with satin trimmings. Her maid wore a charming dress of silk. The bridal party entered the parlor to the strains of the wedding march played by W. L. Dean, a cousin of the bride.

After a reception at the home, Mr. and Mrs. Hulbert left for Massachusetts, where they will reside.

Resolutions of Regret.
Whereas, Almighty God, in His infinite wisdom and mercy, has called from our ranks our brillant and well-beloved brother, M. H. Murphy, M. D., and Whereas, White bowing in filial submission to the decree of our all-wise and merciful father, we wish to place on record our tribute of undying love and respect to the memory of one, who, by the brill-fancy of his intellectual acquirements, exalted manliness and general nobility of character, has endeared himself to all who were honored with his friendship. Therefore Resolutions of Regret character, has endeared himself to all who were honored with his friendship. Therefore Resolved, That we, the members of Division 6. Ancient Order of Hibernians of America, Scranton, Pa., in regular season assembled, this 22d day of September, 1885, mourn in deep and sincere sorrow the loss we sustain in the death of Brother M. H. Murphy, M. D., and Resolved, That we recognized in the character of our deceased brother to a pre-eminent degree all those attributes which make true manhood the noblest of God's works on earth. His tender regard and solicitude for the poor and afflicted in the practice of his profession, and his unnumbered acts of self-sacrifice in their behalf will be luminous advocates in his behalf before the tribunal of our Father in heaven, who is said to be the Father of the poor and afflicted, and Resolved. That we tender to his aged and grief-stricken father, his estimable, but sorrowing brother and sisters, our tenderest sympathy, and while we, with them, mourn his loss in this dark valley of tears, we rejoice in the glorious and instring hope that one day through the merits of our Piessed Redeemer and the intercession of His immaculate mother of sorrows, we will again meet him in that colerates land of everlasting peace and joy, where tears flow not and sorrows are unknown, and Resolved. That these resolutions be appreed on the record of our division and a suitable cony presented to the family and he nublished in the city papers and the Philadelphia Hibernian.

PARADE OF FIRE LADDIES

Will Be Seen This Afternoon on Principal Streets of the City.

LARGEST ONE HELD IN YEARS

Will Be About 700 Uniformed Men in Line. Many Bands and Visiting Companies Will Also Take Part in the Demonstration.

Today will be Firemen's Day and in Today will be Freihers by a said cidentally will occur the twenty-ninth annual parade in the history of the Scranton fire department. Preparations indicate that the men in line will be more numerous than ever before; at all events, the parade will with ness the grandest showing, numerically and in equipment, ever made by the local department, and the presence of many visiting companies in line will make the parade worth going many

About 700 uniformed men, with their machines and horses, will represent Scianton's fire fighting strength, and there will be in addition visiting com-panies from Binghamton, Pittston, Hallstead, Archbald and Taylor, and Hallstead, Archbald and Taylor, and nine or ten bands. At 2:30 o'clock the parade will move according to the following official notice of the line of march: On Washington avenue, right resting on Lackawanna avenue, to Eighth street and countermarch to Penn avenue. Penn to Linden, Linden to Wyoming, Wyoming to Lackawanna, Lackawanna to Jefferson, Jefferson to Vine, Vine to Adams, Adams to to Vine, Vine to Adams, Adams to Pine, Pine to Washington, Washing-ton to Lackawanna and dismiss. Given pleasant weather, which now seems probable, the day is bound to be a red-letter one in the history of Scranton's volunteer fire organization. Possibly a year from now a paid department will be in existence and the volunteer feature a thing of the past, which suggests an effort on the part of citizens generally to make the most of the possibly final appearance of the appearance of the department as an existing non-paid, fire-fighting force. The fire officials request that residents, especially along the line of march, decorate their houses.

