WILKES-BARRE WON AGAIN

Second Game in the Trophy Series Played Yesterday.

SCRANTON CLUB CRIPPLED

Mondescript Player in the Outfield and Billy Eagan Doing Duty on One Leg-Remaining Games

Next Week.

Wilkes-Barre..... 9 Scranton...... The second game in the Wilkes-Barre-Scranton series for The Tribune trophy was won by the Wilkes-Barre trophy was won by the Wilkes-Barre club on its own grounds yesterday. Practically, the Wilkes-Barreans deserved their victory, but they were assisted in the matter by a lot of unfortunate circumstances, which, as usual, worked the hardest kind of ill back own Scrapton.

luck upon Scranton. Jack Huston missed his train, or through some other reasons, failed to materialize, and young Dunn, of Scranton, who has been playing on the Horn-ellsville team, covered third bag; Billy Eagan was suffering from a sprain to his foot, received in Tuesday's game, and could do little else than hobble about, while it was necessary to put in center field, owing to Huston's abin center field, owing to Huston's absence a nondescript local Wilkes-Barrean by the hame of McQuaid. McQuaid has a crop of red hair and an elongated figure, otherwise his only importance in the games rested in the fact that he was one of the chief reasons for Scranton's defeat. He made can of the vallewest and most success. one of the vellowest and most ancient kinds of bad-smelling muffs which cost a run in the sixth; he fumbled a grounder in the fourth which cost a run, and he succeeded in fanning himself out three times. Another Wilkes-Barre run came in on an inexcuseable, butter-fingered muff by Pete Eagan.

Eagan's Lameness Contributed. In addition to the disaster caused by the red-headed McQuaid experiment, Billy Eagan's lameness had much to do with the result. Three ground balls and two flies would surely have been caten up by him if he had been able to reach them, and in addition he was forced to miss a chance to receive an assist from Moss and was twice thrown out at first, which he would have reached safely if his running gear had been in good order.

Still, the game was not without in-terest. There were four double plays by Scranton and one by the enemy. and Scranton was offered several chances to score, which left her friends anxious and the Wilkes-Barre rooter a'rooting. Dunn made several difficult stops and assists and showed himself to be a comer. Moss put up a brilliant infield game, and Billy Eagan did more than could have been expect-ed of a man with only one leg. The star plays of the day were two running catches by Peter Eagan.

Plays at Orange Today. Today the Scranton club plays in Orange, tomorrow in Hackensack and Sunday at Recreation park, Brooklyn, with the Long Island City club. The remaining games in the trophy series are scheduled for Wednesday in Scran-Thursday in Wilkes-Barre and lay in Scranton. It is probable that the two games prevented in Scranton by rain and wet grounds on Mon-day and Wednesday will be played next Wednesday and Friday, which will make two games on each of those

DIAMOND DUST.

Harper, Pete Sweeney and Tom Power have gone westward with the Barnes-Comiskey combination which will reach Frisco early next month. Outfielder Hill, whom the Washingtons are reported to have secured, is no great shakes. He is a nice thrower, but his fielding and batting are light.—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

Eugene Demont, a Washington bay, who has been doing good work for Toronto this season, was tried at short by the Benators and did good work. Pittsburg tried the lad last season.

Fred Betts, the pitcher and center elder of the local team, will be married ome time during the coming month to a oung lady in this city.—Wilkes-Barre

The best story of the season has lately got out on Pop Anson. When in New York the early part of the season De Wolf Hopper went to Commodore Gerry, president of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, and told him that there was a 13-year-old child named Anson playing on the Chicago team, and that he had better go and see about it. Gerry doesn't know anything about base ball, and took the matter all in good faith. Hopper told him that Anson looked old for his age, and the dignified Gerry hied himself to the Polo grounds the next afternoon. "I want to see that child, Anson," said he to President Freedman. Freedman was "on" and led him to the Chicago players' dressing room. Gerry caught Anson right in the act of combing his bald head with a towel and adusting his china molars. "Great goodness!" exclaimed the white-haired commodore, "This man is older than I am." Then the joke dawned on him and he retreated in haste.

COMING ATTRACTIONS IN CITY THEATERS

"The funniest man on the stage," says the New York World, in speaking of the eccentricities of the eminent comedian, Billy Van, who for a number of seasons past has been seen as the Atlas of Primrose & West's minstrels. "Not only is he droll, but his humor is very original, and in this age originality is the spice of life." In organizing his big company, known as Billy Van's Big Minstreis, he has endeavored to have the same thing said about the company. It will appear at the Academy of Music Saturday night.

