The vote polled was the largest on record, in some districts being almost as large as at a general election. The result is recognized as a personal tribute to Adtorney General McCormick.

These nominations are from, which will not materially change these figures. These nominations are certain: H. J. Culbestson, for president judge; Lafayette Welsh, for prothon-otary; H. O. Philadelphia, Aug. 18.—The latest re-turns from the five counties that held turns from the five counties that held primaries on Saturday evening show that Senator Quay exercised four and Chairman Gilkeson one. The former captured eight delegates, five being in Chester, and one each in Cameron. Fulton and Millin Lycoming, with its three votes, stands firmly by the administration. Of the sixty-seven counties of the state, all but Philadelphia and Lehigh have held their primaries. However, these two have seventy-four delegates, being more than one-fourth of the entire convention, which comparises 289 delegates.

Senator Quay spent a quiet day.

Senator Quay spent a quiet day, though he had a number of callers. He said he was well pleased with the result, and expressed the greatest confidence in the outlook. Asked if he thought there would be a bolt in the state convention, he said he did not think there would be, as he could not see what the Gilkeson people could expect to gain by any such action. "The majority cules," said he, "and we will have the majority." The senator may remain here this week, but has not yet decided whether he will or not.

Emides Volpe Protects His Daughter with a Shotgun.

Chester, Pa., Aug. 18.—Emides Volpe shot and killed Jenerose Coligeno between 12 and 1 o'clock this morning at the home of the former at Felton, a suburb of Chester, on the line of the Baltimore and Ohio callroad. The men are Ekalians, and after the shooting Volpe came to this city and gave himself up to the police.

His statement is that Coligeno had entered the room of his 15-year-old daughter, Lizzie, by means of a back shed. Her screams aroused her father, who was sleeping down statirs, and he setzed a double barrelled shot gun and fired one shot at the intruder and ordered him away. Coligeno threatened to kill Volpe, and the laster then fired a second time. The contents of the barrel tore a hole in the left breast of Coligeno and entered his heart, killing him instantly. The victim was 26 years of age and dangerous, according to the statements of several of his countrymen, and was known to be always armed. The affair has caused much excitement among the Italians.

The mob approached the jail with sledge hammers and began to batter the doors. Seeing they would get in anyhow, Jaiker Keyssey threw the lynchers the keys. As the lynchers entered Colored Deputy Sheriff Perkins, who was in the jail, fired at them. The lynchers fired a volley in return, killing Jailer Keysey. They then dragged Lewis from his cell and lynched him as stated above.

Several weeks ago Lewis shot down ex-Tax Collector John Highsmith and his nephew, John Davis, because they refused to kneel and apologize for a fancied insult. Railroad Blast Results in the Death of Five of the Workmen.

Alfooria, Pa., Aug. 18.—A fatal explo-sion occurred last evening in a deep cut on the Pietsburgh and Eastern railcut on the Pittsburgh and Eastern rail-road, near McGee's Mills, Clearfield county, Pa. Workmen had set off a heavy blast containing 150 kegs of powder. After the explosion the men went back to work, and on approaching the vicinity of the blast fell mysterious-ly to the ground. When the men were reached five were dead and five almost upconscious.

Part of the cut on which the work is being done is already over an old coal mine. There has been an accumula-tion of gas, which was liberated by the blast, and this caused the death and unconsciousness of the men. The jury acquisted the contractor.

DISARMED AND SHOT HIM. The Trencherous Assessination of United States Deputy Marshal Whitt. Asheville, N. C., Aug. 18.—On the night of Aug. 15 Zebulon Whitt, United States deputy marshal, was killed on Banjo branch, in Madison county. He was there on business, and also attended a party. At about 11 o'clock, while on the way to his cousin's home, four men, three of whom he had formerly arrested, began an altercation with him. Whitt called a friend to assist him, and succeeded in quieting the men. They then induced Whitt to send his friend ahead a few steps, that they might have a few words in private with him.

As soon as the friend was out of the way, they turned on Whitt with gun and pistols, disarmed Whitt of his pistol and fired four times. Only one shot took effect, but that penetrated Whitt's heart and killed him instantly. The friend returned and was threatened with death if he attempted to get away and tell Whitt's brother. He succeed-ed, however, in cluding the murderers, went to the home of Whitt and in-formed his people of the tragedy. The men who committed the murder are "Jeff" Mace. John Flasher, Newton Mace and "Len" Mahone. Three of the men are in hiding, but "Jeff" Mace, who was cut several times in the affray, is

Mystery of the Mattewan Asylum Is Pinally Solved.

MISSIONARY IMPLICATED

Mrs. Amelia E. Haswell, of Troy, Is Ac cused of Being an Accomplice of the Slippery Jail Bird-A Strange Case.

