FIREMEN'S UNION FORMED.

Its Object Is to Bring the State Conven tion to This City in 1896.

In response to a call for a meeting of the firemen of Lackawanna county to boom Scranton for the state convention next year a large gathering of repre-sentative firemen met in Durr's hall yesterday afternoon, and after discuss-ing various ways and means, effected permanent organization of a so clety to be known as the Firemens' union, with the above purpose as its object.

C. M. Zizelmann, of the Phoenix, was elected president; Charles A. Yoos, of Columbia, and M. H. Whyte, of Niagara, vice-presidents; Isadore Goodman, of Nay Aug, secretary; George R. Suydam, of Nay Aug, treasurer. It was decided to send out circulars to every company in the state announcing decided to send out circulars to every company in the state announcing Scranton's intention to fight for the convention, and setting forth inducements this city has to offer to visitors. Next Sunday another meeting will be held, when committees will be appointed and, active campaigning begun. This year's convention will be held in Reading, Oct. 1 to 4.

MEETINGS TWO IMMENSE

Conducted by Brangelist Schiveres in the Prothingham Theater.

HIS TALKS VERY PRACTICAL

Spoke of Common Failings of Humanity and What We Should Do to Earn Our Eternal Reward-Those Who Assisted Him.

Evangelist Schiverea conducted two large Gospel meetings at the Frothinghsm theater yesterday afternoon, the first beginning at 3 o'clock, being for men only, and the second was a general meeting, held immediately after. The reverend gentleman had good reason to feel pleased at the outpouring of people at both services, particularly the second one. the second one.

Every seat on the first floor and half of the balency were filled at the men's meeting, but in the treeral meeting meeting, but in the typeral meeting the accordance was overflowing. The services were rend-red more elaborate through the present of Tallie Morgan and a male choir, which led in the singing. After several hymns had been rendered by the congregation and Mr. Schiverca had offered fervent prayer, Alfred Wooler, tenor of the Elm Park church quartette, sang most beautifully "Tis the Blessed Hour of Prayer."

Prayer."

Mr. Schiveren took for his text the words of St. Paul relative to the man who sow seed as he sows so must he reap. He said there were two classes of men before him; those who sow to the std-it and whose every thought, word and action is for the honor and glory of God, and those who sow to the flesh and the world and sin. No man can deceive God, nor can man deceive himself. If man loves God in his heart he will show it in his actions. God helps men to know what kind of seed they are sowing. God gave man a conscience, and conscience is Almighty God's voice talking to man's spirit. Everytime we do wrong conscience lets Everytime we do wrong conscience lets

What One Man Thought.

The speaker said that a man once told him there is no such a thing as a literal hell that a man's conscience is hell enough. Mr. Schiverea said he is hell enough. Mr. Schiverea said he agreed with that man partially; conscience, indeed, is enough of a hell, while there is a conscience, but sooner or later the total and absolute destruction of conscience comes when a sinful life is persisted in. If you pick up the papers you can read of murders and other brutal crimes Why did the man commit murder? Because he had lost all conscience. The murderer could commit other crimes and laugh at them that first used to trouble his could commit other crimes and laugh at them that first used to trouble his conscience. Just as soon as conscience becomes useless there is not a sin this side of hell that the devil wants man to do but he will do it.

Another attribute is a man's influence. A man without it, the speaker said, is a blank in the universe. If we want to see the effect of influence has upon us let us look around and see the effect it produces on those with whom we are daily coming in contact. Our influence will tell us what kind of seed we are sowing. If our acts, our life, our babits are such as to cause our children, our associates, our parents, or whomsoever may be in the same plane of life to sin, to forget God and choose the devil, we are sowing bad seed and sooner or later will reap the harvest.

Walking in His Footstens.

Walking in His Footsteps.

The speaker narrated a story about traveling over muddy ground one day followed by his little son, who shouted out, "Papa, watch where you are going, because I am walking in your footsteps." In like manner are the sons of all fathers walking in their footsteps. The parent's example and influence curb the boy's will and shape him to know or reject God. The former puts potatoes in the ground and expects to reap the same crop; he does expects to reap the same crop; he does ot look forward to a crop of turnips. Therefore, when a man sows good seed he may look forward to a good harvest; but when he plants bad and wicked ed, he must expect to reap of the natural, physical and moral laws are all alike in this particular. The farmer reaps just as he sows. In the physical world the man who sows strong drink will reap the whirlwind of drunkenness. Sow bad company and you will reap the effects of it; gamble and you will likewise reap the harvest.

A young man will begin by playing, perhaps, for peanuts and will end up with placing his character on the game. He may have learned the game in his mother's parlor. The speaker exhorted the young men to shun innocent games, as they create a desire for going deeper, until finally the mind is satisfied with nothing less than the infatuation of the race track and gilded palaces.

Examples in the Physical World.

In the physical world the man reaps who holds his finger in the flame only for a moment, he suffers pain for many days. An indiscret act that will take no longer to do than three or four minutes often costs a man his arm, his hand, his leg, and often his life. The sin that brings not more than a half hour's pleasure is often atoned in hour's pleasure is often atoned in penitentiary for twenty years. The man reaps when he sees the consequences of his misspent life reflected in the worthless and characteriess sons he has raised. The speaker concluded by fervently exhorting all present to decide then upon accepting Christ and from this forth leading better lives. Many went to the Young Men's Christian association building and had a chance to profess themselves at the meeting which was specially held for that purpose.

The second meeting was made up principally of mothers and daughters. The congregation sang as a starter principally of mothers and daughters. The congregation sang as a starter "Bringing In the Sheaves." Tallie Morgan's male choir sang "God Bless My Boy Tonight." The solo part was sustained in a charming manner by W. C. Weeden. Mr. Wooler was heard again; he sang with rich and clear tone the beautiful hymn, "New Jerusalem." Rev. Warren G. Partridge offered prayer and Mr. Schieverea preached from the gospel of St. Luke. He read the story about the man who invited his friends to partake of a great supper; and they all with one voice began to make excuses. The voice began to make excuses. The man, becoming angry, bade his ser-vants go out into the highways and the byways and bring in the poor and mained, the halt and the blind.

The speaker wove a beautiful sermon around this text and left a lasting im-pression on his hearers. He announced that each evening until Friday he will preach in the tent on the South Side.

THE DIVINE FAMILY.

abject of Discourse of Rev. M. L. Bial in Providence Christian Church.

in Providence Christian Church.

Rev. M. L. Blair, the president of the Pennsylvania Christian conference, delivered a very interesting address yesterday morning in the Providence Christian church. He took for his text the words, "The Divine Family," and during the course of his address said: "The word family denotes the sweetest relation known to men. The Divine family (not families) is divided into two parts, one in Heaven the other on earth. The family name, Disciple denotes our relation to our Master, the great teacher. Christian expresses our relation to the Father, The Son, each other and the world. How are we adopted into the family? God is revealed as our Father, Christian as a brother, we as children. As children we must partake of the nature of our Parent. How shall we best do that? By imitating Christ, that is, to be a construction of the service, including a quartette by Professor and Mrs. T. J. Davies, Mrs. Heckel aino gave a very beautiful solo.
