and the sky was overcast all day, exand the sky was overcast all day, ex-cept at the moment when the Defender crossed the finishing line about eight minutes ahead of the Valkyrie, when the sun broke forth from beneath the lowering clouds and seemed to add its smile to the hurrahs and cheers with which the victorious vacht was saluted which the victorious yacht was saluted. In the long history of the America's cup races the one of yesterday attracted the most attention and drew the largest crowd. There were good rea-sons for it, and among these not the least important was that a new model had been adopted, and that against the wishes of many who believed that only defend the yacht could successfully defend the yacht trophy against the British. Another reason for especial interest was the fact that in the last international race the margin was painfully small, and the English had made their boast that they had discovered and remedied the defects in the challenger of 1893. As a matter of history, it is interesting to note the fol-lowing points in connection with the last international races.

Cup Contest of 1893.

The first of the races was sailed on The first of the races was salled on October 7, 1893, fifteen miles to leeward and return. The Vigilant, the American cup defender, made the run in four hours, five minutes and forty-seven seconds; the Valkyrie II took four hours, eleven minutes and thirty-five seconds. The Vigilant beat the Valkyrie five minutes and forty-eight seconds.

In the second race, which took place on Oct. 9, over a triangular course, ten miles to each leg, the Vigilant's time was three hours, twenty-five minutes and one second; that of Valkyrie was three hours, thirty-five minutes and thirty-six seconds. The Vigilant beat the Valkyrie II in this race ten minutes and thirty-five seconds.

The third race was sailed on Oct. 13 and was fifteen miles to windward and return. In this race the Vigilant beat the Valkyrie II by only forty seconds, the time being: Vigilant, three hours, twenty-four minutes and thirty nine seconds; Valkyrie II, three hours, twenty-five minutes and nineteen seconds.

With a view to wiping out this small margin the new English yacht was

The excitement over the coming races was not of the demonstrative kind; people were slow to predict success for the Defender, even after she had beat-on the Vigilant, which had been improved; and while there were some who advertised themselves as ready to wager large sums of money on the new boat, these were few in comparison with the conservative people who simply hoped that the races of '95 would be another triumph of the Amerlean over the English yacht. This spirit showed itself up to yes-terday, when all roads in and about New York seemed to lead to the Bay.

The Excursion Boats. Boats large and small were char-tered to take parties down the bay, and long before the starting time crowds were rushing to the various plers, and many instances twice and three times as many passengers could have been taken by the boats if the commanders had not determined to run no risk by overcrowding. Most of these beats left their berths between 9 and 9.30 a. m., and then the procession down the harbor began. There was nothing cheerful in the weather. The nothing cheerful in the weather. The sky was leaden, the air thick and warm, the water lumpy and the wind nothing to speak of. Down the bay, though, the white-winged champions were waiting for the word to be off, and toward the place where they floated lazily about all prows were turned. Excursion boats, black with passengers and swaying under their load of humanity, steam and salling yachts with parties on board, little craft which went beyond their usual course and then bobbed about reluctant to leave the scene—everything that could get away moved toward the racers, and away moved toward the racers, and scattered thickly along the line were away moved toward the racers, and scattered thickly along the line were the boats of the patrol which guarded the safety of the craft and prevented interference with the racers. It soon became known by signal that It soon became known by righal that the course would be the one known as No. 1, which, according to the programme, was from the starting line to and around a mark fifteen miles to windward, or to leeward, and return, leaving the mark on the starboard band

As the boats crossed the line and the Valkyrie appeared to take the lead a Valkyrie appeared to take the lead a chill seemed to strike the spectators. The English boat was ahead to all intents and purposes, but at about 2 p. m., when she tried to cross the bows of the Yankee sloop and failed, and when for the first time in the race the Defender shoved ahead, there was a shout from every boat and a concert of steam whistles which bore evidence of the fact that the interest was not of the fact that the interest was not dead, not even sleeping.