It is in "Faust" that Chev. Albert L. Guille is heard to the greatest advantage. Monsieur Guille, the great tenor, gives a most intense and realistic impersonation of two characters originally created by him and sung with brilliant success at the Metropoli-tan, in New York city. The role of Faust is intensely dramatic, and taxes the tragic power of its essayer to the widest limit, but, with his natural en-dowments and consummate art, Guille rose to the height of the sublime, both vocally and dramatically, and held his auditors spellbound under the charm of his intensity. Chev. Guille will be heard with the Marie Tavary Grand English Opera company at the Froth-lingham next Monday and Tuesday evenings and Tuesday afternoon. "Faust," "Carmen" and "Bohemlan Girl" are the operas that will be pre-Girl" are the operas that will be pre-sented by the Tavary company.

Wagenhals & Kemper, who are di-recting Mr. James' tour, have provided for the production a most elaborate scenic equipment, in fact the hand-somest play that has ever been given. The chamber of tapestries, Desdemo-The chamber of alpestres, bestenorals chamber, and the garden scene being mentioned as particularly handsome samples of the scenic artist's work. The play is costumed by Herrmann on designs of Mme. Jahn. Mr. James' company is an unusually strong Tuesday night, Lewis Morrison will present his famous scenic and dramatic version of "Faust" at the Academy Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 25 and 26. Mr. Morrison is an actor of established merit. He has a voice which without labor or affection is both commanding and penetrating and a personality that takes on the wardrobe and makeup of Mephisto in a way that makes up of Mephisto in a way that makes him ideal. The staging of the piece is little short of phenomenal. The scen-ery and mechanical effects are exceedingly strong. Electricity plays a prominent part in the production.

The delightful entertainment entitled "The Alsatian," which Charles T. Ellis, the sweet singing comedian provides for the edification of the theater-going public, will receive its first presentation at the Academy of Music Monday evening, Sept. 23. Mr. Ellis will be supported by an excellent company, and the play will be produced with beautiful scenic and mechanical effects.

[The West Side interests of The Tribune have been placed in the hands of Emer-son Owen, to whom all news announcements and complaints may be addressed.]

Judge and Mrs. H. M. Edwards returned on a Delaware, Lackawanna and Western train from New York, ar-riving here at 8.45 last evening, thus ending a trip to and from the eastern ending a trip to and from the eastern continent and a tour of several countries. Soon after his arrival at his South Main avenue home Judge Edwards conversed with a Tribune reporter. He is looking well, the trip seemingly having agreed with him. A fuller face also testifies to the congeniality of the climate across the ocean. In response to a question Judge Edwards stated that the trip had been a most enjoyable one. England and a most enjoyable one. England and Wales had been visited and a tour of the large cities made. The people of Wales, especially, were very cordial in their reception of the party. Although the trip was not altogether devoid of eccidents, Mrs. Edwards having suffered a mishap while in Wales, yet on the whole nothing but memories tender remain as a result of the trip.

Judge Edwards told of the magnifiof the Lianelly eisteddfod, of which he was conductor for one ses-sion. He said it was the largest ever held in Wales. "How do our local Welsh choirs com-pare with the native organizations?"

asked the reporter.

"Very well," answered the judge with conviction." I believe that our choirs are the equals of any Welsh choir in every respect. We have had choral organizations in this city that would give it in the present the great Lineally rival, if not surpass, the great Llanelly eisteddfod choirs."
"Is Scranton well-known in Wales?"

inquired the interviewer.
"Yes," was the reply. "Scranton to the best known city of Welsh-Americans in this country. It is considered as prominent as the greater cities of America.'

A Voice from the Inil. Poor Jimmy Dean, mishapen, unfor-tunate and friendless, save for a moth-er's love, who now languishes in the county jail on a charge of assault with attempted murder on the person of Eddie Davis, of this side, has sent a remarkable letter to Alderman John, of the Fourth ward. It will be remem-bered Dean had been provoked by a number of street gamins, who taunted him about his crooked feet and lum-bering walk. He has stood this kind of torture for years, and it was only a few weeks ago that, in a frenzy, he turned upon his tormentors, and, as a result, the Davis boy lay at death's door for several days. Dean was jailed and it was from his prison cell that he sent the following curious letter, written on ruled paper with a lead pencil The letter is remarkable in more ways than one.
