LAST DAY OF DEDICATION

Concluding Exercises of the Celebration at Chickamauga Park.

THE GRAND MILITARY PARADE

Interesting Exercises in the Tent-Governor Morton Nominated for the Presidency—Alabama's Governor Speaks of the Lost Cause.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Sept. 20.—The proceedings of the third and last day of the dedication of Chickamauga and Chattanooga military park, judging from the crowd which thronged the streets, were the most attractive of the series. This was the case, possibly, however, for the reason that there was nothing going on at the battlefield, and every one's attention was centered upon the meetings in the city tent.

Another fact was that the military demonstration by the regulars and state militia in camp here was an attraction that drew to the city many residents of the surrounding territory who had not been present during the dedicatory ceremonies. There was a slight relief from the oppressive, almost overwhelming heat of the past few days, whereby existence was rendered somewhat more comfortable to sweltering humanity.

There was a military parade through the principal streets composed of regulars and militia, with General J. S. Fullerton as grand marshal. On the reviewing stand were Lieutenant General Schofield, and Vice President Stevenson, the reviewing officials, and a large body of distinguished visitors and prominent citizens. The procession disbanded shortly after passing the reviewing stand, and the battery proceeded to Orchard Knob, on the summit of which was fired the Union salute of forty-four guns at noon. At that hour began the exercises in the tent intended to commemorate in connection with the dedication the battle of Chickamauga proper.

The Tent Exercises. Vice-President Stevenson presided. The proceedings were opened with prayer by Rev. Samuel J. Nichols, D. D., of St. Louis. Hon. George W. Oakes, Chattanooga's eloquent executive, was introduced to welcome the visitors to the Mountain City.

It was followed by General William B.ate, and General Charles H. Grosvenor.

Governor Morton was formally put in nomination for the presidency by Senator Edmund O'Connor at a serenade tendered him late last night by all the New Yorkers present in Chattanooga at the residence of F. G. Montague, with whom he is domiciled.

His policy as governor was approved by Senator Cantor, the Democratic leader in the senate. Speeches were also made by John B. Stanchfield, of Elmira; Speaker Hamilton Fish and Archie Baxter, clerk of the New York assembly.

In responding to these Governor Morton said: Gentlemen—The great honor you confer on me tonight by your visit is deeply appreciated, and I feel that I ought here to make any speech, but from all I have seen here, and all I have heard strikes me that a great lesson in patriotism is taught by what was done on these fields and from the results that have followed. The men who have fought here, it is too late to make an extended address, or one that I feel should be made on such an occasion. I can only say to their comrades, and to you coming here, and I wish you good night.

This afternoon the railroads are crowded to their utmost capacity in handling the departing visitors. Evening Exercises. Tonight's meeting of the survivors of the Army of the Virginia and that portion of the Army of the Potomac that fought at Chickamauga, brought to close the programme arranged by the national committee in connection with the dedication of Chickamauga and Chattanooga Military park. The meeting was held in the tent and was presided over by General E. C. Walthall, senator-elect from Mississippi, who fought against Hooker in the clouds on Lookout Mountain.

Colonel Lewis R. Stegman, of New York, made an address and was followed by Colonel W. C. Oates, the one-armed governor of Alabama, better known for his long congressional career. Governor Oates, addressing his remark to the soldiers of the lost cause and the successful defenders of the Union, made some exceedingly pointed comments upon the causes of the war. Among other passages were the following:

Let the blasphemous mouths of the bloody shirt strikers be closed and the truth be told and our cause and the heroes who made it need no further immortal years will illuminate the brightest chapter of the true history of the great republic. The president of our midst, an African race, for which they are in no wise responsible, has ever been the Parasitic lox of our American politics. Slavery, it must be conceded, is contrary to natural right, but it was a lawful state institution and was recognized by the constitution of the United States. Being a state institution, it was the right of the state in which it existed to continue or abolish it as such. It was not for slavery as such, for the majority of our men never owned a slave, that we took up arms. A large majority of our soldiers were poor laboring men. They were horrible at the close of the war, 600,000 emancipated slaves being turned loose in their midst, raised to the equality of citizenship, inducted into the electoral franchise and brought into competition with them as free laborers, the pride of race superiority and the invasion of their right of local or state government, offend the dignity of those men and the slave owner; they stood united and fought like devils, as every Union veteran will testify, and their flag floated triumphantly on nearly a hundred fields of battle. We fought with the same spirit of our revolutionary sires, who bought with their precious blood the liberties we now enjoy. We fought for the right of our state to regulate and govern their own affairs. We fought for the right as God gave us to see the right. Conceding equal patriotism and bravery to those who bore aloft the standards of the Union, the immortal glory of the Confederates conspicuously appears in the inequality of numbers, resources and appliances.

A Patriotic Sentiment. He closed as follows: The effect of the war upon the character of the federal government was entirely expressed by the supreme court of the United States in a single sentence: "An intractable union of indelible states."

We recognize that the Union of the confederates is inseparable now and forever. While we do not, with our teeth, shake the fallen comrades we can say that she is one of the more direct descendants of the original owners of the property.

