The city will shortly have a new bridge in place of the old Eighth avebridge which broke down on Sunboth councils to discuss the subject of the bridge, and to decide what should be done. In the common council Mr. done. In the common council Mr. McDonough said that it certainly was the duty of the city to keep all highways in good condition. He also said that no one had a right to abuse these highways, which had certainly been done by the Traction company in tak-ing cars of coal across the bridge. He thought that the collapse was directly due to this. Mr. Baker's opinion on the subject was the same, and he said that it had been subjected to a strain of nearly twenty-five tons at one time. Mr. Glennon also spoke of the abuse of the bridge by the Traction company. He said that notwithstanding all attempts by the council to keep it up that it had falled, and was now worth

Mr. Pender, in speaking, said that he thought the street committee should wait on the Traction company, and he thought they would be willing to give something toward a new bridge. Some discussion was had in regard to the kind of bridge that should be constructed, and it was in the opinion of most that fron was the only material which would be sultable. If a stone bridge were constructed two arches would be necessary, which would bring a pier in the middle of the stream. This would probably cause the water to overflow, the banks during the first

AN EXCITING RUNAWAY.

J. B. Shannon & Company's Horse Runs Down Lincoln Avenue.

Tuesday evening a horse belonging to J. B. Shannon & Co., and which was attached to a light market wagon, became frightened and set off at break-neck speed. Plerson, the driver, saw that he could not control the animal, and jumped from the wagon. Down the hin it came, the wagon slewing from one side of the road to the other and taking all before it. However, nothing happened until Church street was reached. Here the horse tried to turn the corner, and failing, the wagon smashed against a telegraph pole and became wedged between that and an electric light pole. This ended the mad race of the frightened animal, which could not proceed, although it strug-gled ineffectually. When finally quiet-ed it was found that it was entangled badly in the harness.

The most exciting part of the whole The most exciting part of the whole affair was the narrow escape which a bicyclist had. John Roskoff, superintendent of Klotz Bros. silk mill, was coming up the street on his bicycle and was running near the curb at Shepherd's store; just at this time the horse came around the corner and ap-parently ran into Mr. Roskoff. Just how he came to escape he is unable to tell, and as it was dark the spectators were unable to see. As the crowd gath-loskoff was just pulling his wheel out from under the wagon. He was not hurt in the least, and the wheel also escaped damage.
