THE INSTITUTE.

Dr. Weaver Makes on Excellent Address Professor Shaeffer's Talk.

Professor Shaeffer's Talk.

Yesterday morning, shortly after the institute had been called to order by Superintendent Coughlin, and the opening exercises conducted, Miss Buckbee gave an excellent address on "Nature Studies," and A. J. Gallagher spoke on "Language." He advocated the election of superintendents by the people, and thought that principals should have the placing of teachers in the buildings over which they preside.

After a brief recess Dr. Weaver, one of the school directors, was introduced of the school directors, was introduced and gave one of the best talks of the institute. He said that he was thor-oughly interested in school work, and had attended institute whenever pos-sible. His theme was "Great Epochs in sible. His theme was "Great Epochs in Medicine," and he thought it a good one for none of the greatest medical discoveries, especially of recent years, belonged to America. Dr. Weaver then took up the discovery of ether. Prior to 1846 no great operation was performed except under extreme difficulty and sometimes danger. Previous to that time Dr. Morton had made some advances in guarding against mental advances in guarding against mental and physical shock. Dr. Morton said once to his friend, Dr. Warren, that he would like to place a patient in such a condition that he would know nothing of the operation that was performed. Many of the students assembled. Ether had been known, of course, but never used as an anaesthetic. Suffice it to say that the operation was successful.

Then there were rival claims. Dr.

Morton was deluged with compliments and in one case a generous purse was centributed. But it is generally acknowledged that to Dr. Morton belongs the credit of introducing ether as an enaesthetic. In a Massachusetts hos-pital is a slab on which is recorded, "This is the hospital in which ether was for the first time used by Dr. Morton." It is a disgrace to this county that no more fitting recognition of this discovery has ever been displayed.

Dr. Weaver then went into the sub-ject of bacteriology, Dr. Gross was one of the first to introduce new theories as to bacteria. He is men-tioned particularly because of his being a native of this vicinity. It was he who first said there was danger from infection in operating on patients In hospitals. There was at that time rivalry between the colleges as to which had the newest theory on this subject. Bacteria was known as far back as 1838.

In 1880 Professor Coap discovered the germ of consumption, and later the germ of cholera was discovered. For this he was highly honored. Professor Krebbs discovered the germ of diphtheria and called it baccillus. The habits of this germ are now clearly

It is a peculiar fact that some of these germs are antagonistic to each other, and students are giving much of their time to discover which are antagonistic.

The doctor went on to explain the different forms of bacteria found in the air and water. These germs can be eliminated, and water companies should be compelled to filter the water. In Berlin, where the water is most flithy, it is made almost pure by filtration. In New Orleans the same thing is seen. The natural habitant of bacteria is favorable to contagion, that is they are found principally in dark and damp places. No germ can live in 21: degrees of heat, so that when water is boiled, it becomes reasonably safe for drinking purposes. Children are more liable to contagion than adults, by reason of their habits, such as using the same pencil, where a group of them

A case was illustrated to show that germs were found in the mouth of a patient at the end of six weeks or longer after it was apparently cured

The danger of disease germs in school rooms is not great because of their being weil lighted. Dr. Weaver said that disease germs could be car-ried by the breath of a diphtheria patient. He cited as authority a case where this had been put to a test. Disease can be carried by contact, as the free exchange of pencils, chewing gum, apples or other fruit. State Superintendent Schaeffer then gave an interesting talk on the great Swiss teacher, Pestalozzi, a man who did more for the cause of humanity than all the others combined. In his native town of Zurich he found the rich revelling in splendor and the poor grovelling in poverty and ignorance. His desire in life was to found an industrial school but he lacked method. The poor children came in vast num-bers to his school, were clothed and often fed at his expense. His funds and he became so poor as to be com-pelled to write on the poorest material. At the time of his death he had finished his great work on education, "Leonard and Gertrude." Louise, the queen, wife of Frederick III, of Prussia, paid the highest tribute to the genius of Pes-talozzi when she traveled to Switzer-land to study his methods of education, that she might introduce them among er own people. Dr. Schaeffer spoke of the handsome buildings that have been erected as schools and said that the great ex-ample of this wonderful Swiss is now beginning to take hold of the people. He closed with an eloquent tribute to the worth of the great educator.

The morning session of the institute was closed by Dr. King's humorous recitation of how Columbus discovered America.

In the afternoon Dr. Nelson gave another of his interesting talks on reading, which was listened to with close attention by the teachers. Miss Laub, of the Stroudsburg State Normal school, spoke on physiology. This morning Professor Walsh, of the Bloomsburg Normal school, will make an address.

THE TRACTION MEN.

Officers Elected, a Trial Trip Taken and Banquet.

At the regular business meeting of At the regular business meeting of the State (Rallway association yesterday the following officers were elected: President, Hon. B. F. Meyers, Wilkes-Barre and Wyoming Valley Traction company; first vice-president, John Lloyd, Altoona; second vice-president, Robert E. Wright, Allentown; secretary, S. P. Light, Lebanon; treasurer, W. H. Lanius, of York; executive committee, Hon. B. F. Meyers, S. P. Light, Lebanon; John A. Rigg, Reading; Alvin Markle, 'Hazleton; John F. Ostram, Steelton.

ram, Steelton. Yesterday morning was spent in examining the exhibits in the armory and at 1.30 in the afternoon, the delegates boarded cars at the Square and were given a ride over part of the system. The Ninth Regiment band accompa-nied them and the music sounded very pleasing as wafted from the fast moving cars, Peaches, Pears, Apples, Bananas. Watermelon. Bread and Butter. Yesterday ended the convention, and the various delegates expressed them-selves as being delighted with the hospitality of the town and the way they were entertained by Superintendent Graham. When they returned to this city from Hanover park they disem-barked on the Square, and led by ex-President Rigg, gave three rousing cheers for the town and its people.

