EARLY CLOSING.

Several Signify Their Willingness to Close.

Several signify Their Willingness to Close. The committee from the Clerks' as-sociation who were making a canvas of the city yesterday were partly success-ful. This plan, it is hoped, will be car-tried out, as other towns, such as Scran-ton. Wilkes-larre and Honesdale, have-tried it and found that it worked. The committee who made the canvas was composed of Joseph Birs, of B. S. Clark's store, and George Alvord, of Rolton's. They had but a short time to do their work, but the number of names secured showed that it found favor in the eyes of the storekeepers. Those who signified their willingness to join the movement are B. S. Clark's S. Bolton, J. B. Shannon & Co., D. W. Humphrey, Stephen & Tucker, Willian Bowers and S. A. Purdy. Others who have not yet been visited by the com-mittee have said they would be willing to join if those who signed would kee their promise. They say that at other time some of the storekeepers have kept their stores open despite their agreement. Messars, Shannon, Erk, Snyder and Stephens will make a general canvas

MISS TYLER WANTS $5,000.

The City Is Defendant in Another Suit for Damages.

Miss Rose Tyler, of Prompton, Wayne county, has brought a suit for dam-ages against the city. Miss Tyler is a music teacher and makes frequent visits to this place. About Christmas time in 1893 she was walking along the rtreet. The sidewalk in front of Dr. Wheeler's residence was not level and she stumbled and fell, injuring herself. These injuries, she claims, are worth $5,000, and it is for this sum that she SUM

The suit has been expected for a long time, as it has been threatened and the accident took place two years ago. The matter was brought before the councils nine-months after the accident, but this was already pretty late. It was re-ferred to the committee, where it has rested ever since. Summons in assump-elt were served upon the city yesterday, H. C. Butler repeaenting the plain-

All roads lead to Eatonville now.

All roads lead to Eatonville now. Hunters report aquirrels very scarce. Charles C. Swisher, son of District Passenger Agent Swisher, of the Jersey Central road, is a writer of amateur dramas, and is now at work on a play called "The Two Orphans." It is in three acts, quite lengthy, and will soon be ready to put in the hands of a well-known critic for correction. If it proves satisfactory he will have it put upon the boards. It is his third at-temat, the former productions being written marely for practice. The rumer that the Lehigh Valley road had been keased by the Pennsyl-vania seems to have bad no founda-tion. Robert H. Sayre, second vice-president of the Valley company, pro-nounces it absolutely false. There is no apparent reason why the Lehigh should transfer its management to a rival. It has a magnificent train ser-vice, enjoys a thriving passenger and freight patronage and is being very ably managed. It is able to take care of itself, and the "Pennsy," though a most excellent railway system, appears to have sufficient but len of fits own. Complaint is made that there are dis-reputable houses in the First ward that need looking after. Here is a tip or the authorities. Monday was the fifty-third annivers-ary of the birth of Mrs. Mary J. Fas-set, and late in the day about thirty of her friends, including several from Mehoopany, gathered in to remind her of the event and present their con-spatulations. Rodney J. Bardwell, who went to Redney J. Bardwell, who went to Colorado some time ago for his health, is up in the mountains about eighty miles from Glenwood Springs assas-sinating grizzlies, elk and mountain sheep, in company with a couple of Englishmen who formerly hunted ele-phants in South Africa. Rev. George Hine, pastor of the Baptist church here, was once out in that country, and relates his experience hunting big game as follows: With a companion, he started out after bear meat, and he started out after bear meat, and the started out after bear meat, and presently they spied a big grizzly. Bruin rose up on his hind feet, and to the frightened hunters he seemed to be six feet high. Hine brought his heavy rifle up, but it bobbed around so that he couldn't hit a tarn. Looking back, he saw that his companion was in the same fix. "Have you got anything against that bear?" asked Hine. "Nathing." was the resonane. "Neither against that bear?" asked Hine. "Nothing." was the response. "Neither have I: let's get out of this." And they did get out at a lively rate. Mr. and Mrs. S. Judson Stark will celebrate the twenty-second annivers. ary of their marriage at their hand-some residence on East Tloga street today.
