Yesterday morning the county courts Yesterday morning the county courts bened after a vacation of two months, and there was a big crowd in the court room, including nearly every member of the Bar association. At 10 o'clock Judges Woodward, Lynch and Bennett entered the room and took their places on the bench. A large vase of roses was in the center of the judges' desk, and a number of potted plants on the side. Judge Woodward entered first, followed by the others in the order of their seniority. When they ascended the bench, Judge Woodward sat in the center, with Judge Lynch on the right and Judge Bennett on the left. Judge Woodward then said:

VICTORY FOR THE BOARD. finers' Mills School Case Is Decided by the Court.

Yesterday the court handed down he long expected opinion in the Minrs' Mills school case and it gives the victory to M. J. Mulvey. Robert Ayrs and George Wasker, because they ould not be elected to particular slaces on the board, held the books and sroperty. Mulvey got out an injunction to prevent them from transacting susiness and it was the question of whether or not the injunction should be continued, that decided the battle. Sudge Woodward, in his opinion, says:
"The difficulty in this case grows out of a misconception of the effect upon he organization of the school board, of the death of Patrick J. C. Clune, which caused a vacancy in the board, sut did not dissolve it. A quorum still wandined and it was their duty to till the vacancy. Nothing in the naure of a preliminary or temporary organization was called for. And this view of the law disposes of the case."

The motion to continue injunction ras granted and injunction continued.

DEATH OF CHARLES BECK.

of a Well-Known Wilkes-Barre

Dentist Dies in the West. Dr. Charles Beck, of West Superior, Wis., son of Dr. C. S. Beck, of this city, and whose serious illness of typhoid-neumonia has already been mentioned in these columns, died yesterday of ty-shold-pneumonia after a week's illness. His parents were with him at the last. Dr. Beck's death, at the threshold of a promising career as a medical practitioner, is peculiarly sad. He leaves a oung widow, to whom he had been carried less than these ways and the same had been narried less than three years.

Dr. Beck entered Yale in the class of

After his course at Yale Mr. Beck went to University of Pennsylvania, where he retained his prominence as an athlete and was the mainstay of the Pennsy foot ball team. He finished his medical course with great credit.

Dr. Beck went west a few years ago and had built up a fine practice. He was about 35 years of age and his death is sincerely mourned by many friends here and elsewhere. Besides his parents, deceased is survived by a sister, Mrs. E. L. Parrish, of Buffalo, and two brothers, Dr. Harry M., of this city, and Horace, now a student at University of Pennsylvania. TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

The Annual Meeting of the City Teachers

The annual institute was opened yesterday morning at 9 o'clock in the high school building, with an unusually large attendance of instructors, not only from Wilkes-Barre, but from all the surrounding towns. The whole morning session was taken up with organization, enrolment of teachers and election.

The afternoon session was called to order by Superintendent Coughlin, who introduced Dr. Guthrie, president of the city school board, who said in part: the city school board, who said in part:
"When your superintendent asked me to officiate in this pleasant position he pleased to see you back. I hope you enjoyed your vacation, and judging from your bright cheeks and sparkling eyes you have done so. We now come back to work. It is a glorious thing to be able to work. I have no respect for a loafer. It is not work to go to work and put in your seven or eight hours in a mechanical, perfunctory manner. Work should be from an inspiration from the Great Jehovah. I am proud to be a director in this city and I have always been in favor of paying teachers liberal salaries in order that they may be able to have a der that they may be able to have a vacation and enjoyy it. I have not time to write out an address, nor even time to think of one. You will therefore excuse me, I trust, for not having a speech prepared for this occasion. But I will endeavor to entertain you otherwise. I do not want to see you get down to stern work so suddenly and so soon. I will therefore endeavor to amuse you with a declamation or two."

Then, with all the bearing of a finished decurious the doctor resilted a midelocutionist, the doctor recited, amid the closest and keenest interest, "Casey at the Bat," "Barney's Cuddle-Doon," and "Balky McGuckin." In the latter two he showed remarkable ability in dialectic expression. In response to a hearty encore he recited a comic piece in German dialect. Professor Byron W. King, of Pitts-burg, gave an excellent talk on "Read-ing." His address, notwithstanding his witty sallies, was an earnest and eloquent effort. He dwelt forcibly on the various points of good reading and he outlined how to become a good reader and how to teach it, in a clear and interesting manner. He was followed by Dr. Nelson, of Delaware college, after which Miss Buckhel, of Lawrenceville, Pa., gave an interesting outline of her work, inan interesting outline of her work, in- his studies at the Bloomsburg Normal the best method of study. If you were to call at 27 Front avenue, you would find a pleasant elderly lady, Mrs. Captain Henesy by name. Her kindly smile and joyous manner are to no small extent due to the escape she has had. Her own words can better describe her rescue and one can easily understand her present happy condition when they realize what she has gone through. She says: "About five months ago I had an attack of sickness which lasted for a week and since that time I have been subject at intervals to similar attacks, some of which were longer in duration. It is hard for me to describe how I suffered. The pain would commence in my head, after which it would seem to pass down my body and settle in my back, my sides a ched, my back ached, and I had a feeling of great distress in the bowels. The increased pain which seemed to come from lying down, would be almost unbearable, my face and stomach would bloat up and I could hardly stand on my feet, dizziness made it almost impossible; this feeling was always with me even after the violence of the attack passed over. The last attack I had was the worst, and was so bad I would not have been able to tell this story but for Doan's Kidney Pills. As fing relief and cure. I hope always to be able to procure them."