This was perhaps the finest single effort of the performance. The quartette was heartly recalled. The Mallory brothers, musical experts, introduced brothers, musical experts, introduced novel methods at music making. "The Twentieth Century Swells," a specialty by ten women, which brought out surprising electrical effects, was given with a vim. Three men gave a sketch, "The Dago and the Monkey." Misses P. H. TAVARY COMPANY IN FAUST. Fine Presentation of Gounod's Master piece at the Frothingham. A large and refined audience greeted the Tavary Opera company, which ap-peared in "Faust" at the Frothingham theater last evening, and aside from a few accidents the brief season of grand opera, which is so rare in Scramon, opened auspiciously. At the beginning of the second act the audience was treated to a divertisement not on the bills. Soon after the rendition of a few bars the electric lights in the building suddenly went out, leaving the stage and auditorium in total darkness. The chorus members struggled along for a few more bars, but as the orenestra was obliged to stop, finally ceased. An attempt was made to light the gas, but it was found that the gas had ceased to flow.

The indulgence of the audience was asked and a kerosene lamp was placed on the stage, which diffused a dim light throughout the house. While the break in the Suburban electric circuit, which had occurred outside the house, was being repaired, the crehestra vamped "Marhabian," "Washington Post" and others of the same vein, as the chorus members induiged in the "two-step" and ingromptu grand murches and Madame Tavary's Bitle dog performed actics in the rays of the solitary lamp. The audience was good-natured and vigorously applicated the fun on the stage and assilted the orchestra by whi sling the popular airs played. After a half hour in darkness the lights were ficially turned on again and the chorus was resumed and the performance proceeded without interruption.

Madame Tavary appeared as "Marguerite," and fully sustained her reputation as a prima donna by her inter-pretation of the difficult role, and received several calls before the curtain during the performance. Chev. Guille, in the title role, gave a rendition of the part that was a revelation vocally speaking, and captivated the audience with the manner in which als sweet tenor volve was con-trolled. Signor Abramoff, as "Mephis-topheles," filled the ideal both as a singer and actor, and Max Eugene, as "Valentine," gave a strong impersonation. In the death scene his portrayal was particularly vivid and realistic, and attested his talent in the histrionic line, Mile, Bella Tomlins, as "Selbel," and Sofia Romani, as "Martha," came in for a share of the

The chorus was not particularly well balanced, and did not produce the best effects at all times, but the majority of the choral numbers were well given The audience seemed well pleased with the presentation, and encouraged the company with frequent applause. This afternoon "The Bohemian Girl" will be given, and the performance will begin promptly at 3 o'clock, and "Carmen" will be presented in the evening. The house was very cool last

"Lewis Morrison last night deepened the impressions of his high capabilities as an actor, which in past seasons, Philadelphia pronounced profound already when he produced his dramatic version of 'Faust.' The painstaking care which characterizes the pictorial details in this stage display of a part of Goethe's great poem was manifest continually. The witches' carnival, on the Brocken, was especially uncanny and effective."—The Press, Philadel-phia. At the Academy of Music Wednesday and Thursday.

Frank Daniels thinks that the distribution of chorus characters in "The Wizard of the Nile" affords the best op-portunity for effective costuming within the memory of his stage experience Choruses are usually grouped and styled "citizens, retainers, pages, etc." and they nearly all look alike and dress alike, but in "The Wizard of the Nile" the male chorus is divided into boatmen, royal guards, executioners, galley slaves, nobles, etc., while the girl chorus in-cludes maids of honor, water carriers, dancing girls and Amazons, surely a more variegated and versatile assort-ment than that found in the average comic opera, and as the costumers are from the first house in that line in the country the effect should certainly be attractive. "The Wizard" comes to the Academy for the first time next Fri-

When "The Rising Generation" was produced last season it was conceded that there was enough genuine, good humor in it to keep the face of an auditor spread with a grin for a week. It was effective in so great a measure because the star character in It "Martin McShane," was impersonated by that very amusing, natural Irish comedian, William Barry, Consequent-ly in the return of the comedy to the Academy next Saturday evening, lovers of quaint Celtic drollery may ex-pect an entertainment that will fairly blaze with merriment.
