THE CASE FINISHED.

The Mountain Murderer's Fate Will Soon Bo Ascertained.

Be Ascertained. When court was called to order yes-terday morning, William Scott, of Scranton, was the first witness called to the stand. He said that he would not believe Frank Shafer under oath. He met Shafer in a Duryea saloon, shortly after the explosion, and asked him whom he thought had done this thing. whom he thought had done this thing. Shafer said he didn't know anything about it; that he was working on that night and heard the noise of the explo-sion at 4 o'clock in the morning. Emory Robinson, colered, of Wilkes-Barre, said he had known Shafer for three years, and that his reputation for veracity was bad, and he would not believe him under oath. Constable James Gallagher, of Wilkes-Barre, said he had looked for James Eaton, who Shafer had, according to his own con-fession, told about the tunnel, but could not find any man of that name. Frank Slattery was then recalled and Shafer was asked if he ever saw Slat-tery and replied that he say him once at his cell door. Attorney Mediovern tried to prove that Shafer testified dif-ferently at the habeas corpus hearing at his cell door. Attorney McGovern tried to prove that Shafer testified dif-ferently at the habeas corpus hearing before Judge Lynch than that which he gave before court in the present trial. A delay was caused by McGovern submitting portions of the habeas cor-pus testimony. The testimony was dis-allowed and Shafer allowed to go. Thomas Quigley was called to the stand, but the prosecution objected to his testifying. Shafer's previous testi-mony was also objected to and John Bird was also called in rebuttal. The testimony which Bird was about to give was objected to and Charles Dorsey was called and said he wrote several letters in the jail for Bird. On cross-examination he said he was in jail only once, but Mr. McGovern proved that he was there more than once. The cross-examination was amusing, and the sharp questions of Mr. McGovern and the witty answers of the witness caused considerable lauphter. Determine Magnet Lordan Sait laughter

Dorsey told him that he (Dorsey) had talked with the accused and could get nothing from them. Dorsey's repu-tation for veracity is very bad. On cross-examination Moses said he was sure Dorsey had told him about pump-ing the colored neople at the iail and ing the colored people at the jail, and that they knew nothing about the explosion.

Again, it is said that the missionaries Again, it is said that the missionaries have shown a want of fact in selecting sites for churches and private houses. It seems that a Chinaman regards an edifice set up on a hill with alarm and suspicion. Europeans always prefer an elevated site, and they choose also to have a high wall for purposes of privacy and protection. While the Chinaman's depraved imagina-tion anything that suggests secrecy has a dire and sinister significance. Another source of difficulty is the refusal of the Christian converts to contribute to the ex-penses of the many semi-religious festi-vals that are so important a part of Chinese custom. This leads to the social ostracism of the convert. His name is expunged from the family register and he is debarred from all privileges of the family He. yngham street crossing. The members of Zion African Meth-odist Episcopal church have sent in a request to the general conference that

Rev. Mr. Carter be returned to this charg for another year. The Red Ash colliery will start as soon as there is sufficient water to operate the mines. The bride wore a steel-blue traveling dress, with velvet trimmings, and her sister, Miss Bessle, was attired in a very pretty costume. John Perkins, of Wilkes-Barre, was groomsman. On their return they will reside in Pittston, where the groom has resently built a heautiful From the Philadelphia Press. With $163,239,016 spent annually in the support of the public schools of the United States it would appear as if every one of the 14,105,183 children of school age should have all the facilities necessary for ob-taining an education. Some of this goes into permanent improvements, it is true, but if the rest was equally distributed according to school population there would be an average of at least 50 for the education of each child enrolled. But it is not evenly divided, Massachusetts ex-pending about $25 for each child enrolled, New York about $26 and Pennsylvania $16, while South Carolina spends only $2.05, While here is a great disparity it would seem that the first three states ought to be amply provided with school facilities. From the Philadelphia Press. groom has recently built a beautiful dwelling house. At St. John' church, Pittston, on Tuesday evening, Miss Mame Kane, of Pittston, and John Hanlon, of this place, were united in marrhage by Rev. J. B. be amply provided with school facilities. But it is in these neighborhoods which spend the most money for schools, and es-pecially in the large efficies, where the loud-est complaints are made of inadequate facilities. The beginning of the present school year has made this fact more than usually prominent. From every one of the large efficies in the north the uniform story comes of a lack of school room. Even in Boston, which prides itself on its puble schools, the facilities are found far below the demand. In some parts of that eity the authorities have been compelled to creet temporary wooden buildings in connection with the main school houses, where the younger classes can be accom-modated. But this shows a disposition at least to give an opportunity to every child to obtain an education. has prepared a very pretty home. Congratulations are being tendered Howard Luckey by all parties for the excellent manner in which he acquitted himself yesterday, while pitching for