At the Pinish Another din was caused all along the line when the Defender rounded the first mark ahead of her English rival, and faces brightened and men who had looked despondent braced up and went below—to examine the compass or some other nautical contrivance which some other nautical contrivance which the yachtsman resorts to in such emergencies. From then until the end, when the Defender crossed the line about two miles ahead of the Valkyrie, there was hardly a doubt as to which boat would win. At the finishing point the hundreds of vessels had assembled to witness the end. Whistles in every key, belis, guns, drums, anything and everything that would make a noise was made use of, and many a cheer died on the lips of stout men because they were too much overcome to give vent to their feelings.

The next race of the series will be sailed on Tuesday.

Philadelphia, Sept. 8.—A special to the Record from Atlantic City, N. J., says that an intimate friend of Senator says that an intimate friend of Senator Qauy, who was a trusted worker for him throughout the recent factional fight, is authority for the statement which follows. His opportunities of learning inside facts are said to have been exceptionally good. He says Senator Quay is assured that David Martin, of Fhiladelphia, who was an active leader in the late fight against the senator, at or before the meeting of the senator, at or before the meeting of the Republican national committee in Oc tober will resign as the representative of Pennsylvania in that body.

Mr. Martin realizes that by retaining his membership he would be in the uncongenial company of men who are glad that Quay won his fight, and would like to see him national chair-man next year, and has decided that he can avoid possible unpleasantness for himself by getting out of the committee

Senator Quay, before starting for Fiorida last hight, surveyed the poli-tical situation in Pennsylvania and convinced himself that his friends will be able to control fifty-six out of the sixty-four delegates to the presidental convention next year.

The only communication received by Senator Quay from Senator Cameron since the adjournment of congress, the special goes on to say, was one in reply to a request from the former that Mr. Cameron use his influence to induce the Messrs. Cramp, shipbuilders, to help Quay against the administration oppo-Quay against the administration oppo-sition in the Sixteenth district of Phil-adelphia. Senator Cameron declined to interfere. The Cramps kept hands off and the administration got the dele-gates. Senator Cameron contributed no money to sustain the Quay cause against the administration. If Senator Quay shall openly champion any candidate against Mr. Cameron for the United States senate, it is said in con-clusion, his choice will, in all probability, fall upon J. Hay Brown, of Lan-caster, who declined the Superior court judgeship appointment tendered him by Governor Hastings.

Trensury Department Meets the Expendi tures for the Congressional Library.

Washington, Sept. 8.—It is stated on excellent authority that for the first time in months the treasury depart-ment has resumed the payments of funds for the expenditures of the congressional library. This is an indi-cation that the accounts of Librarian Spafford have been settled and the sensational statements recently printed regarding his possible maladministraregarding his possible maladministra-tion in office have been unwarranted.

While it cannot be ascertained that the controversy between the treasury department and Mr. Spafford has been actually settled the opinion seems to be today in official circles that noth-ing further will be heard of the much-heralded misappropriation of funds by Librarian Spafford.

Y., Sept. 8.-Ex-Secre tary John Foster delivered an address tonight in the First Presbyterian church of this city, of which his son-in-law, Rev. A. M. Dulles, is pastor. In course of the address he made the following reference to the recent Chinese riots. Chinese riots:

"The opinion formed by me, after careful inquiry and observation, is that the mass of the population in that the mass of the population in China, particularly the common people, are not specially hostile to the mission-aries and their work. They have been permitted to penetrate every part of the vast empire with as little disturbance as the Chinese laborers have spread themselves over the Unit-ed States, and in case of dan-ger the authorities have usu-ally exerted themselves for their protection, Occasionally riots have taken place, but they are almost in-variably traced to the Literati or prospective office holders and the ruling classes. These are often bigoted and concetted to the highest degree, and re-gard the teaching of the missionaries as tending to overthrow the existing order of government and society, which they look upon as a perfect system and sanctified by great antiquity.

"The war with Japan, which resulted in a humiliating peace and the loss of territory, has greatly weakened the imperial authority and the disbandment of several hundred thousand troops, mostly without receiving the pay due them, has added very much to the prevailing discontent and disorder.

