About the Matter. me time ago, it will be remembered, Traction company went down on h Washington street while the resi-South Washington street while the residents slept and next morning there was a switch completed. It raised a great fuss at the time, and some people even went so far as to say that this was the way in which the street committee of councils punished a certain property owner for refusing to have asphait laid in front of his residence.

Yesterday another phase of the trouble was brought out when Dr. W. G.

Yesterday another phase of the trouble was brought out when Dr. W. G. Weaver and James Campbell began a suit in equity against the Coalville Passenger railway and the Wilkes-Barre and Wyoming Valley Traction company. The bill, after reciting at length the parties interested, sets forth the trouble as follows:

That on Aug. 14, A. D. 1895, the defendants tore up their single track fendants tore up their single track along the center of South Washington street and, without any legal authority. right, laid double tracks on street, for a distance of about 150 feet, and immediately in front of the prop-erty of your scators, and are now using said railroad tracks in violation of

That the width of said Washington street from curb to curb is twenty-nine feet. The said double railroad tracks occupy fourteen feet eleven inches o said street, and where cars pass along said tracks there are only five feet six inches of the street on either side of the cars left for passing vehicles, a space insufficient for public travel. That the occupation of said South

Washington street by double tracks, as the same are now located, with passenger railway cars running over same, is a hindrance to public travel in the said street, inconvenient and dan-gerous to passing vehicles, dangerous to life, and greatly damages your ora-tors in the free use and enjoyment of their several properties owned along said street where said double tracks are laid.

That there is no necessity for the

The plaintiffs apply to the court for relief as follows: First—That a decree may be made re-straining the said Coalville Passenger Railroad company and Wilkes-Barre and Wyoming Valley Traction com-pany from maintaining and using the the said double railroad tracks and running passenger railway cars over the same; compelling the said Coalville Passenger Railroad company and Wilkes-Barre and Wyoming Valley Traction company to take up and re-move the said double railroad tracks from the place where the same are now located, and that they be perpetually enfolned from replacing or relaying any rallroad track upon any part of said street other than a single railroad track along the center of Washington Second-That your orators may have such other and further relief in the premises as the nature of the case may SUING WILKES-BARRE.

An Ex-Police Officer Sues to Recover Fine Imposed. Yeterday morning an interesting hearing took place before Alderma. Donohue, It was the case of Joseph Neebitt against the city of Wilkes-Barre, and is a test case on which a number of other suits depend.

Nesbitt it seems was, in 1895, ap-pointed a reserve policeman and dis-charged his duties satisfactorily whenever called upon until July 21, when he was fined $30 for drunkenness and fall-ure to report. He paid the fine and continued in the service until the early part of the present month, when the same charge was preferred against him. The second charge was sustained as the first had been, and this time Nesvitt was removed from the force. Now he brings sult to recover the $30 fine, which he has already paid.

At the hearing yesterday morning. Nesbitt was represented by John Shea. while Attorney Gibbons was present for the city, Chief Briggs, Councilman Rentlehuber, chairman of the police committee, and Assistant City Clerk Gates testified as to the facts in the case. Both lawyers made excellent arguments, Mr. Gibbons claiming that council has the right to fine a man for the first offense, and it is the custom to do so, reserving the penalty of dis-missal until the second, Mr. Shea-claimed that council had no right to impose the fine, and that it was an ex-tremely irregular proceeding, besides that Neebitt should have had two days' notice of the fine, which he failed to

There is a technicality in the case that may cause trouble. Mr. Nesbitt is enrolled as Joseph Nesbitt, the charges were preferred against J. Nesbitt, and the fine was imposed on James Nesbitt. The alderman, after hearing the case, said that he must give a de-cirion in ten days, but requested the attorneys to allow him two weeks in which to look up the law and decide the matter properly. Mr. Shea and Mr. Gibbons both consented to this extension. If Nesbitt wins all the police officers who have been fined for the past six years will begin suit to recover the amount of their fines and the city attorney will have enough to do to earn his salary this year.

Sanitary Officer Evans, Patrolman Wood, Sergeant Kline, Special Officer Farrow and High Constable Bauer, went over to Rutter's grove and raided a den of tramps. They got six in all, among them being a young fellow named Joe Riley, who says he belongs in New York city. Riley's head was bandaged and his face was badly cut. He explains it by saying that he fell on the railroad Tuesday night and was bandaged at the hospital.