to obtain an education. ------: The outlook in New York city is less en-couraging. That city's school enrollment is about 25,000, but of this number nearly one-fifth is unable to find room in the school houses, and this notwithstanding the fact that that eity spends nearly $6, 000,000 annually on its schools. The situa-tion in this city is well known. With an annual expenditure of $2,750,000 and an en-roliment of 130,000 pupils there are prob-ably one-fifth as many more who could not be accommodated with sitting room in the school houses. Chicago had 175,000 children enrolled in its schools when they opened last week, but notwithstanding the most strenuous exertions and the reating of 213 rooms outside the school buildings it was found that there were 11,000 more children than could be accommodated. Miss Mary A. Quinn has accepted a position as teacher in the public schools of Edwardsville. Miss Quinn has of Edwardsville. Louis with 50,000 enrollment all find themselves in the same embarrassing circumstances. Turning a child away from the doors of a school house and shut-ting it off from the knowledge it seeks books so uncivilized and un-American that it is a sight few care to contemplate. And yet it has been done in thousands of cases during the past ten days and in eities that pride themselves on their wealth and social progress. If this is the situation in the better favored neighbor-hoods and where the greatest effort is made to supply the demand, what must be Tuesday. W. H. Some of the reasons given for the dis-couraging state of affairs in the large cities are of an eminetly practical na-ture. The Indianapol's Journal thinks that it is caused partly by the disposition to erect elaborate and expensive school buildings instead of plain, substantial structures. Not long ago a war was be-gun in Chicago on the "fads" in the schools of that city which used up money which, it is claimed, ought to be spent in more useful ways. These "fads" are the teaching of Latin, higher mathe-matics, the modern languages and music. Politics is also the cause of the waste of much school money. School expenses would naturally increase with the popu-lation, but in recent years they have grown out of all proportion to this in-crease. The American people do not be-grudge liberal expenditures for the educh-tion of the rising generation, but they do nak that the money for which they are taxed shall be conscientionaly and skill-fully spent for the puppose intended. real progress made in the work of evange-lizing China and whether the results jus-tify the enormous cost in life, suffering and money. In a letter to the New York Tribune, Rev. Mr. Donehoo, a Presbyte-rian elergyman of Pittsburg, although earnestly in favor of Christian missions generally, speaking from his experience among the Chinamen here, says: "I have never yet found one who gave evidence of thorough conversion to Christianity, though I have known a large number who have been in our Sabbath schools and a few who have professed conversion." ter of the Exchange hotel, was called and said he knew Charley Dorsey; that his reputation was bad and he would not believe him under oath.

John McGraw, another policeman, said Dorsey had a bad reputation. This closed the testimony in the case and at 3.15 Assistant District Attorney Fuller began the closing argument for the prosecution. He went over the evi-dence carefully and dwelt at length upon Shafer's confession, in which he named Miller and himself as the chiefs in the horrible crime. He pointed to the case as the commonwealth had made it out, and asked for a verdict of murder in the first degree. His plea lasted nearly an hour and a half and was a very able effort.

A Kind Act.

William Leslie, of the Elmira Tele-gram, did a charitable and generous action when he collected $110 for John Cannon, a poor blind man with large family, who was recently evicted from his home in the Five Points be-cause he could not pay the rent. Mr. Leslie went among the business men and lawyers and collected $100 in three hours. This morning he received a telegram with $10 from Mr. Brooks, of the Telegram Publishing company. The money was placed in the Wyoming Trust company, and the poor, blind miner was given the bank book.

A Pertinent Question.

concerned. George Curzon, member of the British parliament, in his book on "Japan, Corea and China," devotes a number of pages to the subject of Christian missions in the east. While warmly commending some features of misionary life in the cast, he endoavors to give to western readers an insight into the nature of Chinese opposi-tion to Christian missions. One of the ob-stacles to effective missionary work is the disagreement between the various Chris-tian denominations. Thus, the Jesuits, the American and the English Protestants have each a separate name for Deity. The Jesuits adopt the title Tien Chu, or Lord of Heaven. The Americans prefer Chen Shen, or True Spirit. The English Prot-estants adopt the Chinese Shan-ti, or Su-preme Lord, the name of the deity wor-shipped upon the Altar of Heaven at Pekin. The failure of the different de-nominations to agree upon some form in which to present the Scriptures is an-other source of difficuity. Mr. Curzon Says that the constantiv in-A Pertinent Question. Chicago Times-Herald: "The rumored Intention of Mexico to recognize the bel-ligerency of the Cuban revolutionists was not unexpected. Indeed, it would be strange if all the Latin-American coun-tries did not take some such step to show their appreciation of the sturdy courage of their kinsmen. They have felt the barbarous misrule of Spain. They know her 'cunning and her greed, her coid, hard heart and willful deed.' It may not be long before every American country fac-ing upon the Atlantic ocean from Argen-tiat to the keys of Florida will take the attitude toward the Cubans which is warranted by their long suffering under oppression and their brilliant courage in rebellion. Then will the United States of America of all American nations continue to look upon the struggle with indifferent cy? Take a Lesson from the Enemy. Pittsburg Dispatch: "Spanish efforts to prevent the recognition of Cuba indicate a belief that such acton would involve something more than moral support. harly unmarried women, by the missionary bodies, is another cause of misunderstand-ing. Large numbers of young girls are sent out for missionary work to Japan and China from the United States, as well as from England and the colones.