Senator Peffer Injured. Chattanooga, Tenn., Sept. 20.—One truck of a passenger train on the broad gauge road to Lookout mountain, while coming down the grade this evening was thrown from the track and the car was dragged over the ties for 200 or 300 feet. The passengers were badly shaken up and bruised, but none of them seriously hurt. Senator Peffer, of Kansas, received a cut over the right eye, which required a few stitches by the surgeon to close. A report was received at the police station this evening that three men had gone into the cave under Point Lookout yesterday morning and had not yet returned. The cave has never been fully explored. It is said, in its galleries and chambers have been penetrated a total length of three or four miles.

WELCOME TO PALMER COX.

The Author of "The Brownies" Greeted by 20,000 Children. New Haven, Conn., Sept. 20.—Palmer Cox, the author of the famous "Brownies" was tendered an immense reception on the Old Green in the center of the city, this afternoon. Certainly not less than 20,000 children took part in the unique gathering, which was held at the point indicated by express permission of Mayor Hendricks. The mayor and several prominent gentlemen took part in the affair, and features of the occasion was the liberation of twenty big balloons.

ALL MARKETS AFFECTED.

Movements of Exchange and of Gold Have to a Certain Extent Unsettled Trade—Uncertainty Reigns All Around. New York, Sept. 20.—R. G. Dun & Co. in their weekly Review of Trade tomorrow, will say:

Movements of exchange and of gold have somewhat affected all the markets this week. Exchange has fallen, though not because of the war, but because of greatly increased, and exports of specie though diminished will reach about $12,000,000. It is confidently believed that the international syndicate will allow no financial association in any market are certain that an issue of bonds will come. But the root of difficulty is not removable by bankers, namely, that merchant exports, disapproved by government and the syndicate falling to meet the case of merchandise imported, and leaving a heavy balance to be paid abroad. The wool manufacturer's exports by $1,582,729, and net exports of gold were $1,159,782. A small cotton crop, with large stocks held abroad, has advanced the price of raw cotton to 20 cents. Corn rose to 18 1/2 cents. Wheat with wheat with a little respite, good reports of foreign crops, weakness of flour in Minnesota, and large exports of corn to the west, have all conspired against a rise in wheat, though scarcity of contract grades may help a speculative advance.

The surprising increase in production and advanced prices of iron seem to be bringing a natural check, as prices have gone so high as to cause some purchases from Europe, both of pig and finished products, and have also caused a distinct shrinkage in demand. The cotton mills, which laid in stocks of cotton below 6 cents, are enriched by the advance in material, and endeavor to make requests for advances in goods, which are sustained. The present demand is dull, but there are no reports of stoppage, and the threatened strike at Fall River does not come. The wool manufacturer is selling well in dress goods and hosiery, but the demand for men's wools is much restricted, and a few mills have closed. Foreign prices for day and week have advanced, and mohair goods also the price of the material having risen 15 per cent, at Bradford in a few months.

DARTMOUTH'S SALT RUSH.

The Fiercest on Record and Was Won by the Freshmen. Hanover, N. H., Sept. 20.—Under cover of a call for a special meeting of the athletic association in Old Chapel street, the freshmen and sophomores of Dartmouth college met for the annual "salt rush." A motion by a member of the sophomore class was immediately opposed by the freshmen, when the exchange of handfuls of salt commenced.

After half an hour's battle, the freshmen proving the stronger, rushed the sophomore class in a few minutes to the building, thus atoning for the weak foot ball rush of last week, and winning the best and fiercest salt rush Dartmouth has ever seen.

San Francisco, Sept. 20.—The only point at all favorable to Durant brought out thus far in the trial was brushed aside by the prosecution today. This was the statement of Organist George R. King that he detected the odor of gas upon entering the church on the day of Blanche Lamont's murder. This fact gave coloring to the statement of Durant that there was a leak in the gas pipes above the ceiling which he claimed to be fixing.

REFUSES TO STAY THE SALE.

Wyoming Manufacturing Company's Possessions Will Be Sold. In an opinion handed down yesterday Judge Gunster refused to grant a stay of execution on the judgment obtained by the executors of the estate of Judge Handley against the Wyoming Manufacturing company. The latter gave a room to Judge Handley. The note was not paid when it became due, an execution was issued, the sheriff made a levy and advertised a sale to take place on Saturday, which is today.

George Dubois Dimmick has judgment also against the company, and through his attorney, S. H. Price, a petition was filed for a stay of execution on the sale of the company's property on the note of the company to Judge Handley, for the reason, as Judge Gunster ruled that the only evidence of fraud was contained in the petition of the defendant and the executors of the estate had disposed of the property in good faith and for the satisfaction of the debt. The rule to grant the stay of execution was quashed.

A resolution providing that memorial pages of deceased members of grand lodges be placed in the revised journal, introduced by Representative Grassman, of New Jersey, was reported favorably by the committee on legislation and adopted.

The same committee recommended the adoption of a resolution making a grand lodge of the sovereign grand lodge to take effect the 1st of January, 1896. The new move would adopt a badge of uniform size and design, the color to conform with existing regulations. The new move would also provide for the election of members of the grand lodge on decisions of the grand sire were acted upon favorably.

The amendment to the constitution excluding saloon-keepers and bartenders from membership in the order, which passed several days ago, is creating widespread discussion and discontent in the order. All reports of members of the order, several of over twenty-five years' standing, have signified their intention of resigning.
