of being prepared to meet the expenses of a trial.

Discovery in the Cellar. Chicago, July 29.—Workmen digging in the basement of the building at the corner of a corner of the cellar at bones four of which were small and the others about six inches in length. Dr. Robinson, the druggist, gave it as his opinion that the small bones were those of a human being, but the others were not. Most of the day was devoted to trying to locate the hidden vault, in which Machinist Chappelle told the police Holmes was accustomed to put bodies. The work was very slow, and was still further delayed by the crowd which had to be occasionally driven back by an extra detail of police, which was called out for that purpose.

The secret tunnel, described by Mrs. Sylvester, of Kansas City, was also looked for, but as yet has not been found.

People who know Dr. Russler in Englewood say he disappeared suddenly in 1893, and some adhere to the theory that he met death in the chamber house. He had an office in Holm's building, and the two men were often seen together. The doctor's disappearance

FRENCH REPUBLICANS.

Riots in Several Places at Elections of the Councils. Paris, July 29.—The elections of members of the councils-general have resulted in the Republicans gaining three-quarters of the seats. There were several election fights at various places in the province. At Roubaix, in the department of the north, there was a collision between the Republicans and the Collectivists, and the gendarmes had to charge repeatedly before the disturbance was quelled. A number of persons were injured, and several were arrested. Serious rioting, accompanied by bloodshed, are reported to have occurred at Barbantane, near Marseilles. BOYS FIGHT A DUEL.

Scions of Kentucky Families Do Battle Over a Love Affair. Marietta, Ky., July 29.—A few months ago Charles Enlow and Charles Duffin had some difficulty over a girl to whom both were attached. Today they met in the road near this place and fought it out with knives, with the result that Enlow is dead and Duffin will not survive the night. The battle was a determined one. The youths were armed with pocket knives, and at the first onslaught Enlow nearly severed Duffin's right arm at the wrist. The latter shifted his knife to the other hand, and at the next moment he had a blow on Enlow's neck and pierced one of his lungs. The duellists finally fell to the ground, where they continued to hack each other until Enlow was dead. Passers-by found Duffin unconscious from loss of blood and in a dying state, a question of a few hours at best. He was given a preliminary hearing at his bedside, and was held in bonds of $5,000 in the event that he recovers. The evidence showed that he was forced into the fight.

BOUND TO WEAR BLOOMERS.

Lillian Russell Rides Her Wheel in the Country to Please the Prudes. Great Neck, L. I., July 29.—Lillian Russell, who is spending the summer at a resort near this place, has yielded a point in deference to the prejudice of Great Neck people, who are opposed to her wearing bloomers. She is bound to wear her daily spin on a bicycle she orders her carriage and drives to a point several miles from here, taking with her a companion. Her mode of the woods, she mounts her wheel in bloomer attire and spends a couple of hours at her favorite exercise. It is noticed of late that a number of young men have a fondness for going out in the same direction where the actress takes to the wheel.

QUAY'S FIGURES SHRINK.

His Supporters Now Claim Only 11 Majority—This Is a Big Drop from the Senator's Claim of a Fortnight Ago. Philadelphia, July 29.—The men who are helping Quay conduct his fight, today clipped off thirty-one votes from the majority of forty-two, figured out by ex-Chairman Thomas V. Cooper. They informed their inside workers that Quay's bedrock number of delegates is 156. As it will require 145 to nominate, this leaves the narrow margin of eleven majority.

QUAY CAPTURES COLUMBIA

Philadelphia, July 29.—C. L. Magee, the Pittsburgh leader of the Hastings forces, was here again today. Mr. Magee again denied that the Hastings people would entertain any proposition for a compromise, and that Allegheny county's twenty-three votes will be given to Senator Quay to the end. Senator Quay today addressed a letter to E. D. Bingham, chairman of the Chester county committee, requesting that the Republican electors of Chester county be given opportunity to vote for their choice for state chairman at the primaries next month. Mr. Bingham replied to Mr. Quay to the effect that their rules do not provide for the submission of the names of candidates for state offices to the popular vote. Mr. Bingham added, however, that he had written to Mr. Gilkeson informing him of Mr. Quay's request, and that if Mr. Gilkeson also desired it the question will be submitted to the electors.
