GATHERING OF DELEGATES

Prominent Political Workers Are at Harrisburg.

HASTINGS MEN ARE CONFIDENT

The Triumph of the Administration Seen Assured-Quay's Followers Will Put Up a Game Fight-Each Faction Claims a Victory.

Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 26.-Whether Senator Quay or the leaders arrayed against him will control the Republican organization in this state after next Wednesday, remains yet to be determined. Nothing that has occurred to-day would indicate the result of the bitter factional conflict. Both the Quay and the administration leaders are conand the administration leaders are confident of victory, but it is quite evident that somebody is making estimates that will not hold water.

Several defections from the Quay ranks were reported this afternoon, rains were reported this afternoon, among those mentioned in this connection being delegates from Erie, Butler, Indiana and Allegheny. Of course, the cry of bribery is raised frequently, but the anti-Quay people say it is only now becoming apparent wherein their opponents have been reckoning without a ponents have been reckoning without a true knowledge of the facts. They de-clare the fight has been won for the administration and that no amount of bluffing will change the result. On the other hand Senator Quay's supporters assert most positively that the victory is theirs, and that under no circumstances can they be defeated. So it stands. To those who have been quietly observing the manoeuvres to-day there is a baze shrouding the situation which cannot be easily penetrated. Guessing is indulged in by everybody, but there is little or no betting. The figure men on Senator Quay's side say he will have from ten to thirty majority, but the administration calculations reverse these figures in their own favor

Quay's Committee Assembles. The chief feature of the day's events was the meeting of the state committee this afternoon. It was called for 3 o'clock, but nearly half an hour elapsed before Secretary Jere B. Rex rapped the members to order. He then stated that the committee was assembled pursuant to a request of a majority of the mem-bers for the purpose of transacting business. It was first proposed to hold the session in secret, but ex-Chairman Thomas V. Cooper moved that an exception be made for the members of the press, and his motion prevailed. Then Mr. Fuller, of Fayette offered the following resolution:

"Whereas, The chairman of the Republican state committee, B. F. Gilkeson, on June 18, 1895, issued a call for the convening of the Republican state convention on Aug. 28, 1895, to 'nominate a candidate for state treasurer and six conditions." and six candidates for judges of the superior court, and for the transaction of such other usiness as may be pre-sented, in which call he stated he was 'directed by the Republican state com-mittee to announce' the same; and Whereas, The state committee is now convened pursuant to a call for the majority of its members for the transaction of such business as may be necessary preliminary to the conven-ing of the state convention. "Resolved. That a committee of

After a short wait the committee, After a short wait the committee, which now numbered seventy-one members, received the report of three gentlemen, who waited on Chairman Gilkeson. The chairman, Mr. Watres, said they had seen Colonel Gilkeson and presented to him the resolution of the committee, that he had read it and replied in these words:

tion together, and I have no business to lay before it." This settled the business so far as Chairman Gilkeson was concerned, and immediately a mo-tion was made calling ex-Chairman Thomas V. Cooper to preside. It was unanimously agreed to and he took the chair. He said: Chairman Cooper's Remarks. "Gentlemen of the committee: I thank you for this mark of confidence. and while I am temporary chairman I will always hold myself subject to your direction. (Wild applause.) I had the honor of presiding over the Republican state committee for a period of eight consecutive years, and there never was a stretch moment in all that time that I a single moment in all that time that I was not subject to the committee's di-rection. (Cheers.) Every call to each and every convention clearly stated that fact. In each and every call it was reiterated, and it has been stated was reiterated, and it has been stated and reiterated by each and every chair-man of the Pennsylvania state commit-tee, including Colonel Gilkezon, since the organization of the Republican party, and it will be reiterated during its life. (Cheers.) I find here almost two-thirds of the members of the Re-publican committee of Pennsylvania. I am informed by gentlemen present that fully two-thirds of the committee will be represented in this body when the incoming trains arrive. I hope only to preside during the incapacity of Chair-man Glikeson (wild cheers) and that when he sees how truly representative this body is, and how great its major-ity, he will reflect that he ought not to be chairman of one-third, but of the whole committee. Gentlemen of the committee, a majority of the members being present, we are now ready for Getting Down to Business Mr. Seal, of Dauphin, then offered a resolution providing for the appointment of a committee of nine to examine all incidentals, and hear and to report upon all contests, and report to the committee tomorrow at 3 o'clock. After amending the resolution striking out the reference to contest, and changing the hour of meeting tomorrow to 11 o'clock, it was agreed to. The chair appointed Lieutenant Governor Lyon, Allegheny; H. K. Boyer, Philadelphia; David H. Thomas, Chester; E. W. Parshall, Warren; J. S. Philadelphia; David H. Thomas, Chester; E. W. Parshall, Warren; J. S. Beacom, Westmoreland; George R. Scull, Somerset; J. R. Harrah, Beaver; J. K. Slegfried, Schuyikill, and W. H. Andrews, Crawford. A committee consisting of John F. Finney, Schuyikill; Albert Millar, Dauphin, and George Speakman, Chester, was appointed to make the necessary arrangements at the convention hall, and have charge of the distribution of tickets.

