Officers Elected and Other Busines Transacted-Mr. Llewellyn, of Pittston, Is Asked to Take a Walk.

Special to the Scranton Tribune. Reading, Pa., Oct. 2.—The excitement incident to the election of officers and the selecting of the place for holding the next convention has kept more than one person up all night, and when the convention opened this morning it looked like an even battle. Owing to tooked like an even battle. Owing to the roll not being completed the con-vention was not called to order until 10.30 a. m. After the roll call, the elec-tion was immediately proceeded with. All went smoothly until the delegation from Philadelphia vetoed, when the trouble began. Threats came fast and furious, and it took at least ton minutes for Presiit took at least ten minutes for Presi-dent Brooks to call the convention to order. All then went well until the name of George J. Llewylen, of Pitts-ton, was reached and then another ob-ton, was reached and then another ob-stacle was met. 'Mr. Llewylen claimed the right to vote, which right was con-tradicated by at least 95 per cent. of the members. The president decided that Mr. Llewylen was no member and not entitled to vote. He was therefore re-quested to return his badge and receive his money, and an invitation was ex-tended him "to walk the plank." Nothing further marred the work of the convention, and at 11 o'clock Charles Schadt, of Scranton, deposited the last ballot. The teller then re-turned and the routine business of the convention was taken up. convention was taken up.

Scranton Side-Tracked.

The vote for place of holding next convention was as follows: Johnstown, 218; Scranton, 63. As there were 393 votes cast, the fact that Scranton claimed but sixty-three is generally misunderstood. Even the Johnstown people express surprise at the inaccu-racy of the tellers. Up to Tuesday afternoon it was generally understood by the leaders that Isadore Goodman, of Scranton, was to be a candidate for vice-president. At a caucus held by the Scranton delegation it was decided to ask Mr. Goodman to retire, owing to the currence closence of the dicht to the supposed closeness of the fight between Scranton and Johnstown. The off r was immediately accepted by Mr. Goodman, and his sacrifice of himself after going to considerable trouble has won for him the respect of not only the Scranton firemen, but of all the the Scranton firemen, but of all the leaders in the convention. At the morn-ing session Hon. James Clarency, "The Firemen's Friend," was presented with a fine gold-headed cane, suitably in-scribed. The oration tendered to Mr. Clarency was never before equaled in the city of Reading. Tonight the city is crowded, and many delegations are yet to arrive. yet to arrive.

Henry Van Frank brought suit against Christ Houseman for damages done to his property by fire from a piece of ground which Houseman was clearing. Houseman, Van Frank and Constable Henry Quick were before Justice Newberger to have the case tried. When the justice asked the defendant, Houseman, if he would not settle the case and have it go no further. Houseman said: "Yes, I will settle it now." At that he pulled out a revolver and stood on a lounge and shot Justice Newberger. The bullet took effect in Newberger's cheek, below the eye, and he will probably die. Houseman then shot Constable Henry Quick in the nose between the eyes, the ball taking a downward course, making a painful wound. He also shot three times at the prosecutor, Henry Von Frank, but, fortunately, did not hit him. It is said that Houseman had with him two cigar boxes filled with dynamite with fuse attached. He then started for the woods. Soon afterward several men, armed with guns, started in purusit.