Compared to Rock Springs. "We should be charey of our condem-nation, when we recall the many outrages which have been inflicted upon Chinese subjects in the United States, and remember that the Rock Springs, Wyo., riot a few years ago was equally cruel and fatal in its results. Although only a few weeks have elapsed since the Kucheng massacre a score of partici-pants have already been condemned to death, more than 100 are in prison awaiting trial, and the imperial gov-ernment is arranging to fully compensate the missions for all their losses n contrast with this summary adthorities stands the fact that no punishment followed the Rock Springs massacre, compensation was delayed for three years and then accompanied by legislation against the Chinese which was pronounced by our supreme court as in violation of treaty, but without remedy, "I am, however, infull sympathy with the prevailing demand in the United States that the Chinese government should be held to a strict accountability for these outrages. But in doing this care should be exercised by our government that it does not lend itself to advance the sinister projects of Eu-ropean governments which are on the alert to turn international troubles of China to their own benefit.

'The work of missions has been one of peril, but it should not be abandoned Washington, Sept. 8.—The state department has been advised that the record in the Walter court-martial, present disorder, which must be only transitory. A determination on the part of the agency to reduce rates for Indians for hauling freight from Valentine, Neb., to the agency from 50 to 25 cents a hundred is the cause. The Indians took mortal offense and runners sent to distant camps brought to the agency about 300 angry and excited Indians. RICH KEYSTONE PLUMS.

Patronage for Pennsylvania in Organiz ing Congress-There are Twenty-five Offices in Sight With Salaries Amounting in All to Over $37,000 a Venr.

Washington, Sept. 8.—Pennsylvania will have a big slice of patronage in the reorganization of the house and senate in December and the Republican con-gressmen from the Keystone state are likely to have a lively time dispensing it. Whenever there is a reorganization of the house there are certain offices that are claimed by the delegations of the state that held them under the previous administration, so that it frequently happens the office remains credited to a state, and the employes change places, a Democrat superseding the Republican, or, as it will be in this instance, the Republican superseding the Democrat.

In the last congress, Pennsylvanians held twenty-five of the minor offices, the salaries thereto amounting to $37,-440 a year. There were some fat places among them, two at $5,000, one at $2,500, and the rest ranging down to $720, but averaging about $100 a month. The clerks to congressmen are not included in these figures. In the next session Pennsylvania will probably have still more fat places, because there will be more Republican congressmen, and probably several committee chairman-ships divided among the Pennsylvania delegation, thus increasing the possibilities of patronage.

The clerk of the house will very likely be a Pennsylvanian, and his salary will be $5,000 a year. He will appoint a disbursing clerk at $2,500 a year and this office will go to a Pennsylvanian, now being held by a man from that state. There is a $1,600 place in this office also held at present by a Pennsylvanian. office also, held at present by a Penn-sylvanian. The clerk has at his dis-posal a number of offices carrying salposai a number of offices carrying sal-aries from $3,600 a year to $2,000, and he will probably find places in this list for some of his friends from his own state. If a Republican is exchanged for a Democrat in every place in the house now held by a Pennsylvanian, there will be nineteen offices to be filled, with a total salary roll of $28,720, and in the senate six places with a total salary the senate six places with a total salary roll of $8,720

Removes Its Tracks from Cutler Because of Persecution. Logansport, Ind., Sept. 8.-The Vandalia Railroad company has wreaked vengeance upon the town of Cutler. When the Logansport, or Michigan, division of the road was first built citizens of Cutler became offended because they were not accorded certain privileges which they thought they should have had, and began a systematic persecution of the road by arresting and fining its employes under every possible pretext. Cutler was situated upon a sharp curve, and when their endurance had ceased to be a virtue the company began the construction of a "cut-off," which leaves the town about two miles to the west. The "cut-off" was completed last week, and a new town is rapidly springing up along the new route of the road. The old town is thought to be practically dead.

Report of Summer Inspectors to b Issued This Week.

THIRTEENTH'S HIGH RATING

Under New System of Averaging, Many Companies That Have Heretofore Ranked High in the Brigade Take a Tumble.

