THE SCRANTON TRIBUNE --- SATURDAY MORNING, AUGUST 17, 1895.

Schivera Tent Has Been Erected on the South Side.

SERVICES BEGIN TOMORROW

Determined Effort to Bring the 1896 Christian Endeavor Convention to Seranton-Rev. F. A. Lyne Discusses Sunday Papers.

Undeterred by lack of support from the central city churches, the South Side, the most needy, but heretofore most neglected religious field in Scran-ton for evangelistic work, will hear Schivera, who has but one rival in evangelistic preaching to the masses. The large tent in which the services will be held was raised yesterday and there will be many disappointments if there will be many disappointments if the South Side does not furnish a rethe South Side does not turnish a re-vival greater than ever attended simi-lar work in other sections of the city. The large stretch of canvas with a capacity for many hundred persons is located at the capacity for many hundred persons is located at the corner of Cedar avenue and Brook street, a section of the city thickly populated with steel workers, laborers and others of a class most hungry for religious food and enlight-enment. Schivera reached here yester-day and for three weeks will conduct this style of religions campaign best calculated to reach the most worldly proortunates. Ausic plays an importunfortunates. Music plays an import-ant part in the work; it and the evange-list are a necessary combination, and that the singing will be an attractive feature is best shown in the results of rehearsals which are now being conducted in the Cedar avenue Metho-dist Episcopal church under the direc-tion of H. A. Wolfsohn. The opening meeting will be held tomorrow morning at 19:30 o'clock, and there will be other sotings in the afternoon and evening.

Seranton After the Convention.

In the business—in the aggressive, hustling business energy Scranton has made a reputation and a record un-equalled, comparatively, by any city in the east and by few in the west. This in the east and by lew in true of the spirit of push is more true of the Christian Endeavor societies, probably, than any other religious organization alied to the churches. It has grown and accomplished its purposes where less aggressive societies have Its latest object, and one that ems in a fair way to succeed, is to cure for this city the State Christian ideavor convention of 1896. This car's gathering is at Eric beginning This year's gathering is at Erie beginning next Thursday and the Scranton dele-gates have been chosen for their augu-mentive and persuasive powers as well as for other abilities. Delegates from neighboring counties have been imbued with the spirit of "Scranton in '96" and there will be many disconcentration. with the spirit of "schulden in Joan the test there will be many disappointments if the movement is not successful. The delegation leaves in a special car at 12.10 o'clock, midnight, Welnesday, via the Lackawaana road, arriving in Erle at 8.07 Thursday morning. A committee will meet incoming trains and escort out-of-town delegations to the building

About Sunday Newspapers.

Rev. Fred A. Lyne, formerly assist-ant secretary of the Scranton Young Men's Christian association, but now pastor of the Reformed Episcopal nurch of Detroit, has this to say of the Sunday newspaper: "What about the Sunday newspaper?

Well, it would perhaps be better for every interest if there were none. The publishers would be better off, advertisers would have but ix days inser-tions to pay for instead of seven, and editors, printers and pressmen would secure a more perfect weekly rest. Still the public insist on a Sun-

Pygmalion." The work, of which one representation only was given during the Paris season at the Cercle des Fu-nabules, has been written by MIM. Michel Carre and "Jean Hubert;" the multitude Michel Carre and Jean Hubert, the composer is Francois Thome, well known as composer of many short pleces for orchestra and planoforte. "Jean Hubert" really is Madame Jane May, who has been engaged by Mr. Daly to act the part of Pierrot, hero of the work, which is a topsy-turvy ver-sion of the famous legend. It is said that Miss Baird has been selected finally for the heroine of "Trilby," when that much overrated piece is produced in the London Haymarket theater in October. Edmund Maurice will be the Taffy and Lione Brough the Laird. Young Gerald du Maurier will also have a part. In his latest revival of "Macbeth" at the London Lyceum Sir Henry Irving banished the ghost of Banquo from the banquet scene. The only thing that denoted the supposed presence of the spectre to the audience was a gleam of light upon the vacant chair. The effect s said to have been admirable. The Wilkes-Barre Times says Daniel L. Hart returned today from the High-lands of Navasink, N. J., where he went to meet Stuart Robson's manager and to meet Stuart Ronson's manager and talk over arrangements for the presen-tation of the play (Mr. Hart has just completed for the noted star. The playwright malled the manuscript of the different acts as they were finished to Mr. Robson, who is in Paris. After receiving the first act Mr. Robson wrote that he was pleased with the work and not a line would have to be changed. Mr. Hart has not yet heard from the other three acts, but is expecting a letter every day. Andy Mack, the well-known come-dian, will begin his starring tour in "Myles Aroon" in Scranton a few weeks hence, Mr. Mack is now about the only exponent of the ever-popular line of melo-drama that made Emmel and Scanlon famous. He is a clever actor and possesses a fine voice and upon his tour this season will be sup ported by a first-class company.