The Wyoming Outrage Ratified. The Wyoming Outrage Ratified.

Then the committee adjourned. Subsequently the work of examining the credentials was taken up by the subcommittee, and it is that the Quay delegates from the First and Fifth wards in Philadelphia and Wyoming county will be placed on the roll.

Chairman Glikeson has control of the Opera house, and there will probably be a lively controversy if any attempt is made to disposses him on Wednesday morning. There is some talk of the Quay men attending the play to-morrow night, and remaining in the building until Wednesday in order to retain possession of the hall, as was done at the Democratic state convendone at the Democratic state conven-tion in 1880.

The other incident of the day, which

The other incident of the day, which created most talk, was the taking possession of the rooms reserved for state committee headquarters at the Lochiel by Gilkeson by the members of the committee opposed to him. The chairman subsequently opened headquarters in parlors A and B at the Commonwealth, where Secretary Fetteroff met all visitors. Chairman Gilkeson said the headquarters of the chairman was all visitors. Chairman Gilkeson said the headquarters of the chairman was wherever he chose to establish it, and declined to discuss the affair.

The large Luzerne county delegation under the guidance of Judge Rice will arrive tomorrow morning. Ex-Chairman Cooper and Judge Miller, of Cleargoid, called on the governor today. There is a story to the effect that the governor and Judge Miller indulged in a rather peoplery exchange of coming a rather peppery exchange of opinion as to the relative dignity of a governor and judge engaging in active politics.

Company Is Destroyed

Wilkes-Barre, Aug. 25 - The plaining mill of the George S. Emerick com-pany, of White Haven, was burned to pany, of White Haven, was burned to the ground about 4 o'clock Sunday morning. The fire is thought to be the work of incendinaries. The fire was first noticed by a car inspector em-ployed near the mill on the Jersey Central road. It started in the stock room, and when first seen the whole interior of the room was ablaze. The railway men and the people of the vil-lage did what they could to ston the lage did what they could to stop the progres of the fire and save movable property, but the fire burned so fiercely that they were practically helpless. The mill was established in September, 1892, and has been run steadily since. Sometimes the orders camin so fast that it was kept going night and day. The mill represented Mr. Emerick's ideas: Much of the machinry used was of his own invention, and he gave it constant care. He had brought it to such a state of perfec-tion that with ten men he secured a larger output than a $229,000 Philadelphia plant could produce with thirty-five men. The capacity of the mill lately has been 150 tons per week. The value of the plant stock and facing on hand was $40,000, on which there is an insurance of only $8,000. The firm was negotiating for $5,000 more

Many of the visiting bodies brought their own bands or daum corps with them, and the scenes at the station were those of galety and pleasing confusion and bustle.

A large number of commanderies scheduled to arrive at 9 and 10 o'clock were from two to three hours late, but when they did come, between 11 and 12,30 o'clock, they seemed to come in as fast as the tracks could be cleared to make room for them.

Strange Experience of Miss Clark, of Syracuse.

SCHOOL TEACHER'S VACATION

While at a New York Dry Goods Store She Becomes Insane and Seeks Employment Under an Assumed Name.

