

The Scranton Tribune

Daily and Weekly. No Sunday Edition. Published at Scranton, Pa., by The Tribune Publishing Company.

E. P. KINGSBURY, Prop. and Gen'l. Man. E. N. RIPLEY, Sec'y and Treas.

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT SCRANTON, PA., AS SECOND-CLASS MAIL MATTER.

"Printer's Ink," the recognized journal for advertisers, runs The Scranton Tribune as the best advertising medium in Northeastern Pennsylvania.

The Weekly Tribune, issued every Saturday, contains twelve handsome pages, with an abundance of news, fiction, and well-edited miscellany.

The Tribune is for sale daily at the D. L. and W. Station at Hoboken.

SCRANTON, SEPTEMBER 28, 1895.

REPUBLICAN STATE TICKET.

For Judges of the Superior Court: CHARLES E. RICE, of Luzerne. E. N. WILLIAMS, of Lackawanna.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY TICKET.

For Coroner. SAMUEL P. LONGSTREET, M. D., of Scranton. For Surveyor. EDMUND A. BARTL, of Scranton.

Just why councils should be so anxious to overtax the beerless night lunch wagons is difficult to discover, unless councils resent the absence of beer.

Sunday Liquor Selling.

As to the merits of the uncomplicated question of the Sunday selling of liquor in this country there does not seem to be much room for a difference of opinion.

The law in this country very properly is non-sectarian; hence it declines to enter into details that pertain especially to the conscience.

Ohio is as reliably Republican as Pennsylvania, although by a less overwhelming majority, yet she has a hopeful candidate for the presidency in every national convention.

The good citizen is always willing to yield a point or two of his personal rights if it will contribute to the general welfare. Thus many persons who can see no harm in a moderate indulgence in beer or wine on Sunday, and who, if the sale of these beverages on that day were demanded by a large majority sentiment, as in France or Germany, would probably purchase them, are content to forego what to them seems harmless pleasures, in deference to the widespread American sentiment in favor of Sunday observance.

The story that General Harrison has withdrawn as a candidate for renomination, in favor of Governor McKinley, is clearly a bit of newspaper impudence, interesting simply in its illustration of one form of journalistic enterprise.

The Farmer and the Tariff.

Although we hear much these days concerning the revival which has lately come to the iron, steel and allied industries—a revival which, whatever its cause, all Americans are glad to welcome—it is a noteworthy circumstance that the able Democratic editors, whose mission it is to make party capital, have as yet had nothing to say about any revival in the farming industry.

One of the first things which they will discover as a result of this balancing of accounts is that the change from protection to a tariff for deficit only has cost them a good deal of money. The truck farmer near the city will find that he lost his market at about the same time that Democratic tariff tinkering closed the workshop and crippled the mill, and he hasn't by any means got it back yet.

1892. The western cattle grower, who was beginning, under reciprocity, to ship cured and canned meats to a profit to Germany, France and South America, retired from that line of trade not long after the Democratic congress tossed reciprocity overboard.

As a consequence of these discoveries which the farmer will make when he gets time to sit down and compare Democratic campaign promises with the hard, cold facts, he will come to the conclusion that the policy of protection, as maintained during thirty years of prosperous Republican rule, is a pretty good thing for him, as well as for his neighbor, the mill-worker, or his friend, the merchant.

When Wilkes-Barre has an abundance of water it doesn't use it; but a drought operates like a temperance crusade.

Pennsylvania and the Presidency.

Since the recent Republican state convention was held many influential Republican journals of this state have been discussing the probable attitude of Pennsylvania in the national convention next year.

It is a noticeable, and likewise a suggestive, fact that this talk about a threatened reopening of the Republican factional fight emanates exclusively from Democrats.

It is possible that the Republican party would desire to have a word to say concerning a re-opening of the late unpleasantness.

David B. Hill is giving the public a realistic exhibition of an unblushing prostitution of genius.

POLITICAL GOSSIP.

The New York Evening Post fancies that it discerns signs of an improvement in the modern party platform. The old platform, it observes, "was drawn on a traditional plan, which was about as original as the Byzantine mosaic."

