of the finer fabrics in Wash Goods, and we've decided that they, too, must go, although it would pay us better to carry them over till next season than let them go at such prices, we've not cramped for space. We anticipate a large fall trade; we've bought stocks accordingly, and within two or three weeks from now, there won't be a foot to spare for carrying stocks, in all our acre of floorage.

The Goods Offered Below

can hardly be classed among those of passing fashion. From year to year the same cloths come up with unbroken popularity, and as everybody knows, the changing of a pattern can only be detected by an expert who makes this his business. If we had spare room it would pay us to carry these goods over till next season, as we have already said.

ON THE EVE OF CONFLICT

A Glimpse of the Philadelphia Battle Ground.

ESTIMATES ON THE RESULT

Both Quay and Hastings Men Claim the Victory in Advance--Looks Bright for the Administration. Wyoming's Somersault.

Philadelphia, Aug. 19.—Although at the Republican primary elections to be held in this city tomorrow evening delegates will be elected to conventions to nominate a number of municipal officers, most of the interest in the primaries is centered in the contest between Senator Quay and the administration for delegates to the state convention. It is probable that Philadelphia county will be the pivotal point in the fight between Quay and his opponent, and the winner in this city will be the victor in the battle. Philadelphia has seventy delegates, and of these about two-thirds are assured to the administration. David Martin, the Republican leader of Philadelphia, tonight conceded Mr. Quay ten delegates. The Evening Telegraph, one of the most stalwart supporters of the administration faction, printed a table of estimates this afternoon, in which it gives Mr. Quay seven delegates and puts twenty-nine in the doubtful column. The Quay men are not giving any estimate of the number of delegates that they expect to get from Philadelphia, but it is known that they are counting on other eighteen to twenty-three. Mr. Quay said tonight that even if he was disappointed in his hopes in Philadelphia he could win without this city.

Another Vindication. Tunkhannock, Pa., Aug. 19.—The Wyoming County Republican convention, called by the county committee to elect a delegate to replace Rufus F. Northrup, elected at the congressional convention in January, and who has refused to act under instructions of the committee, but who declared for Gilkeson, met here today and 29 out of 35 districts returned Quay delegates.

Major H. W. Bardwell, of Tunkhannock, was chosen as delegate with instructions to support Senator Quay, but with the understanding that he would support Judge or the chairmanship of the convention.

TRIAL OF THE DEFENDERS.

The Yachts Defender and Vigilant Will Meet Today to Determine Which Shall Be Selected to Defend America's Cup.

New York, Aug. 19.—The final preparations have been made for the first trial races to determine what yacht shall meet the challenger for America's cup and the Defender and Vigilant will meet off Sandy Hook for the first time. Both yachts are in better trim than ever before and both will be sailed to the limit of their abilities. Without question the Defender has been held back and while probably no jockeying has been intended, the syndicate boat has not shown her full ability to go. Now that her sails have been stretched and rigged gradually made taut, the boat is ready for her full powers to be tested and is equipped as she will be for the international race provided she is chosen to defend the cup. Her crew had a busy day today. They put the last finishing touches on her, and this afternoon she was towed from her moorings, off New Rochelle, to New York. The recent painting and scraping of her aluminum sides and bronze under-body, and the new spars and sails, make her the most handsome defender Yankee ingenuity has ever put together.

At 4 o'clock this afternoon the Defender made sail and started down the bay towards the narrows. There was a spanking breeze from the north-northwest, and under mainsail, fore and main, she cracked her way away from her tender, the Hattie Palmer, and easily passed the iron steamboat Taurus, with a load of excursionists bound for Coney Island.

The Defender passed the narrows at 4:30 o'clock and with her white sails gleaming in the sunlight swept down the lower bay to an anchorage in the rear shoal, where the Vigilant was just inside of Sandy Hook and is a safe anchorage ground near the starting point of the race, and saves much work for the crews of the yachts.

The Vigilant remained quietly at anchor today. She is in perfect condition for one more trial at the Defender and George J. Gould, who has spared money or trouble, and E. Willard, who has devoted months of time, deserve much credit for their genuine sportsmanship. Although they saw fit to retire the Vigilant from further races at Newport, owing to the disregard of the customary rules of yachting, they have kept their word and placed the cup in the hands of the defender for the trial races. Mr. Willard has stated, however, that any further disregard of the rules on the part of the Vigilant, or the skipper of the Defender, will be at their risk, as he does not propose to keep on forever giving way to the new boat. Although the regatta committee decided against Mr. Willard's protest, the consensus of opinion among yachtsmen is that the Defender attempted to "hog the line."

The race tomorrow will be one of two which are set by the America's cup committee to determine which is the best yacht to meet Lord Dunraven's challenger. Should one boat win tomorrow's race and the other boat the second race a third race may be fixed for Saturday. From the showing that the Defender has already made in her race with the Vigilant, there is little doubt that she will be selected to meet Valkyrie III.

CAVE-IN AT LUZERNE.