Poughkeepsie, Aug. 18.—After months of patient investigation the American Express company, with the officials of the New York Central and Hudson Express company, with the officials of the New York Central and Hudson River Ralfroad company, the authorities of Duchess county, and the 'Matteawan officials, have solved the mystery of the escape of train robber Ollver Curtis Perry and convicts McGuire, Quigley, Davis and O'Donnell from the Matteawan asylum for the criminal insane in April last? The solution involves Mrs. Amelia E. Haswell, of Troy, a city missionary who is highly esteemed in that city, which has been the scene of her evangelistic labors for several years, and William A. Hopkins, of Low Point, Dutchess county, a former attendant at the Matteawan asylum and a man of good family, but very irregular habits. Hopkins is now in Dutchess county jail, where he was quietly incarcerated at about noon today on a warrant charging him with aiding and abetting the commission of a felony. Mrs. Haswell has not been arrested, as she is out of the state, but Chief Detective Humphrey, of the Hudson River railroad says he has letters. Chief Detective Humphrey, of the Hud-son River railroad, says he has letters from her to Perry and to Hopkins, and copies of letters to the same parties, fully showing her connection with the

At the time of Perry's escape there was general astonishment expressed that insome men could manage so that insome men could manage so cleverly to overcome the safeguards put about them by the state. Hopkins' confession, which was made to Chief Humphrey today, takes all the romance out of the affair. Perry and his fellow convicts did not make keys from spoons. Hopkins left the lower lock on McGuire's cell unfastened, and McGuire, who is a mechanic, unlocked the upper bolts with keys fashioned with a file from blanks purchased by Hopkins at Newburg, and after he got out unlocked the cells of Perry and the others. that

Perry's Damaging Story.

After the capture of Perry and the other fugitives last spring Detective T. J. Garvey, of the American Express company, and Chief Detective Humphrey, with the aid of Dr. Allison, of the asylum, set out to find the real facts of the affair. Hopkins had charge of the indiction ward in which Perry facts of the affair. Hopkins had charge of the isolation ward, in which Perry and the others were confined at the time of their escape. He was discharged on May 1 last, having been in the asylum about a year. Keeper James C. McDonald was put in charge of Perry, and the latter, having had a taste of the sweets of liberty, held out inducements to him to allow him to escape. McDonald, under Allison's directions, humored Perry and led him on. On April 28 Perry told a story in which he alleged that Mrs. Haswell helped him plan the American Express helped him plan the American Express robbery between Little Falls and Utica on Sept. 30, 1891, when he got away with $5,000 in money and jewelry valued at a number of thousands of dollars. Perry offered McDowell $300 worth of jewelry if he would furnish him with an impres-sion of the pass key, a small file, and a piece of iron with which to make a key and also privately mail his letters to Mrs. Haswell. McDowell pretended to assent to this arrangement, and took Perry's letters addressed to Mrs. Has-well to Dr. Allison, who had copies of them made

Perry then told (McDonald that Mrs. Haswell had sent to Hopkins jewelry valued at between $700 and $1,000 as a bribe to let him escape. The jewelry, he said, consisted of diamonds, a gold watch, ring, etc., part of the proceeds of the first American Express robbery. The package containing it was mailed to Hopkins by registered letter directed to the postoffice at Glenham, where Hopkins got it on Oct. 20 last. Hopkins today confessed that he sold and pawned the jewelry, realizing about $300 on it. He falled to carry out his agreement promptly, and as the fall and winter wore on Perry got restless and threatened to expose him. It was because Hopkins was afruid that the story would get out that he went to Newburgh and got blank keys, which McGuire fashloned into keys to fit the upper locks on the cell door. He could upper locks on the cell door. He could not reach the lower locks from the inside, and Hopkins had to make two trips to Newburgh before he got the right sort of blanks. McGuire used Hopkins' keys as model. Hopkins was to leave a suit of clothes and a pistol at a pond near Brinckerhoff's race track, where Perry could get them after his escape, but he failed to do so, which incensed Perry against him, and after his return to the asylum be made freincensed Perry against mm, and after his return to the asylum he made fre-quent inquiries for Hopkins, who was shortly thereafter discharged for intox-cation. Perry's father and Mrs. Has-well wrote letters to Hopkins through the Low Point postoffice, upbraiding well wrote letters to Hopkins through the Low Point postoffice, upbraiding him for his breach of faith, which letters were traced by the detectives and confirmed their impression of his

Hopkins Wonkened. Saturday District Attorney George Wood, Chief Detective Humphrey and Detective Garvey visited Low Point. District Attorney Wood entered into the quest with zeal, and did patrol work up and down the railroad track with the detectives until Hopkins was in custody. At first he would confess nothing. Then Chief Humphrey took him in hand and told him that he was only injuring his own chances by holdhim in hand and told him that he was only injuring his own chances by holding out, and related some of the testimony in the possession of the authorities, but still he was obdurate. Then Mr. Humphrey told him some more of the facts in his possession, and Hopkins weakened. He told the officers where he had pawned the jewelry and what he had received for it. Chief Pierralt, of Newburgh, recovered a gold watch from a Hungsatan saloon keeper on Front street, to whom Hopkins had sold it. Some of the jewelry is in New York, where an officer has gone to get it. Two pieces are in Fishkill and Low Point.

