WON BY ONE RUN.

Toronto at Springfie

unton Wins by an Eyelash in the Ninth from the Rochesters, Who Had Supposed the Game Safe After O'Brien's Home Run in the Seventh.

Scranton won from Rochester Saturday by a narrow margin in the ninth inning. It was a game of reverses, being lost by Bannon's errors in the secand and third innings, and then finally won on a hit by that same fast little player, Rochester having already won in the seventh by O'Brien's home run, which pushed Daly in ahead of him. While frequent mention is made of Bannon's errors, they are excuseable, considering that he is out of his accustomed position.

The game was marked by an absence of the misfit plays which featured the all-around circus contest of Friday, and the victory can be credited principally to Luby, who twirled in championship form. Duryea, however, was obliged to itch with a patch over his injured left eye, and this certainly handicappe im in his work, both in the box and at Rochester got two men on third and scond bases in the first inning, but Tighe popped up an easy one to Huson. In the second Breckinridge made two-bagger, reached third on Bannon's poor assist to Huston, and scored bases—Stricker 2, Dowse 2, Shearon 3, Detroit, of the Western league, but on Berger's single. Keenan flew out to Wise. First base on balls—Off McGinnis. Huston. Smith made a neat running catch of Duryea's fly and doubled Ber-

Scranton Gains and Loses the Lend. Scranton got a lead of one run in the last of the second on Huston's bunt, Meaney's triple and Rogers' single and increased the lead in the third inning on Bannon's single and steal, and Huston's two-bagger. Scranton failed to score again until the ninth, Rochester meanwhile securing a lead of one tally by a run in the fourth, and two in the seventh on O'Brien's homer, which was made possible by the strong wind blowing across the field, and which carried the ball over the rightfield fence, near the foul-flag.

In the last inning Smith singled and Ward flew out to Breckinridge. Eagan sent a warm one along the ground to center. Smith sprinting to third and Eagan getting second on the throw. Bannon pushed one of the dew-drop kind over Breckinridge's head, which mith plenty of time to score, but which allowed Eagan to reach the plate by an evelash.

"I was tempted to give that a fellow a scavere caning," said "Freeze" Bogert, the Wilkes-Barre president, referring to Curt Welch. ### CATCHER ROGERS RELEASED.

Big Bill" Schriever, Late of the New Yorks, Is Signed-President Powers Settles the Sweeney Controversy in Favor of Scranton and the State League Shortstop Will Report at Once.

Catcher Emmet Rogers, of the Scran on club, has been released, and in his place has been signed "Big Bill" Schriever, who, up to ten days ago, wa with the New Yorks. of the National league. This announcement was made known in base ball circles last night, and, along with the statement that Shortstop Sweeney, late of the Allentowns, would be here by tomorrow at the latest, created much discussion. Putting aside all personal feelings for Rogers, who is a popular and gentle manly player, the change will redound 6; Syracuse, 10. First base on balls—Off Coakley, 5; off Kilroy, 6. Struck out—By Coakley, 4; by Kilroy, 0. Two-base hits to the general benefit of the club. It is possible that Rogers' release may occasion adverse comment among an ele-ment who will look upon the matter from a personal standpoint and be blased on that account. But to many close students of the game it is appar ent that the change will be for the best. and sticker, but his throwing to bases has never been better than fair, and he is not a fast runner, and aside from his ability to cover an emergency position in the outfield he cannot be mentioned Scriever Will Play Today. Schriever is expected to arrive from New York on this afternoon's 1.07 Lackawanna train and will eatch both the outfield with Luby or Meaney. With Sweeney in the game, Eagan, Bannon and Smith will play steadily in the outfield, except during an occasional game when Smith relieves Schriever, at which times Luby or Meaney will be utilized.

This new order of things seems to be a complete vindication of the charges from certain sources that Aleck Smith was incapable. Smith, in the eyes of persons competent to judge, seems every inch a ball player. He is a catcher, of course, but he can creditably fill any position, excepting that of a pitcher. At stealing and running bases and in covering territory he is remarkably quick, and his throwing ability was demonstrated recently in throw from rightfield to third, and from center to the plate in a manner calculated to make an impression upon the cranks who were privileged to witness the feats. His ability to use the stick is best shown by his last five games, in three of which he made two hits, and in two games three hits.

"Big Bill" Schriever needs no introduction to the old-time fans, who remember the big catcher's playing with Dan O'Leary's Scranton Indians. has been six years in the National league, and at his own request was let go by New York. He was wanted by Milwaukee, St. Paul, Grand Rapids and President Powers at Manager Barnie's request. Schiever perfers this city because he is known here, and considers the Eastern league the fastest in the country outside the National. About the Sweeney Muddle. The secret of Shortstop Sweeney's failure to report in Scranton can be attributed to the Rochester owners, who took all manner of chances to secure him and finally led Sweeney to inning. Harper was master of the ball, and the Stars made but three hits from believe that he had no legal right to sign with the Scranton club. It was natural that Sweeney hesitated to get himself into hot water by signing with either club until the matter was settled by President Powers. Rochester claims that on July 24 Sweeney had no right to make terms with Scranton, as he was not then reeased by Allentown. However, that point seems to have been settled by Mr. cinnati yesterday, which permits Brooklyn to slip into sixth place by a Powers, and Sweeney will play with Scranton at least until President scant margin, and by Chicago's defeat Powers changes his decision. The Scranton management has telegraphed by St. Louis the Bostons are enabled to go from fifth to fourth. Cleveland. Pittsburg and Baltimore are practical-Sweeney that it will protect him in all that transpires in the future, so it is ly tied in first place and Brooklyn, of the second division, is making the