An Old Landmark Gone. One of the oldest landmarks in Wy oming valley-the old elm on Elm Hill, Plymouth, just above Bull Run crossing, was cut down yesterday because it has become so decayed as not to be con-sidered able to hold its own against a first-class storm. A great deal of the early history of Plymouth is grouped around this tree, and in Hendrick B. Wright's historical sketches of Plymouth, this copy from the old town Journal is made showing a resolution passed March 2, 1774: "It was voted at this meeting that for ye present ye tree that now stands northerly from Captain Butler's house, shall be ye Town Sign-Post." In explaining the town sign-post the historian describes it as a place where all business of the town was transacted, the place for posting notices, the public whipping post, the exchange, auction mart, the forum, the hustings, recruiting depot, the place for holding elections and the general enter of all business affairs.

Miss Kaiser's Concelts. Miss Sadle Kaiser will sing at Glen Summit tomorrow evening. This will her return from Europe, and a number of people from this city will attend. She will sing several of the selections which won for her so much favorable comment in England and

Rev. Dr. J. Watson Webb, pastor of the Central Methodist Episcopal church, has received a call from the First Methodist Episcopal church, of Syracuse, and it is likely that he will accept, as he has notified the official board that he has the matter under advisement. The board fully expects to lose Dr. Webb's services, as they feel that they cannot afford to keep him. The church to which he has been called is one of the leading Methodist churches of the country. Fish Dealers Objected

Larrabee & Co. have been bringing fish to Wilkes-Barre lately, and selling them at a very low rate from a car on the Central tracks. This in-censed some of the local dealers, who notified the company that if it permits its cars to be so used, they will not ship their freight over the Central road. In consequence of this action the firm named has rented a store and will sell fish from their store room.

Town Clock Going Again. At 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon the town clock resumed operation for the first time since July 23. This is the longest vacation the old clock has ever taken, and it is hoped, for the convenience of the public, it won't take an-other for some time. The jewels have been replaced, and the clock goes apparently as well as ever. Miss Hughes Will Recover. Miss Mamle Hughes, who was so badly hurt Wednesday night by falling from an electric car, will recover. Her scalp was very much lacerated, but the skull was not fractured as was feared, and it is now thought she will recover, as she was very much improved yesterday. Davis Improving.

William Davis, who was shot at Larksville a few days ago by Fred Chapman, is improving very much, and, unless some complication sets in he will make a good recovery.

RAILROAD NOTES.

The Delaware and Hudson company will erect snow sheds along its light track in Wayne county. It is given out that the Pennsylvania has entered the lists against the Pittsburg and Eastern for the opening of the interior of Indiana county. A race is on to see which company will get its road through first.

A number of roads are sending notice to their connections to the effect that unless the rules of the interstate commerce commission are complied with as regards grabirons, couplers, etc., after Jan. 1, they will not handle cars of such connection.

One of the freight officials of the Pennsylvania Railroad company said yesterday that the freight business was in better shape than it has been for a

The entire fleet of boats of the Northern Steamship company will winter at the head of the lakes. Heretofore these vessels have tied up at Buffalo or Cleveland. The change means the expenditure of at least $50,000 in repainting and refitting the boats and furnishing supplies for them to start with in the spring.

The Ontario rallway, it is claimed has been losing money recently through the operation of ticket swindlers. In New York Saturday Joseph Blank was arrested on the statement of August Weill that Blank, on Aug. 16, sold him two railroad tickets alleged to have been handed over to Blank by a con-ductor who was in league with him in disposing of tickets dishonestly.

The east bound movement of freight out of Chicago last week showed a considerable increase, both as compared with the movement of the previous week and that for the corresponding period last year. The total ship-ments were 56.095 tons, against 48.653 tons the week before and 48.059 tons in the same week last year. The Pan Handle route obtained the largest share of last week's business, having Goff in Guntemala Was Sconred.

Lima, O., Sept. 5.—The release of Robert J. Breckinridge, jr., and C. C. Goff, Americans under arrest for the murder of Cashier Brooks in Guatemala, was brought about by Supreme Chancellor of the World Walter B. Richle, of this city, they being members of the Knights of Pythias, and although there was no evidence against them the Guatemalan authorities insisted upon holding them.

Mr. Richle communicated with the state department. Two days later he received word that the attention of the minister at Guatemala had been called to the matter, and last evening Mr. Richie received word that the men had been released on ball.

GAME WARDENS FIRED UPON.

Nulliflers Trying to Make It Lively in Wisconsin.

Oshkosh, Wis., Sept. 5 .- The fish patrol Cora, a small steamer used by wardens in prosecuting the war against illegal fishing, was fired upon Sunday night, presumably by some of the nulli-flers. The boat was reconnoitering the south shore of the lake. Four shots were fired from a rifle, but none of the wardens was struck.

This is the second time the vessel has been fired upon, the first being last Thursday night. The deputies have been defied at various times to leave their boat. The Cora has now been armed with rifles and the deputies with revolvers. There is to be no let-up of the war until all illegal fishing has
