WILL TEAR UP TRACKS

Unused Rails in the City Streets Must Be Taken Out.

If Traction Company Is Willing to Do Work He Will Give Them a Reasonable Time-Otherwise He Will Tear Them Out.

Street Commissioner Kinsley will consult today with Mayor Connell regarding the removal of unused street car tracks within the city limits. It is the desire of the street commissioner to deal fairly with the company and not to do anything that might seriously embarass the new manager, Mr. Siliman. He will, however, make effort to compel the street car company to use their tracks or tear them up. Council ordered that the unused tracks on Mulberry street, near the old barn, be removed, but before the ordinance directing this to be done could be passed through councils, the street car company had the tracks removed of their own accord. If they show the same spirit in every other case the street commissioner calls to their attention they will be allowed ample time to remove the tracks; if, however, they do not heed the mandate of the city the street commissioner will tear up the tracks himself. To a Tribune reporter he said: "I will probably have an 'ad' for your lost and found column, reading: Found, a lot of old unused rails buried in the city streets. GATHERED HERE AND THERE

Internal Revenue Collector Grant Herring has returned from Europe, where he had William F. Harrity, chairman of the Democratic national committee, for a travelling campon-ion, and will today resume his dutier as the head of the revenue department of this district. Mr. Herring said yesterday that James McDonald, who was appointed temporary deputy revenue collector at the time Mr. Herring went to Europe, will not be disturbed.

This city is a favorable rehearsing place for theatrical companies this year. Last week the "Jolly Chums" company rehearsed at the academy, preliminary to the opening of ther neason, and this week Andrew Mack and his company are rehearsing at the same house. Mr. Mack starred two years ago in "Irish Loyalty," and last season was a member of Pete Daly's "Country Sport" company. He possesses an excellent voice as well as a poetic temperment, being the author of a number of the songs that he sings. This year he will star in Scanlan's old play, "Myles 'Aroon," and will be surrounded by a good company. He is under the management of D. W. Truss and company, of New York, one of the largest theatrical firms in the country. Mr. Mack and company were whearsing "Myles Aroon" in New York last week, but had to vacate the theater saturday night to make way for "Princess Bonnie," which will be under the management of Truss and Company this season. Yesterday morning the company went through the drama without prompting on its first rehearsal in this city. It will open its season at the Academy of Music next Monday night. The "1492" company will also rehearse in this city prior to opening its season, which event will take place at the Frothingham. The company will include Richard Harlowe as Queen Isabella, and nearly all of the people of the original company who won for "1492" its great popularity.

During the week City Controller Widmayer completed the work of drawing up the contract with the Barber Asphalt company for paving Clay avenue, and all that remained to make it operative was Mayor Connell's signature. Mayor Connell was spending a week with a party of friends who are camping in the Adirondacks, and, as the Asphalt company was very anxious to begin the work yesterday, the mayor's secretary, Mark K. Edgar, sent the contracts with special delivery stamp to His Honor, stating the exigencies of the case, and requesting him to sign and return the contracts. The letter was directed to Old Forge, N. Y., the address which the mayor left with his secretary before he went away. It so happened that Mayor Connell's tent was pitched forty-five miles from Old Forge, in a county without roads or any means of travel, except by foot. One of the servants of the mayor's party returned from Old Forge last Friday and brought the information that there was a special delivery letter at the postoffice which he could not get because he did not have the power to sign Mayor Conneil's name. The mayor was somewhat anxious when this news reached him so he hired a guide to tramp through the mountains and get the letter, giving him a letter empowering him to sign for the special delivery letter. The guide started at 4 o'clock on Friday afternoon and returned with the letter at 8 o'clock the next night, having made the ninty miles in twenty-eight hours. When the mayor opened the package and discovered the unimportant cause of all the trouble and expense he had been put to he was in a proper mood to say real cross things, but ite didn't, because it isn't his habit. Sept. 24.

It will be the twenty-ninth annual parade of the department, fortieth anniversary of the Franklin Engine company and twentieth anniversary of the Relief Engine company of Petersburg. Both companies will banquet in the evening, the Franklins at a place to be decided upon later, and the Reliefs at Meckler's hall.

Meckler's hall.

There will be two visiting companies. The Hallstead Engine company of Hallstead, Pa., accompanied by the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western band, will be the guests of the Franklins. Independent Hose company, No. 5, of Binghamton, accompanied by the Baker-Severson band, will be guests of Excelsior Hose company of the North End.

End. Chief Ferber and Assistant Chief Suydam were appointed a committee to make final arrangements. The posi-tion of the companies and the line of march will be about the same as last year. There will be seven bands, two drum corps and over 600 men in line.

LAST DAYS OF POMPEIL.

