Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 18.—Over 20,000 people crowded the grandstand and filled the place along the track at State Fair park today to see the great race between Joe Patchen, John R. Gentry and Vera Capel. The race was for a purse of $3,000 and was won by John R. Gentry in straight heats with apparent

The first heat was a neck and neck race. John R. Gentry drew the pole with Vera Capel second, and Joe Patchen on the outside. At the second attempt they got off with Gentry slightly in the lead. The pace set by the two great pacers was too hot for Vera Capel, and after the quarter pole she was carried off her feet drapping about aftern off her feet, dropping about fifteen lengths behind.

Gentry's Easy Win.

At the half Patchen and Gentry were

STATE LEAGUE MEETING.

Allentown, Pa., Sept. 18.-The Pennsylvania State league held a meeting here today and wound up its business for the season of 1825 and discussed the prospects for next year. The pennant for this season was awarded to the Ha-zleton team, which defeated the Reading club (formerly Allentown), the win-

Wilmington, Del., Shamokin and several other towns also asked for franchises for next year, but it was decided to admit no others unless the $500 factor. forfelt to play out the season is deposited in cash with the application. Preferences will, however, be given to cities where the team will be backed by street railway companies and the promise to play out the season. Potts-ville, Reading, Carbondale, Lancaster and Hazleton all want to be in the league next year. The interstate league idea was not in much favor at the meeting, and it is probable that there will be nothing more than a state league next year.

OFFICIAL RULES.

Those Edited by Wolter Camp, of Yale, Are Published.

Spalding's Official Foot Ball Guide for 1835, edited by Walter Camp, is published today. It contains the only official rules that, will govern foot ball this season. The official rules are published in full. The Guide also publishes the amendments to the official rules as the amendments to the official rules as adopted by Yale and Princeton, and under which rules they will play, and also the amendments to the official rules as adopted by Harvard. Pennsylvania and Cornell, and under which rules these three colleges will play. To a certain extent the foot ball situation, so far as it pertains to rules, will be much mixed this season, and in Spaiding's Official Guide the annuance.

ment is made that all schools, colleges and athletic clubs not affiliated with the five above can use the official rules, if they so desire, or they can use the rules of Yale and Princeton, or the rules as amended by Harvard, Pennsylvania and Cornell, but in each instance the manager and captain of the oppos-ing team must receive two weeks' no-tice as to what rules they will play un-

Besides the exclusive publication of these rules, the Guide contains other matter of great importance to foot ball players, the pictures of all the leading players of Yale, Princeton, Harvard, Pennsylvania, Cornell, and nearly every other institution of learning in the United States, as well as the official record of each and every game played. The book is larger than heretofore, containing 128 pages of well edited matter. It will be forwarded, postpaid, upon re-celpt of ten cents, to any address in the United States or Canada, by the American Sports Publishing company 241 Broadway, New York.

NEW BASKET BALL TEAM.

It Has Been Organized by the Scranten

Turn Verein. The active members of the Scranton Turn Verein have organized a basket ball team for the coming season with the following well-known members and players: Theodore Huber, Edward Eisele, Joseph McDonald, Otto Robin-son, Theodore Heip, Nelson Teets, Vic-tor Noth, Henry Vochrock, George Koch, Walter Sample, Charles Bech-At the half Patchen and Gentry were neck and neck, flying down to the three-quarter pole, and then down the stretch with Gentry ahead. The latter won by a length in 205½, with Joe Patchen one-quarter of a second behind. Vera Capel finished about ten lengths behind Patchen.

The second heat was considerably slower, owing to the slowness of the Association for the franchise of a team to be located in Philadelphia next season, and it was awarded to him. He has secured an option on the Philadelphia league club grounds for dates when the Phillies are away, and will call his team the Asheletics in honor of the old Amelcan with the Young Men's Christian association team last year, will most like-second the team with Mr. Teets. with the Young Men's Caristian asso-ciation team last year, will most like-ly ceach the team with Mr. Teets. They will also fix the Turner hall for the matches that will be played in this city. The club had its first practice game Tuesday evening between the first and second team, which resulted in the victory of the first team by the score of 25 to 8.

GUN CLUB'S WILL MEET.

New Milford and Hopbottom to Have a Contest for Supremocy. The Hopbottom Gun club yesterday challenged the NewMilford Rod and Gun club to a shoot for a trophy, to be contested for in a series of matches. The New Milford club accepted the hallenge forthwith and named next Priday as the day for the first match, Clay pigeons will be used in the matches. Both clubs will at once be-gin the work of selecting their teams. A number of Scrantonians belong to these clubs, and it is expected several of them will shoot in the matches.

Precisely the same thing happened in relation to a man having the same kind of soulful blue eyes. It is not neces-sary that every one with blue eyes should have a propensity for untruth, nor that all owning eyes of other colors should be truthful, but so far it has been proved that those to whom nature has given eyes of this peculiar blue she also gives a vivid imagination, to put it delicately. SOME ANCIENT CLUBS.

From the Chicago News.

Clubs are not modern institutions. In the ancient days of Greece the men of Athens combined for social intercourse. In Rome the earliest clubs were the trade gulids founded by Numa Pompilius in 720 B. C., similar to the gulids of the craftsmen which played so important a part in the history of the middle ages. At one time there were eighty of these gulids in Rome alone and they were not confined entirely to the metropolis, either. Very closely allied to the Masonic society of our day were the societies formed throughout the Romfan empire for the practice of religious rites unknown to the states, except that our Masonic societies violate no laws. Even the slaves in Rome formed clubs of their own, which somewhat resembled trade unions. Although military clubs were prohibited, yet they were tolerated among the officers of regiments in foreign service. The rules of a club in a regiment on duty in Africa have been discovered on the site of a Roman encampment. They showed that the annual dues were about $125.

Even women's clubs are not of recent date. The Homan matrons had many such gatherings, some for religious, some for social purposes. The most celebrated of these was the "Senate of Matrons." Connected with it was a debating society in which momentons questions of drezs and etiquette were discussed much as they are at the present time. In both Greece and Rome political clubs were common and the aristocrats and democrats advanced their views much as they do today. Club houses were few in number because the meetings were usually held out of doors.

From the time before Christ to the time of Henry IV is a long step, but investigation falls to show, that there were any clubs during that period. The first definite information we have concerning an English club is given by Thomas Occieve, the poet, who, with Chaucer, belonged to a club called "La Court de Bone Compagnie."
