Governor and Mrs. Hastings and other distinguished persons will be there and will be tendered a banquet by the citizens of the town during the after-noon. This event will take place in a tent on the grounds of the Susquehanna County Agricultural society, a rocky and wooded locality of much pictur-and wooded locality of much picturesque beauty.

Montrose has had several notable reunions in her day, but for this occasion (the reunion lasts until Friday night) the prominent men and women of the town have worked jointly with the veterans in preparing one of the great hospitalities for which that mountain town is justly noted. An enormous throng of visitors is expected, as excursion rates have been made on all railroads making connections from the seven counties claiming membership in the Veterans' association.

Tickets from Scranton are good going and coming on any Delaware, Lackawanna and Western train from now until Friday, inclusive. Possibly the largest number from here will leave on this morning's 8 o'clock train and will start from Montrose on the return trip at 6 o'clock this afternoon.

Exenssion to Ocean Grove for the Camp Meeting.

Meeting.

Asbury Park and Ocean Grove, recognized as the most famous of all the great New Jersey scashore resorts, have manifold attractions for all persons that appreciate a sojourn by the ocean. The world at large contributes people that are patrons of these resorts and among them are many that are distinguished in the various walks of life. The hotel, cottages, views of ocean, the breakers, bathing and style that pervades Asbury Park each recurring summer is something startling and must be seen by personal observation in order to be appreciated fully. August is the month here. The hotels and cottages are filled, the fine driveways are gay with fashionable equipages and the music of manifold hands and orchestras throws its resonant echo over the entire scene. At night the flicker of electric lights seems to be almost in competition with the stars, for it must be remembered that Asbury Park is a city of advancement and has all the modern improvements born of enterprise. The private life in cottages is in strange comparison with the fashionable round of hotel gayety that atand has all the modern improvements born of enterprise. The private life in cottages is in strange comparison with the fashlomable round of hotel gayety that attracts wide-awake people to the grand hotels. Asbury Park with all the bustle that keeps visitors on the qui-vive, has no disorder, for the stringent local laws keep all would-be offenders within bounds and nothing but a good time marks the wane of summer days. Bathing is one of Asbury's greatest attractions, and the costumes seen here in the breakers are as original as they are costly and varied. The board walk, the greatest along shore promenade north of Atlantic City, has the appearance of upper Broadway. New York, on Saturday afternoon, with its surging crowd moving in opposite directions, and Ocean Grove, with its colony of white tents, the abodes of campers-out is a pretty sight to behold. The annual camp meeting begins here Aug. 29 and will continue ten days. The Central Railroad of New Jersey will give residents along the Lehigh and Busquehanna division from Scranton to Mauch Chunk an opportunity to visit these places by a very low rate excursion that will be run Saturday next. Aug. 28. Tickets will permit holders to remain over until Monday, Aug. 28, and return by any regular train.

bers of Board of Coatrol.

The new No. 27 school building in the Thirteenth ward was officially inspected yesterday afternoon by the Board of Control, and at the next meeting it will no doubt be finally accepted. Controllers C. H. Von Storch, James A Evans, W. J. Welsh, C. S. Jacobs, J. H. Williams, O. B. Schuefer, Thomas Coar and William G. O'Malley made the inspection. Secretary E. D. Fellows also accompanied the party. Two bours or so were spent in viewing the lows also accompanied the party. Two hours or so were spent in viewing the new structure and looking into va-rious details, and at the end of the in-spection, Mr. Welsh, chairman of the building committee, together with the other members present, declared the building in every way entirely satis-factory and a model of modern school architecture. architecture. The new school is situated on Columbia avenue, in North Park, at the junction of the boulevard and East Market tion of the boulevard and East Market street. It was designed by E. L. Walter, built by Edwin G. Hughes and supplied with heating and ventilating apparatus by the Smead-Wills company, of Philadelphia. It is a twelve room structure, 75x126, built of brick with stone trimmings, finished in Carolina pine. The contract price is $39,039. The land was secured in exchange for thold No. 27 property and a $1,000 bonus. Two additional lots were afterwards secured for $2,000, the land all in all being valued at $5,000. The heating and ventilating, furniture, grading and lesser improvements will run the total value of the propecty up to about $50,000. value of the property up to about $50,000.

Its Exterior Appearance. From an exterior view the building is not particularly attractive and does not strike the beholder as being as pre-tentious as might be expected when one tentious as might be expected when one considers the large sum that was expended on it. But withal it has a substantial, yet also appearance about it that at once marks it as a modern school building. But it is in the interior of the building that its superior excellence is especially noticable.

The architect evidently strived and has undoubtedly succeeded in utilizing every inch of space and avoiding a not uncommon error of devoting much every inch of space and avoiding a not uncommon error of devoting much room to corridors and stairways. The main corridor, however, is by no means cramped in appearance. It is sufficiently roomy, yet does not give the impression that it is the main part of the building, as is the case with corridors in some buildings.

Six rooms, each 24x32, open off the corridor and on the upper floor are a like number of similar sized cooms reached by four flights of stairs, two from the main corridor and two from from the main corridor and two from the outside. Light, and plenty of it, has been the great consideration of the ar-rangement of the school rooms, and the arrangement is highly successful in this egard, every room being supplied with cegard, every room being supplied with large windoys and possessing an airy appearance, by reason of the pure white walls and light wood finishing. Each room is connected by a speaking tube with the room designed for the prin-cipal on the second floor front. Each floor is also supplied with water.

The Heating and Ventilating Plant. In the basement are located the Smead-Wills hot air heating and venti-lating plant, the boiler, engine, furnaces and fans being entirely shut out and separate from the front of the base-ment, where the closets are situated.
