A FIEND AND A STILETTO

Two Girls Stabbed by an Italian Shoemaker.

GIAMPATA'S TERRIBLE CRIME

He Plunges a Knife into the Bodies of His Helpless Victims Over and Over Again--Sad Result of Unlawful Love.

New York, Aug. 8.--A double tragedy was enacted on the sidewalk in front of 325 East Eighty-eighth street at 11:55 o'clock today, when an Italian stabbed two women repeatedly with a stiletto, inflicting wounds from which both will in all probability die.

Giampata having wreaked his demoniac wrath on Kate, turned to Rosa, who stood by the sidewalk, and seized her by the throat and drove the keen weapon into her body over and over again.

Before he reached the corner, however, he was taken into custody by Policeman Lidel. Lidel called two other policemen and sent them back to look for the girls. They found them where the stiletto was thrown.

The cause which led to the tragedy goes back two years, when Kate Wells, then about 16 years of age, met Giampata and fell in love with him, although he had a wife living.

He still loved her, and pursued her with his attentions, following her on the street and bothering about her home, until on July 2 last she procured a warrant for his arrest.

He still persisted in annoying her and yesterday she again caused his arrest. When arranged before Magistrate Mott this morning, Kate complained that he annoyed her when he met her on the street, and that he persisted in asking her to return to him.

JUSTICE JACKSON DEAD.

The Eminent Jurist Passes Away at Nashville, Tenn.--History of His Judicial Career.

Nashville, Tenn., Aug. 8.--Howell Edmunds Jackson, associate justice of the supreme court of the United States, died at 2 p. m. today at his residence at West Mead, six miles from this city, aged 63. Judge Jackson had been in failing health for several years, but it had been only in the last nine months that the progress of the disease began to cause his family and friends uneasiness.

Nevertheless Judge Jackson did not take to his bed until eight days ago. Judge Jackson was twice married and his wife and seven children survive him.

Howell E. Jackson was the son of an eminent physician of Jackson, Tenn. He was born in Paris, Tenn., April 3, 1832. He was graduated from the University of Virginia with the highest honors.

Judge Jackson served one term on the supreme bench of Tennessee in 1881. He was elected senator from this state at a time when the fight concerning the state's debt was in progress.

Elected senator in 1881, his term did not expire until March 4, 1887, but he was appointed to the United States district court bench by President Cleveland April 12, 1888.

He was appointed to the supreme bench in January, 1889, by President Harrison, and the nomination was confirmed by a Republican senate, notwithstanding he was a staunch Democrat.

Judge Jackson was domestic in his habits and desires. On one occasion, while district judge, he was hearing an argument of a note holder in a case on a question involving a matter of interest. Judge Jackson, in his ruling, decided against the gentleman, who brought forward an authority which he said he hoped would have weight with the court.

It was a report of the senatorial judicial committee on the hearing of a note holder, which was confirmed by a Republican senate, notwithstanding he was a staunch Democrat.

MORE TROUBLE IN CHINA

Shanghai Dispatch Gives Account of Further Outbreaks.

HATRED FOR MISSIONARIES

The Prejudice Against Foreigners is Very Great Among the Native Population. "Vegetarian" Society Unknown to the Legation at Washington.

London, Aug. 8.--A dispatch to the Pall Mall Gazette from Shanghai says it is stated in that city that further fanatical outbreaks against Christians occurred at Ching Chow, Taiping, Hupah and Anhui. It is stated that all the foreigners escaped without injury.

Washington, Aug. 8.--The Chinese legation in this city is still without official information regarding the late outrages by the members of the "Vegetarian" society in China upon the missionaries and of the foreign element residing near Kuchung. The members of the legation claim never to have heard of the "Vegetarians" before. They are believed to be a fanatical sect, whose purposes are political and who have incited the recent troubles in order to excite the Peking government with foreign powers. This being accomplished, they will then inaugurate a rebellion against the constituted authorities and under cover of this commit such atrocities as would be most gratifying to their savage nature.

Prejudice Against Missionaries.

The prejudices against the foreign missionaries among the native population is very great. While the Chinese government is bound by its treaty obligations to protect the missionaries and permit them to carry their faith into the remotest provinces of the empire, it finds itself powerless at times to overcome the feelings of hostility which the majority of the people entertain for foreigners. The social, religious and political life of the Chinese is so interwoven that when a Chinaman abandons the teachings of Buddha or Confucius, he is believed also to have become an enemy of his country.

ASSASSIN RUN TO EARTH.

Boy Follows a Dog into a Barn and is Fired Upon.

Indianapolis, Aug. 8.--Barney Cline is a wealthy farmer of Washington township, this county. A strange dog was noticed yesterday lurking about the barn, and Ernest Cline, a grandson, undertook to investigate. He followed the dog into the barn and as he opened the door he was fired upon from the inside, a load of buckshot carrying away his hat, while his face was badly burned by the flash of powder.

The neighborhood was aroused and a mob of men and boys, heavily armed and re-enforced by dogs, followed in chase, which ended the entire night. This afternoon the assassin was captured near Broad Ripple. He proved to be James Stockton, colored, who recently came from Kentucky. The older citizens had difficulty in preventing a lynching. The Cline family are unable to account for the assault, and the negro offers no explanation.
