THE TEACHERS' INSTITUTE Second Day's Proceedings at the High

The morning session yesterday at The morning session yesterday at the teachers' institute was opened by the singing of a hymn, after which Su-perintendent Coughlin read a chapter of Scripture and the assembly sang again. Prayer was offered, and then the secretary called the roll, to which all teachers and substitutes answered present.

After five minutes, which was given After five minutes, which was given over to the teachers for discussion. Dr. Nelson, of Ohio, began his talk on "New Physiology," or the "Cell Doctrine," the idea being that all animate life had its origin in one original cell, which, in time, spread and begat other cells. To illustrate his point he exhibited an egg which he said unyone could study. The yolk was the first portion of an egg that formed and that spread and formed other cells as the white and formed other cells as the white and shell, and during incubation different organs, the head, the lungs, liver, intesorgans, the head, the littles, it could be the original cell, namely, the yolk. He said most people, in speaking of a cell, imagine it was a jail cell, a vacant space between stone walls which was filled only it. with air, but they were wrong. For instance, take a drop of water, let it roll over a stone and the dust will cling to the outer edges and thus form a cell. Dr. Nelson's talk was very instructive and was listened to with marked atten-tion. The teachers then divided for sec-tion work, during which Miss Cronnon charge of all new teachers and substitutes and gave them instructions in the synthetic method of reading. Miss Buckbee alternated with Miss Cronnon and gave instructions in na-

Dr. Nelson gave an address during section work on the science of literature, and told why some men write as they do, and the wonderful influence. some men gain over an audience. He named as an example Dr. Jonathan Ed-wards, a rough spoken old diving, who could hold an audience spellbound while scoring them severely all the

Dr. King, of Ohio, spoke on "Accent and Abbrevisition," this being one of his talks on reading. Most teachers, he said, are disposed to give a wrong ac-cent. In illustrating this fact he cited the word "independent," and said if anyone could speak it without an ac-cent he would give a banquet for the entire institute. Dr. King emphasized his remarks by reciting "Rock of Ages," "Jesus Lover of My Soul," and Stood on the Bridge at Midnight." the latter he accented every word. His Lord's prayer, with misplaced accentuation, gave a contrary meaning to that intended. The doctor is certainly a capable elocutionist, his dia-lect, his action and powers of mimicry being exceptionally good, and his effort was greatly enjoyed. Dr. King, in studying elecution, has given particular attention to facial expression. In perfecting himself he studied Edwin Booth. Joseph Jefferson and others of the better class of actors.

Today's programme is a very interest-ing one. Dr. Nelson will speak this morning on "The Trend of the Continent." Dr. King will continue his lessons on "Reading," and Director J. B Houser will speak on the relation of the school board to the state. In the afternoon State Superintendent N. C. Schaeffer will make an address and there will also be a number of others and there will also be a number of other addresses by instructors.

MR. BRUNDAGE SUGGESTED.

Consent to Be a Nominee for the Superior Bench.

The Democratic state leaders are de termined to have a representative from Luzerne county on the state ticket, and now that Mr. Lenahan has refused to allow his name to be used, they have appealed to Mr. Brundage to allow his name to go before the convention.

Mr. Brundage has not yet made public his feeling in the matter, but it is believed that he wil allow the use of his name. What motive the Democratic leaders have in insisting on a man from Luzerne is not known, but it is the general impression that they hope to cut down the tremendous vote that Judge Rice would receive. However, if a man is nominated, there are few Democratic lawyers in the county that would be better quali-