The Commercial-Advertiser hits from the shoulder in its analysis of the New York campaign. "The Republican party," it says, "is not perfect."

We have no desire to depreciate our own state or its Republicans, but in this connection it is both proper and necessary to state facts.

The American people, and especially the Republican portion of them, have a high ideal of what a president should be; this ideal is higher now than ever before.

The proposition to bring before that convention a Pennsylvania only for the purpose of giving him a complimentary vote does not amount to much. Unless there is some distinguished Republican in this state for whose nomination it is proposed to make a sincere and honest effort, then the state might as well remain without a candidate for four years longer.

presidency, not because they belong to certain states, but because they have achieved that in public life which has attracted the attention of the nation to them.

Possibly not one of the men now prominent as candidates for the Republican nomination will be successful in the convention next year, but even if so-called "dark horses" should come to the front it is not at all probable that the convention would turn to Pennsylvania.

A good many wheelmen, these dark Autumn evenings, appear to forget that there is a law upon the ordinance books threatening with a fine the rider of a bicycle who, at night, fails to equip his wheel with a lantern and to ring a bell of warning at street crossings.

It is a noticeable, and likewise a suggestive, fact that this talk about a threatened reopening of the Republican factional fight emanates exclusively from Democrats.

It is possible that the Republican party would desire to have a word to say concerning a re-opening of the late unpleasantness.

David B. Hill is giving the public a realistic exhibition of an unblushing prostitution of genius.

POLITICAL GOSSIP.

The New York Evening Post fancies that it discerns signs of an improvement in the modern party platform. The old platform, it observes, "was drawn on a traditional plan, which was about as original as the Byzantine mosaic."

The Commercial-Advertiser hits from the shoulder in its analysis of the New York campaign. "The Republican party," it says, "is not perfect."

We have no desire to depreciate our own state or its Republicans, but in this connection it is both proper and necessary to state facts.

The American people, and especially the Republican portion of them, have a high ideal of what a president should be; this ideal is higher now than ever before.

The proposition to bring before that convention a Pennsylvania only for the purpose of giving him a complimentary vote does not amount to much. Unless there is some distinguished Republican in this state for whose nomination it is proposed to make a sincere and honest effort, then the state might as well remain without a candidate for four years longer.

The Mugwump New York Evening Post says at least one of the "A" general principle," it remarks, "it is better to vote for a Republican than for a Democratic legislative candidate, unless the latter be a man who is squarely pledged to favor municipal and other reform measures, and whose character is such as to give assurance of his keeping his promise. It is always possible to force a Republican nomination, but it is not desirable to do his duty to yield to the force of public opinion and favor reform measures. The Mugwump is a Democratic ally for Tammany, and a Democratic member is rarely or never found voting with reformers.

COMMENT OF THE PRESS.

Hard Tack and Bacon Are Best. St. Louis Globe-Democrat: "Chemical wafers and concentrated foods may serve to allay hunger for a time, but recent experiments do not promise that they can take the place of the usual rations with marching troops."

No Reason for a Long Campaign. Lebanon News: "Since during presidential years excitement always runs high and business is often very materially interfered with there is no good reason why the campaign should be prolonged."

Not in Our Class. St. Louis Globe-Democrat: "Our rail-way cars are twice as heavy as the English, and our tracks cost half as much, yet we hold the record for fast trains."

They Worked Hard and Steadily. Altoona Tribune: "The men who stand at the head of their callings today were particular to what sort of work they were put in the beginning, didn't grumble about their wages and put in full time."

A Serious Difficulty. Chicago Tribune: "There is only one trouble with Mrs. Bullington's husband's prescription of a strong-minded husband for the cure of the new woman habit. No new woman can get it filled."

Time to Withdraw. Chicago Dispatch: "Lieutenant Peary has succeeded in spending two summer vacations in an ideal summer resort at public expense. Now he should be satisfied to quit."

Wants to Take It Out of Hook. Chicago Dispatch: "The imprudent young man is beginning to take quite an interest in the overcoat which his uncle has taken quite an interest in since last winter."

True in This State, Also. Buffalo News: "Politicians' action, constant vigilance and hard work will give the Republicans a grand victory at the polls."