Point.

Perry is now in Auburn prison, where he was transferred from Matteawan not long sigo. Hopkins is about 40 years of age and is cursed with the Irink habit. He is a heavy framed man, with jet black hair and a large and flowing moutache. He was at one time a switch, tender on the Hudson River railroad at Low Point. He was rested by Detective Humphrey on Jan. 20, 1890, for letting the fast mail on the middle track, almost causing an accident. He was drunk. The grand jury failed to indict him and he was discharged.

Mrs. Haswell is at Ocean Grove, and it is expected that she will be arrested at once. Hopkins may be used as state's evidence to secure her conviction if the charges against her cannot be explained. Mrs. Heswell frequently visited Perry at Matteawan, and brought him books and papers and expressed much interest in his spiritual welfare. Perry called her mother.

AFGHAN PRINCE IS MAD. He Is Offended Because the Kniser Did Not Care to See Him.

London, Aug. 18.—Emperor William, during his visit to England, gave grave offence to Nasrulla Khun, the Afghan prince, by failing to ask the prince to meet him, and by not sending him any message or letter. The position of the prince excites public curiosity. It is known that he has received an almost unlimited number of hints from the queen to leave England, and that she has told him that he need not again visit any member of the royal family, and so Nasrulla never leaves the grounds of Dorchester house, where he is staying.

The governments of the countries, also, which it was Nasrulla's intention to visit, have all politely refused to receive him. The refusal of the Sukan of Turkey has been made public. In It the Sultan says that, in compliance with a request of M. Nelldoff, the Russian ambassador to Turkey, he cannot receive the son of the Ameer, if he should carry out his intention to visit Turkey.

Berlin, Aug. 18.-The foundation stone of the monument to Emperor Wil-liam I was hald today by his grandson, Emperor William II., with the most imposing ceremonics. The former imposing ceremonies. The former Schloss Freigeit, where the monument is to be erected, was converted into a closed arena for the occupancy of the many guests, who had been invited to attend the ceremony. Huge galleries, for privileged spectators, flanked the north and south sides of the arena. while on the west side, which borders the River Spree, a high wooden board-ing had been creeted, draped with the German and Prussian colors. From the Imperial tent a stairway descended to the Schloss, where the stand was placed within a semi-circle of Venetian maize, trimmed with bunting and banners, and connected with festoons of ners, and connected with restoons of live oak. The whole fest platz was sur-rounded by soldiers, who kept the great crowds back from that part of the grounds set apart for the use of the emperor and his guests.

At 7.30 o'clock the royal personages assembled in the position front of the emperor. There were also present mem-bers of the Bundesrath and the Reichbers of the Bundesrath and the Reichstag. As his Majesty appeared he was greeted with a flourish of trumpets. As he came out and stood by the stone, Chancellor Von Hohenlohe tendered to him an address, which his Majesty read. After he had read a little time the bells in churches in the vicinity struck the hour of 9, and this drowned part of the text. part of the text.

Emperor's Address.
The address read: "In the name of the sovereigns and free cities of the empire we lay the foundation stone of the memorial to Emperor William the Great, which was voted unanimously by the Reichstag. He gave to Germany not only her army and navy, but her trade, commerce, arts and sciences also. To his enlightened initiative Germany owns the first step towards the prac-tical furtherance of the interests of the working classes. May this monument ever look down on a happy and con-tented nation if such be God's will." Count Serchenfeld, the Bayarian min-ister at Berlin, then handed a trowel to the Emperor, saying: "Twenty years ago a foreign force threatened King William. This prince of peace led Germany's sons from victory to victory What Gormany thanks the great kaiser for is engraved on all German hearts

May Germany's sons ever stand to-gether for the emperor and the empire."

His majesty then threw some mortar into the bed of the stone, and was followed by Baron Bual Von Berenberg, president of the Reichstag, who made an address. In the course of his remarks he said:

"This movement will be an everlast-ing landmark that wherever German hearts heat, or the German tongues are spoken, gratitude to Emperor William I will never vanish. May God's blessing be on your majesty's hopefully com-menced rule."

He then handed a hammer to Emperor William, 'who said, amid the thunder of cannon as the stone was low-cred into its place: "To encourage the living, to tha memory of the fallen, and as an example to coming ages, I dedicate this monument to the memory of Emperor William the Great."