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 8.-The report of the summer inspections of the Na-tional Guard is in the hands of the state printer and will be issued this week. This unprecedented promptness is due to Inspector General Morrell, who declared at the Brigade encamp-ments that the results of the inspec-tions would be made known to the enlisted men at the earliest possible mo ment. He appreciated the utter use lessness of inspections of recent years on account of the delay in publishing the report and sought to remedy the matter as soon as he became inspector general. The ratings which will be published will show the standing of every company in the National Guard every heading except rifle practice, the season for which is still open. The general average and figure of efficiency are for this reason not given it being impossible to give them with out the percentage for rifle practice Under the new system of rating, how ever, many companies which have heretofore stood high take a tumble. Company D. Eighth regiment, the City Grays, of Harrisburg, which had a per-centage of over 99 at the spring in-spection, drops below 90, having but 65 in guard duty. Members of the company complain bitterly. They say there has been rank discrimination, and protest that they were not even inspected in guard duty at Camp Curtin. The governor's troop, of this city, which stood at the head in the cavalry branch of the service, falls behind the troop, of Philadelphia, a few city points.

High Standing of the Thirteeuth. The Thirteenth regiment had every man present in camp and Company B. of that regiment, heads the division.
It is rated 100 in everything except guard duty, which is 98, and books and papers 90. The difference in the standing of many companies does not mean a falling off in efficiency, but is due to a more uniform system of rating. In-spector General Morrell, in his report accompanying the ratings, says the entire division received their rating from the same inspector. The report criticises the First battalion of naval militia severely, and suggests that there have been poor results for the money expended. The Second battalion is praised, as is also the three troops of cavalry. Colonel Morrell thinks it was a good move to appoint a board to consider the ques-tion of amount of baggage carried by enlisted men and officers, uniform sys-tem of flooring or cots, etc. He also endorses some suggestions of Lieutenant Colonel Curtin, who inspected the quarters, as to a uniform stove and the enlistment of cooks.

"Reference is made to the lack of knowledge of ward to the lack of drill to give the item of guard duty double the value of any other item at future inspections. Hereafter inspections in camp will be made toward the close instead of the beginning of the week in order that the regiments with scattered companies may have an op-portunity for battalion drill. A Rap at the Majors.

Mention is made of the fact that the parading of the men in light marching order for inspection and the inspecting of arms, equipments, etc., in the com-pany streets relieved the soldiers of much unnecessary fatigue. He raps the majors who used memoranda for giving commands during drill. Among the recommendations of the inspector general are the following:

That instead of adopting the new rifle the state contract at once for the putting into first-class condition of the guns now in use; that the batteries be supplied with new breech-loading pleces, and the cannoncers and drivers be furnished with revolvers and belts, and that the three battalion formation be adopted.

THIRTY-FIVE ENTOMBED.

Horrible Fate of the Michigan Miners Who Did Not Heed Warnings in Time to

Houghton, Mich., Sept. 8.—It is now positively known that thirty-five men are entombed in the Osceola mine with no possibility of the recovery of their bodies until the fire is extinguished, which may not be for months It is the opinion of some of the oldest officials of the mine that the fire was the work of an incendiary. They say there is no other explanation of the fire starting in that portion, as no oil, waste or rubbish is used or accumulated there and the timber work is out of reach of the lamps on the miners'

All of the doomed miners might have escaped had they heeded warnings, as Captain Edwards, who was the first to detect the existence of fire, dispatched messengers to every slope where the miners were known to be working. As the mine is not heavily timbered except in the shafts, the idea of serious danger was scouted. By going a round-about way all the men who were in the lower level of No. 4 shaft might have escaped, but they preferred the shorter route of ascent by that shaft and when ly agree with him regarding this mat-ter. He says the idea is a very popular one out west. He will favor it at all passed into lateral drifts expecting to they got up to the eighteenth level reach other shafts.

Captain White descended with Anton Ecysk, who said he left his father in a lower lever, but Ecysk lost his head, and finding him unmanageable, Cap-tain White abandoned him to his fate. pushed toward the south workings of the mine and reached the surface in safety, the only one of the party in No. 4 shaft to escape. He reported that tram men had offered to carry one of the drill boys to the surface, but the boy was so frightened that he refused o move and was left.