How He May Redeem Himself. Philadelphia Item: "We will forgive Dunraven much if he doesn't put down his impression of us in a book."

Is this The Tribune? Yes, sir. Will you make an announcement? Who's the speaker? This is Snyder—the court officer. Please speak a little louder, Mr. Snyder. Your voice sounds weak.

Exchange, connect me with the meat box, please. Hello! Is that Mr. Betts? You bet. Where is Billy Barn's? In New York on business for the club. Buying cigars? No, buying quinine. Quinine? Yes. We propose, if we stay in business, to have a sufficient quantity on hand next year to enable us to cope with the ague that invariably attacks players the moment they don't wear uniforms.

NEW LINE OF FOOT BALLS Also Big Stock of Guns, Revolvers and Ammunition. C. M. FLOREY 222 Wyoming Ave.

SUMMER FURNITURE AT Hill & Connell's 31 AND 33 WASHINGTON AVE

Refrigerators The Best of Them All is the ZERO

Porch Chairs and Rockers, Fine Reed Chairs and Rockers, A Few Baby Carriages Left at Cost.

Cedar Chests, 4th Floor, in Three Sizes.

Hill & Connell, 31 AND 33 WASHINGTON AVE.

Stocks, Bonds and Grain Bought and sold on New York Exchange and Chicago Board of Trade, either for cash or on margin.

WM. LINN ALLEN & CO., 412 Spruce Street. LOCAL STOCKS A SPECIALTY. Telephone 8002.

THAT WONDERFUL WEBER PIANOS

Call and see these Pianos, and some fine second-hand Pianos we have taken in exchange for them. GUERNSEY BROTHERS, 224 Ave. Every Furnace Guaranteed.

GOLDSMITH'S G.B. BAZAAR. Store Closed Saturday, UNTIL 6 P. M., On Account of Holiday. When we open up for the evening all those who could not attend our Tenth Fall Opening upon Thursday, Sept. 26th, are cordially invited to come and see our Grand Display of Fall and Winter Novelties.

CHAMBER SETS The Antique Shape, our own importation, in four different colors and decorations. 12 PIECES: 1 Large Ewer, 1 Covered Vessel, 1 Basin, 1 Covered Jar, 1 Small Ewer, 1 Covered Soap, 1 Mug, 1 Brush Vase.

See Them in Our Show Window. THE CLEMONS, FERBER, O'MALLEY CO. (LIMITED.) 422 LACKAWANNA AVENUE.

NEW LINE OF FOOT BALLS Also Big Stock of Guns, Revolvers and Ammunition. C. M. FLOREY 222 Wyoming Ave.

SUMMER FURNITURE AT Hill & Connell's 31 AND 33 WASHINGTON AVE

Refrigerators The Best of Them All is the ZERO

Porch Chairs and Rockers, Fine Reed Chairs and Rockers, A Few Baby Carriages Left at Cost.

Cedar Chests, 4th Floor, in Three Sizes.

Hill & Connell, 31 AND 33 WASHINGTON AVE.

Stocks, Bonds and Grain Bought and sold on New York Exchange and Chicago Board of Trade, either for cash or on margin.

THAT WONDERFUL WEBER PIANOS

Call and see these Pianos, and some fine second-hand Pianos we have taken in exchange for them. GUERNSEY BROTHERS, 224 Ave. Every Furnace Guaranteed.

Fine Stationery Blank Books, Office Supplies. EDISON'S MIMEOGRAPH And Supplies. TYPE WRITERS' SUPPLY STEEL AND COPPER PLATE ENGRAVING IN ALL ITS BRANCHES. REYNOLDS BROS., Stationers and Engravers, 37 LACKAWANNA AVE.

WILLIAM S. MILLAR, Alderman 8th Ward, Scranton. ROOMS 4 AND 5. Gas and Water Co. Building, CORNER WYOMING AVE. AND CENTER ST.

IT IS THE LEADER HOWARD WARM AIR FURNACE. Made Entirely of Cast Iron. Absolutely Free from Gas and Dust. Great Economy in the Consumption of Fuel.

FOOTE & SHEAR CO. 119 WASHINGTON AVENUE. Every Furnace Guaranteed.