Rev. A. Reynolds will preach to a new Baptist congregation at Pittston morrow. The Epworth League Literary society of the Methodist Episcopal church will give an entertainment at the church next Tuesday evening at 7.30 p. m. Silver offerings will be accepted. Everybody is invited. There will be no services at the Methodist Episcopal church tomorrow owing to the illness of the Rev. F. H. Parson, in the great elsteddod. II II II The Wilkes-Barre Record of yester-day contains the following reference to Miss Sadle Kaiser, the Tribune's London correspondent, which will no doubt interest many of our readers: "Miss Sadle Kaiser is gaining many flattering press notices for her excel-lent work in London and other English towns. She has just completed a week's engagement at Leonard's, the fashion-able English watering place, where she added to the laurels she had al-ready won in London. The press re-ports of her work at these concerts are very flattering. The Hastings and St. Leonard's Observer of July 20 says: "Miss Kaiser, who is the fortunate pos-sessor of a beautiful soprano voice, sang ip a most efficient manner "Who's At My Window," (Coborn), this clever vocalist giving later another contribu-tion, "Nymphs et Sylvains" (Remberg), for which she gained a weil-merited en-core." The Hastings Times of the same date says: "The vocalist was Miss Sadle Kaiser, who possesses a very sweet soprano, and was encored." The Hastings and St. Leonard's Advertiser of July 25 has this to say of Miss Kais-er's work: "The only vocalist on this occasion was Miss Sadle Kaiser, a talodist Episcopal church tomorrow owing to the illness of the Rev. F. H. Parson, the regular pastor. There will be a woods camp meeting at Fell's Grove commencing this eve-ning under the auspices of the African Methodist Episcopal church. O. T. Davis, pastor. The object of the meet-ing is two-fold: First, to afford all churches and creeds an opportunity to come together and serve the Lord in God's first temple. Second, to secure assistance from their many friends for the support of the church. Eminent ministers will be present to conduct the meeting. Good singing to entertain the audience. Services will be held at 10.30 a. m., 2.30 and 7.30 p. m.

The people of Jerusalem resembled the Welsh in several things, and today, when Judge Edwards spoke in the language of his Monmouthshire father and mother the sions for the back-number sheet that s so hardup for matter of interest that t is obliged to fill its columns up with his idiotic drivel.. Lord Byron makes a great ado about our reference to him as being "spav-ined." In consideration of the unwritvast audience not only gave him a hear-ing, but they testified their approval with quite a roar, as if Hu Gadarn had fired his park of heaviest artiflery, and for a moment it seemed to one's fancy that the Red Dragon on the great flag behind the platform was struggling to break loose to go and give the Welsh-American learned judge her "paw" as American learned judge her paw as a token of heartiest welcome to "yr hen wlad!" The judge's fellow-country-men, not only in Wales, but through-out the world, will learn with delight that Judge Edwards' Welsh is perfect.

is as pure as if he had not spent an hour of his life outside the circle of the highest cultured bards. And yet it is known-indeed, he told me so himself-he practiced as a barrister at the American bar during twenty-six years American bar during twenty-six years before he was elevated to the bench of American judges, His speech was full of telling points and with sentiments that went direct to the hearts of all present, but his greatest hit was when he alluded to the friendship of David and Jonathan, and then compared the two-Wales as St. David and the Amer-ican ration as Jonathan. 'One of the two-wales as St. David and the Amer-lean nation as Jonathan. 'One of the last-named two,' said the learned judge, 'became a saint, but,' continued ne, 'I fear Jonathan of the present day is by no means a saint.' This bit of raillery was immensely enjoyed, and the setties audience was convulsed with the entire audience was convulsed with laughter. Judge Edwards is still a comparatively young man-very young in appearance for a judge, from the British point of view. Mrs. Edwards accompanies her husband to Wales."

Judge Edwards presided at the ex-ercises on Wednesday, June 27, and won the hearts of the vast audiences won the hearts of the vast authences by the eloquence and magnetism that has made this whole-souled jurist pop-ular wherever his voice is heard, whother in the English or Welsh dia-tect. Scrantonians generally will be pleased to know that Judge Edwards was one of the most prominent figures in the great eisteddfod.

of July 25 has this to say of Miss Kaid-er's work: "The only vocalist on this occasion was Miss Sadle Kaiser, a thi-ented soprano. Her songs on Monday afternoon were (a) 'Brown Eyed Girl,' (b) 'When My Gretchen Sings,' and 'I Will Extol Thee' (Costa), which were superbly rendered. 'I Will Extol Thee' was a song that suited Miss Kaiser's sweet and charming voice to perfec-tion, and was greatly appreciated." She is expected to leave England for home on the 21st of this month. Wilkes-Barre is anxious to hear her when she returns, and there is no doubt that at the concert she expects to give next him " truth is stranger than fiction." Along the runways of this wandering spirit his talents are too well known. His last yelp in the columns of the His last yelp in the columns of the Seed organ is scarcely worth a reply. It is said that a scrpent will wiggle its tail long after death. This seems to be aptiv illustrated in the case at hand, and Lord Byron appears to be about the only thing left to wiggle over the fate of our back-number rival. E. H. Call.
