

Wilkes-Barre.

(The Tribune has opened a branch office at No. 23, Lanning street, Wilkes-Barre, Pa. It is the purpose of the publishers to issue a newspaper as regular as possible, and to do it to the people throughout northeastern Pennsylvania from three to five hours earlier than Philadelphia and New York papers can reach them.)

THE MOUNTAIN MURDER.

Interesting Testimony is Introduced at the Trial.

Yesterday morning when court was called to order a big crowd was in the court room and Warden James J. Boland was first called to the stand. He was called to show the circumstances under which Frank Shaffer had been taken from the jail to the tunnel, where he found the dynamite. Attorney McGovern inquired why they put the witness on the stand.

"Because you said through the newspapers that you were going to have an investigation," said Mr. Fuller. "You can't find a newspaper man who can say I told him I was going to investigate the case," retorted McGovern. Attorney McGovern then demanded that whatever the commonwealth proved be placed on the record and after it was placed there he objected to it. The objection was overruled, however. Mr. Boland was requested to proceed.

He said: "I took Shaffer to the tunnel at the instance of the district attorney."

"Which way did this tunnel front?" asked Fuller.

Mr. McGovern objected and Mr. Fuller said he wished to show by the witness that the tunnel ran east and west instead of north and south as Shaffer had stated. This was to show that the sun did shine into the mouth of the tunnel.

Frank Shaffer was recalled and admitted on question of Mr. McGovern that he had been hunting with McGovern from Scranton to the examination in chief and that a colored man in Buryea had told him since that the man was dead. Nothing more of importance was elicited from Shaffer's testimony.

John Toole was called and said that he had taken the Hungarian who died to the hospital.

Faul Smith, of Miner's Mills, swore he was present when the trunk was found in Miller's house and also the picture on it, which were previously identified as belonging to the Hungarians whose shanty was blown up. He also found a red pocketbook in the trunk.

Mike Balacavitch, the boarding boss at Miller's house at Nesquehoning, was recalled and showed a vest which was like his wife's dress, which was later found at Miller's house at Nesquehoning.

At the point, Acting District Attorney Fuller asked for an adjournment until 2 o'clock to secure the attendance of another important witness, Judge Woodward gave his consent and court adjourned.

At 2 o'clock George Jordan, the other man accused of complicity in the crime, was called to the stand. He was recalled and showed a red pocketbook in the trunk.

The witness first said that he had been in Virginia and that where he had worked. After some legal haggling over evidence, Jordan continued: "I began to work for McDonald & Sayre last August and as stated in my examination in chief, I boarded with Miller at Jumper's."

"Who was boarding in the box car with Neise Miller?"

"I was James Miller, Sarah Brace, John Bird, Frank Shaffer, my self, and after awhile more came. I did not hear anybody say they were going to blow up the tunnel. I have not very little to say against this crime. I will make a very short statement. I am charged with the same crime. Several people asked me about this crime, but I told them that I know nothing about it. I am not guilty, therefore I profess to say but very little about it."

After this queer statement Jordan sat down.

"What time did you quit on that Saturday?" asked Mr. Fuller.

"I was working on the Horse Shoe Bend about 4 o'clock on Saturday."

"After you quit work where did you go?"

"I went where I could get something to eat."

He said he went to the box car and found there Neise Miller, Mrs. Miller, Hester Brace and John Bird. He went to sleep and did not awake until after Miller and Shaffer returned to Miner's Mills. He could not remember whether they had any liquor or not. Mr. Fuller asked: "Did you wake up during the night?"

George Woodward did not make any answer and Judge Woodward said that time was valuable and that he must answer.

Jordan said he did not remember very much about that night.

"Who woke you up?"

"Nobody woke me up. I told you plainly twice before."

McGovern asked if he had any objection and the court said he is either a witness or not, and if he is going to make a statement to do so at once.

Jordan said he did not know the night watchman or did not remember when the explosion took place. He heard it first at 6 o'clock. He thought it was the night watchman who brought the news. All the folks were in the car at the time. Mr. Fuller asked: "Who did you see go out of that box car during the night?" asked Attorney Fuller.

This was objected to and Mr. Fuller said the witness made a confession to Attorney Fell.

"Tell me who it was you saw."

"I did not see anybody," suddenly replied the witness.

"Did you not sign this statement by making your mark?" asked Mr. Fell. "No," said the witness, to the great surprise of the district attorney. There was some more questioning, but the cross-examination had not been begun when court adjourned.