One of the men was shaving at the time he was captured. They gave the following names: Mike Maguire, William Jennings, Remanda Luvin, of 176 East Market, and Scott Karkhuff, of this city. The tramps are an ugly looking gang and supposed to have committed some of the depredations recently reported. The tramps were brought to this city and held for a hearing today. This is the third raid this year on Rutter's grove, and the tramps are thinning out considerably, although there are citil anite a betal tramps are thinning out considerably although there are still quite a lot

FATAL MINE ACCIDENT.

Took Place in Delaware and Hudse Mine at Plymouth.

At 8 o'clock yesterday morning an accident occurred in No. 2 Delaware and Hudson mine, at Plymouth, which has resulted fatally for one of the vic-tims and severely injured the other.

James Murphy, a miner, and Stanley
Stakanavliz, his laborer, were at work in a chamber which is known to have been unsafe for some time, when the whole roof came down, burying them both beneath the mass. The Polisi laborer was killed outright and Murphy sustained a broken leg, a severe cut on the head and some severe internal injuries. It required some time to extricate the bodies, so great a quantity of rock had fallen, and it was three hours after the accident before the corpse of the laborer was taken out. Both man recognized and Murphy. out. Both men are single and Murphy resides on Willow street, and Stakana vitz on Eno street.

Died on a Visit.

John Divvers, well known in Lackawanna and Luzerne counties, died yesterday afternoon at Beaumont. Wyoming county, whither he had gone ten days ago in the hope that a change of air would benefit him. He was a great sufferer for some months and death was a welcome relief. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Frank That there is no necessity for the survived by his mother, Mrs. Frank location and maintenance of double passenger railway tracks where the same are now located, the distance from the place where the tracks are laid to the terminus of the railroad being about 700 feet.

Many were the means she used to find relief, but there seemed no remedy for her case and she remained a captive; then along comes these little enemies to backache, Doan's Kidney Pills, and a half box releases the bonds, as one by one the aches and pains disappear, she finds herself a slave to pain no more, by their continued use. She says: "I was entirely relieved of all my

"How did you take this remedy?" Miss Young was asked by our representative. She replied that she followed directions She replied that she followed directions explicitly. Miss Young then told how the malady affected her, saying her symptoms were: "Stooping, bending over, walking or standing any length of time always gave me a pain in the small of my back. I had a pain in the kidneys all the time and if I caught cold it would always settle there; the pain I suffered was of a very exhausting nature; at night I could only lie flat on my back, any other position causing pain and suffering; the nerves passing up my back were affected and this brought with it never headaches, but as I said before, Doan's Kidney Pills have removed fil pain and suffering entirely and I never felt better and heatthler in my life."

As the old hand-worked fire engine gave way to steam, the steam fire engine for the city. The day camoot be dissant when horses drawing $000 pounds of steam apparatus shall no longer rush panting through the streets, to be followed by an equally frientied attendant carrying coils of india rubber. An electrical fire extinguishing plant must be one of the incidents of the coming year.

Employmentof electricity for extinguishing fires has become a more imperative need by reason of the increased height of buildings. The tall building has come to stay. Engineering appears to have solved successfully the problem of foundations, and metallurgy and mechanics have combined for the production and accommodation of building materials lighter, stronger stid more durable than any of the past.

Another cause hastening the disappearance of the clumsy steam fire engine is the cumbering of city streets with public and private vehicles for personal convenience and traffic. While underground and elevated intramural roads will relieve in time the congestion of the surface of cities, nothing can prevent an increased occupancy of the streets on which business is concentrated. The rush of a fire engine through a thoroughfare of a modern city is attended with danger to the brave men attached to it, and to citizens who, riding, driving or a-foot, may be in its path. Electricity itself has added many perils to public ways, and it is only fit that electricity should furnish a successor to the fire engine, eliminating it altogether, or so modifying the type as radically to reduce its cost, its embarrassments and its difficulties.

The simplest mode, it would appear, by which electricity can be used for the extinguishment of fires is communication of a currernt at will from a city electrical fire extinguishment of fires is communication of a currernt at wi
