THE SCRANTON TRIBUNE-THURSDAY MORNING, SEPTEMBER 5, 1895. the last two months, and which we have noticed in our last two issues, became so exciting last week that the speeds were telegraphed to this country, and on Friday the contest culminated in a run of 540 miles in 512 minutes by the West Coast line, this line thus coming off victor. The train left London at 8 o'clock and arriced in Aberdeen at 4.32 the next morning; 540 miles in 512 minutes, which is equal to 63.25 miles as hour. The train was run through from London to Carlisle, 2954 miles without a stop, and for a distance of thirty-two miles south of Carlisle the speed averaged seventy-four miles an hour. It is probable that the four cars which made up the train weighed less than 117 tons. To compare locomotives we must have full details, weight of train, etc., and the profile of the whole line. The best speed mentioned in the English report, thirty-two miles at seventy-four miles an hour, fails considerably short of the record made by the Camden and At-lantic On April 21 last, from Camden to Atlantic City, N. J. This Atlantic City run was made by an engine with 73-inch driving wheels. If our American editors who are inclined to feel cha-grined at these new English records wish to compare mere speed figures they should emphasize this perform-ance.
