Greene, president of the Chicago Lumber company, one of the largest concerns of the city, and his coachman, died together with his coachman, Soren Sorenson, at Highland Park, a suburban summer resort. The two men were out for a walk on the beach, and had taken a large Newfoundland dog along for the purpose of giving him a bath.

After fifteen minutes of the sport, Mr. Greene called to the dog, and it swam toward the boat. Both men leaned over to help it in. Whether one of them slipped or whether the dog proved treacherous, or whether it could not plainly see, for darkness was settling down; but they saw the boat turn over and a moment later heard cries for help.

Mr. Greene could swim and began making his way to the shore. He had not gone ten feet when he turned to look at Sorenson. The coachman was floundering around, and it was apparent that he could not swim. Mr. Greene went to his assistance, and in trying to save his life yielded up his own.

THE QUAY-HASTINGS WAR

Results Following Saturday's Primaries in Doubt.

BOTH SIDES CLAIM VICTORY

York, Perry and Junata Will Probably All Elect Delegates for the Administration—Schnytzkill, as Expected, Votes Solid for Quay.

Philadelphia, Aug. 11.—The result of yesterday's Republican primary elections in the counties of Montgomery, York, Adams, Perry and Junata, and the convention in Schuylkill county, was generally favorable to Senator Quay, and disastrous to the administration. The Schuylkill county convention elected its seven delegates to the state convention with instructions for Quay. Full returns from Montgomery county tonight assure the seven delegates from the county to Quay. No report could be secured tonight from Adams and Junata counties of the actual results there, but the indications from the returns received are that Quay will get the delegates from the two counties. The administration secured Perry county's one delegate, and the result in York county is still doubtful.