To Be Given at Laurel Hill Park for Two Weeks. Commencing Monday, Sept. 2, and continuing every evening for two weeks, weather permitting, Pain's marvelous production of "The Last Days of Pompeli" will be given at Lau-rel Hill park. The Chicago Herald, in speaking of this production as given there, says:

"Last evening was the first night of this season's presentation of "The Last Days of Pompeit," which had such a Days of Pompeil," which had such a successful run here in 1889, and met with a hearty reception from the large audience which had assembled. In the foreground is the sea, upon the shores of which the city of Pompeil can be seen stretching back half-way up the sides of treacherous Mount Vesuvius. Near the sea and to the left the Temple of isis stands, and here the sacrifices are to take place. In the sacrifices are to take place. In the center is the arena, where are carried on the games peculiar to the Roman festival. "The applause of the audience at various intervals showed that it found nothing to be desired, and reached a climax when the gray old mountain began its eruption. The whole was in perfect harmony, from the apparel of the rabble to the decorations of the temple."

There will be excursion rates on all roads running into Scranton, while the price of admission hs been placed at the nominal sum of 25 cents.

Systematic Robbery Carried on by Fou Depraved Children, Urged On by Their Neighbors, Who Bought the Stolen Plunder for Little or Nothing.

Another gang of juvenile burglars Another gang of Juvenile burgars was bagged by the police yesterday. Four little Hungarian lads for the last two or three weeks have been systematically robbing Finley's dry goods store, the Famous shoe store and the Four Cent store, and disposing of their booty to people of their own nationality living on Washington avenue flats.

Early last week Chief Simpson re-Early last week Chief Simpson re-cleved complaints from the three store-keepers that goods had been removed from their stores during the night. A watch was set, but nothing developed. Again on Saturday other complaints were received, and on Saturday night and Sunday night Lieutenant Davis and Officers Feeney and M. J. Walsh kept a vigilant watch over the stores which were being visited. which were being visited.

Early yesterday morning Officer Feeney, from his hiding place, saw two lit-

the boys sneaking down the alley and entering the Four Cent store by the rear doors. They gained entrance by breaking a pane of glass and removing the bar which secured the door.

Picket Gave the Alarm. One little fellow was outside on the lookout for police and the other went inside. When the officer made a dash to capture them the picket gave the alarm and started in one direction, while the other bolted from the store and took another direction. The offi-cer followed the first, as he knew Offi-cer Walsh was at the other end of the cer Waish was at the other end of the ailey and could intercept him. The little fellow was a lively runner, but was overtaken by Officer Feeney as Officer Waish was heading him off.

* He was taken to the station house, where he made an open breast of all he knew. He said his name was Johnnie Baricoski and his age il years. There were four in the gang and they were the one who had robbed the three stores.

were four in the gang and they were the one who had robbed the three stores. He also told the names of his com-panions in crime and later in the day all were arrested by Officers Feeney, Dyer and Walsh. They are August Scholtz, aged 15; George Smith, aged 14; and Frank Jolvidrie, aged 9. Another little fellow named George Rusock, who was arrested for breaking into a candy was arrested for breaking into a candy store on the flats two years ago, was also arrested on suspicion, but dis-charged, as nothing could be proven

Scholtz, the eldest of the quartette, served three months of the present year for the same kind of work and is already a hardened little criminal. Smith, the next in age, had to leave Shamely on account of a three months of a three shamely on account of a three shamely of the the next in age, had to leave Shamokin on account of a theft, so young Joivi-drie stated. He said himself that he has traveled all over the country between here and Chicago. They Confessed Their Guilt When brought up for a questioning all four confessed their guilt and an-swered readily all questions put to them. They took twelve blankets from Finley's by smashing a pane of glass and inserting a stick with a nail on the end of it, drawing the blankets out one by one through the opening.

Two nights were spent in getting the blankets. The Four Cent store was enblankets. The Four Cent store was en-tered, as already described. The Fam-ous lost only a pair of shoes, two "lefts," which were gotten by breaking through a window.

The boys told where they had dis-posed of their plunder and all was recovered, with the exception of a quan-tity of knives and scissors belonging to the Four Cent store and two blan-kets from Finley's. The blankets have been located by the police and will be recoverd today. The people who have been receiving the stolen goods have purchased them from the lads for small sums ranging from 5 cent to a quarter. The following are some of those who have been receiving the stolen goods: Names of Purchasers. Anna Cysmadox, South Washington avenue, one blanket; John Boray, 336 Washington avenue, two blankets and one box of knives; Mike Kelly, rear of one box of knives; anke keny, rear of River street, four boxes of knives and forks and two bread knives; Carto laguski, Washington avenue, one blan-ket, six knives and forks and eight shears; Eva Barnock, three knives and three forks; John Smalanio, three knives and three forks. Every one of those people will be ar-rested and will no doubt be made to suffer worse than the children whom they encouraged. GOSPEL TENT SERVICES.

Train No. 8, on the Bloomsburg divi-sion of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, killed John Huber, a Taylor carpenter, who was walking on the track between Bellevue and his home about 9 o'clock last night. about 9 o'clock last night.

Just as the train was entering the cut below the Dodge breaker the engineer saw a man walking on the track and blew the whistle to warn him.

The man seemed to pay no heed to the whistle, but, according to the engineer's story, walked straight toward the en-gine and turned his back to the pilot as he was about to be struck. The only injury that appeared on his body was a contusion on the right side of the head. The remains were taken to this city and conveyed to Raub's undertaking establishment, where they were identified by several Swiss residents of this city.
