RAILROAD NOTES.

It is stated that representative individual anthracite producers will confer with J. Pierpont Morgan in reference to a settlement of the differences between the larger anthracite railroads.

Commenting upon the new order issued by the Pennsylvania, which relieves operators on the main line two days a month by the employment of a substitute, the Railroad Gazette says:

"The provision of this substitute by the company at its own expense is a commendable act, the chief defect in it is that the operator ought to be relieved once a week instead of only one day for each two weeks."

Politics must be a paying business. Hon. Life Pence, the Colorado Populist ex-congressman, and ex-Speaker Charles F. Crisp, of Georgia, were among the officers recently elected by the directors of the Port Jervis, Monticello and New York railroad.

Mr. Gibbons Believes Tax Collectors Impose Excessive Penalties.

OPINION OF ATTORNEY SCRAGG

It Was Read Yesterday at the Meeting of the Poor Board Complaints Made of South Side Speak-essies. Other Business of Meeting.

Even in the face of Attorney Scragg's opinion, rendered yesterday at the meeting of the poor board, Mr. Gibbons would not be reconciled to the justice and legality of giving a delinquent tax collector the power to impose penalties and add penalties for refusing or neglecting to pay their taxes.

Mr. Gibbons did not argue against the necessity of maintaining some method of compelling people to pay their taxes, but he took a decided stand against the collectors' present methods.

He intimated that collectors imposed excessive penalties and used no discrimination in their impositions, as every delinquent was fined a like amount, $1.12, when the law explicitly states that the penalty shall be in proportion to the amount of the tax due.

Mr. Gibbons maintained that something must be wrong when all penalties were exactly alike. He intimated that collectors imposed excessive penalties and used no discrimination in their impositions, as every delinquent was fined a like amount, $1.12, when the law explicitly states that the penalty shall be in proportion to the amount of the tax due.