Five Houses Wrecked, Although the Mines Are Not Affected.

Wilkes-Barre, Aug. 19.—A large cave-in began at Luzerne borough today, and when the earth had finally stopped settling, it was found that five houses had been seriously affected by the disturbance. The part of the borough which was disturbed is between Bennett and Walnut streets, and the cave was in the direction of Sly street. The cave is in the old Hutchison workings, and in the Haddock mine, although this section of the mine is not now being worked. The residents of Luzerne borough believe that the cave-in is the result of robbing pillars, which they claim has gone on constantly in the mines for some time.

This is the third time that this particular section has caved in, the first being sixteen years ago, and the second six years ago. The present disaster is far more serious than either of the other accidents. The present cave is about 100 feet in diameter and is now thirty feet deep, and it is believed that it will settle still further. Five houses are rendered untenable by the cave-in.

STORMS AT PITTSBURG

Much Damage Results from Wind and Rain.

COLLAPSE OF A BRICK HOUSE

Two Women Are Drowned--Several Persons Seriously Injured by Falling Timbers and Electric Shocks--Marvelous Escape of Pryor Children.

Pittsburg, Aug. 19.—Reports of damage caused by the storm which swept over a portion of Pittsburg and Allegheny last evening continue. The numerous accounts of narrow escapes from flying wreckage render it remarkable that there were no fatalities. The high wind and heavy rain were accompanied by hail. During the storm there was much short lightning, but no damage resulted from this cause. A number of buildings in various parts of Pittsburg and Allegheny suffered damage to roofs and chimneys. The telephone and telegraph wires, including the fire alarm and patrol systems, were badly demoralized.

The heaviest individual loss from the storm was that sustained by a portion of the frame work of Henderson, Johnston & Co.'s grain elevator, in process of erection on Carson street. The damage, while of itself is not serious by reason of the storm, is of a nature that will require the work to be done over, which will cost about $20,000.

Near Bedford avenue, a new unoccupied brick house collapsed, a portion of the walls fell upon a frame dwelling occupied by Mrs. Daily, and one child and Mrs. Pryor and three children. Two of the Pryor family and Mrs. Daily and her child were buried in the debris. They were speedily rescued and were uninjured.

TWO WOMEN DROWNED.

River craft suffered seriously. Millie Linbaugh, stewardess of the steamer Lud Keefe, went down with the boat and was drowned. An unknown woman is said to have been blown from the point bridge into the river and drowned. Patrick Shea, fireman at the West End electric power house, was badly injured by a falling timber. John Adams, conductor on the Second avenue elevated, was badly shocked while removing a wire from the track. His condition is precarious. Two men who occupied the Ohio river, are missing. It is feared that they were drowned.

The storm was altogether local, and in fifteen minutes of its duration nearly one-half inch of rain fell, causing damage to property in the two cities is estimated at about $100,000.

JUSTICE STRONG DEAD.

The Eminent Jurist Passes Away at Lake Minnewaska--Sketch of His Career on the Bench.

Lake Minnewaska, N. Y., Aug. 19.—Justice Strong died at 2:15 today. William Strong, son of the Rev. William Lighthouse Strong, was born in Somers, Tolland county, Conn., May 6, 1808. He was educated at the Plattsburgh academy and Yale college, graduating at the age of 20 years. After a brief career as school teacher, he returned to New England, where he studied law, and in 1847, having taken an active interest in politics, he was elected to represent the district in congress, and served two terms. He then returned to the practice of his profession, and in 1857 was elected a judge of the supreme court of the state of Pennsylvania for a term of fifteen years. On Oct. 1, 1858, he resigned that position and resumed his practice at the bar.

While a member of the supreme court of the state, the deceased justice won a reputation for judicial learning and extended far beyond its limits, and in 1870 President Grant transmitted his name with that of the late Justice Bradley to the senate for confirmation as associate justice of the supreme court of the United States. There was a general feeling of satisfaction among the members of his profession. On Jan. 15, 1872, Justice Strong announced the decision of the court affirming the constitutionality of the legal tender acts, and Justice Bradley concurred in a lengthy opinion.

Justice Strong was designated by the electoral commission act of 1877 as one of the judicial members of the famous tripartite tribunal which passed upon the contested presidential election of 1876. In 1880, Mr. Justice Strong, having reached the age at which, under the constitution, a senator or a judge is permitted, retired, and had since then made his home in Washington.

He was a ruling elder in the Church of the Covenant, and a leading officer in the Bible society and in the American Tract society, usually presiding over their annual gatherings. In 1836 Justice Strong married Priscilla Lee, of Easton, Pa., by whom he had a family of one son and several daughters. The son died in 1892. Two of the daughters are married and reside in Pennsylvania; two unmarried daughters have been their father's intimate companions since the death of their mother some years ago.

The remains of ex-Justice Strong will leave New Paltz on a special car at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning, arriving at Reading, Pa., at 7:30 o'clock in the evening. The funeral services will be held at Reading at 5 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon.