Syracuse, N. Y., Aug. 25.—Miss Lucretia Clark, the school teacher who so mysteriously disappeared from Plainfeld, N. J., on Friday morning, Aug. 9, has been found. She was discovered at an early hour this morning at the home of ex-Mayor Charles S. Hayden, at Fitchburg, Mass., by Superintendent Louis J. Beck, of Beck's secret service bureau, New York, who has been vice bureau, New York, who has been steadily at work on the case since last Friday. Detective Beck arrived in this city tonight with Miss Clark in charge. city tonight with Miss Clark in charge. Since Miss Clark's disappearance from Plainfield, John E. Sweet, her brother-In-law, who resides in this city, has followed up every clue available. Last Friday the Beck secret service bureau were given charge of the case. Superintendent Beck started out, and as a result the strange mystery which so deeply involved Miss Clark has at last been solved. Mr. Beck, in starting his treastleader. been solved. Mr. Beck, in starting his investigation, made himself well acquainted with the habits of the woman. The first thing he did was to trace her from Plainfield to New York. It was discovered that on the Friday noon of her disappearance she had visited Macey's store. The detective continued to work upon the case and the main clue that led to finding of Miss Clark was received in a letter. Detective Beck's name had become known in reference to the case and on the second day of his investigation he received several anonymous letter threatening him with bodily harm if he persisted in the case. The postmarks of the letter the case. The postmarks of the letter were traced out and the place visited. Beck states that the woman became Beck states that the woman became mentally deranged and knew nothing of what transpired after leaving Ma-cey's store. She boarded a night boat bound for Providence. When she reached Boston Miss Clark went to a small boarding house on Tremont street. On the morning of Aug. 10 she appeared at an employment bureau and asked for a position as a domestic. She was given a position in the Hayden family of Fitchburg. Here she gave her name as Mary Burke, and from that time until this morning Miss Clark never left the house, attending to her du ties as a domestic in the closest mon-ner. Meanwhile Detective Beck was or her track, but not until last night was he fully convinced that the domestic Mary Burke and the school teacher Miss Clark were one and the same person. This noon the detective arrived at Fitchburg and proceeded to the Hay-den home. He found Miss Clark busily engaged in dusting the parlor furni-ture. When he made the object of his visit known, the entire household could hardly believe what he told them. Miss Clark was taken into a room with the detective and there she was quietly told she was to accompany the man to Syracuse. This she positively refused to do. Then an elderly sister of Miss

She arrived at noon and then heartrending scene was enacted.

Miss Lucretia recognized the woman Miss lacretia recognized the woman, and from that time her mind seemed to come back to her. With a start she recalled her true name and her family. She fell into her sister's arms and wept bitterly. How or when she had left New York she was unable to state. All was a blank from the time she had left Macey's store. Immediately word was sent to this city to Mr. Sweet. Not until 5 o'clock were the details of the finding of the woman made known to her family, and when they were re-lated to Miss Alice Clarke she fell upon the floor in a faint. It was some little the floor in a faint. It was some little time before she could be restored. The general appearance of Miss Clarke since she left Syracuse is greatly changed. #### WILL OF GENERAL HOLT.

The Missing Document Turns Up Mysteriously-It Bears the Signatures of U. S. Grant, Ellen B. Sherman and W. T. Sherman.

Washington, Aug. 26.—What pur-ports to be the late will of the late General James Holt, who was the deheral James Holt, who was the judge advocate general under Lincoln, and of Kentucky, who died over a year ago, was made public today in a sensational manner. In the mail delivered to the office of the register of wills, on Saturday were two or three envelopes which were not opened until this morning by Colonel Wright, the register. Among them was one addressed in crude letters, printed in ink, which, when opened, was found to contain a half sheet of foolscap paper, the left edge of which was burned. the left edge of which was burned, but not enough to make the writing illegible. Several small holes were burned in the sides and center of the sheet, but scarcely a word was eliminated. The text of the document was as follows:

"I do hereby devise and bequeath all "I do hereby devise and bequeath all of my property, personal and real to Lizzle Hynes, cousin of my first wife, and to Josephine Holt, of Throckmorton, who is my god-child, and to their heirs and assigns forever. I do hereby direct that at my death all of my property be divided equally between them. "Lizzle Hyns is to inherit hers at my death, Josephine at the age of 21. Her death, Josephine at the age of 21. Her father, Major Charles B. Throckmor-ton, will hold her share in trust. I ap-point Mr. Luke Deviln, of Washington, executor. Signed and scaled in the presence of these witnesses at Washington, Feb. 7, 1873. J. Holt."
"Witnesses—Ellen B. Sherman, U. S. "Witnesses-Ellen B. S Grant, W. T. Sherman."

No Explanation Offered. Not one word of explanation accompanied the will, and the officials of the register's office are at a loss to account for its appearance. No one who is familiar with the handwriting of General Holt and with the signatures of Grant and Sherman doubt the au-thenticity of the document. General Holt was supposed to have died intestate, and proceedings under that supposition were begun a year ago, on the petition of Washington D. Holt, William G. Sterrett and John W. Holt, William G. Sterrett and John W. per, however, in the testator's own hand, were the words: "This will has been wholly revoked. J. Holt." The administrator was therefore directed to proceed as though no will had been offered or written. There was ac-cordingly a distribution of $9,000 at that time among the next of kin.

This is the only distribution of funds that has been made and the adminis-

Yreka, Cal., Aug. 26.—About 1 o'clock this morning a crowd of 250 men gath-ered here to lynch the four murderers for the county jail. So quietly were their preparations made that the sheriff had no intimation of their coming. At 1 o'clock, the crowd having gathered, they secured an old rail at the depot and carried it to the court house square. The local police were called away by a sham. By the time they returned they realized the intention of the crowd.
