CARBONDALE

MR. SCHIVEREA'S LAST DAY The Tent Packed to Its Utmost-Two Ser

The last of the meetings conducted by Evangelist Schiverea was held last evening at the tent at the head of Garfield avenue. The meetings have been very successful in this city, the tent being filled each night. The meetings have been productive of a great deal of good and many souls have been led to turn toward the Master. Never in this city have the people manifested such great interest and turned out in such great interest and turned out in such great numbers to hear anybody. Mr. Ochiverea is a man of charming personality and has great magnetism. His work in this city has been indeed great. The services yesterday were of unusual interest. At 3.30 o'clock the last Böble reading was held and the subject was "The Coming Again of Our Blessed Lord." A large number of people were at this meeting.

was "The Coming Again of Our Blessed Lord." A large number of people were at this meeting.

Two sermons were delivered last evening, one to the unsaved and one to those who have decided for God during his stay in this city. Mr. Schiverea gadd that "the meetings in the tent would close, but he hoped the work would go on and revolutionize Carbondale. If the work ceases when he leaves Carbondale it was worth nothing."

Special music was prepared by Mr. Wolfshon, and the whole congregation joined in singing the familiar hymns. The lady choir, which sang at the young ladies' meeting on Sunday, led the singing. Mr. Schiverea then snoke, his words being well chosen and delivered with an earnestness that could hardly help but convince his hearers. The address to those who have decided for God was printed and presented to those present. Mr. Schiverea's remarks to the unsaved were very pointed and true, and after he was through those who wished to decide for the Master were asked to rise. A large number responded asked to rise. MONEY IS NEEDED.

Blik Mill Subscribers Have Not Paid Their

The trustees of the silk mill were obliged to hold a meeting in which the financial matters connected with the finishing of the building on Belmont street were discussed. The call for the last instalment of the subscription bonds was made several weeks ago, but as yet all the money has not been paid in.

but as yet all the money has not been paid in.

Several of the subscribers have been lake in paying other instalments, and the time has now come when it must be sent in. If it is delayed much longer work will be hampered. The work is nearly finished at the new building, and the trustees have worked long and faithfully at their duties. The way in which they have done their work is one of hearty congratulation on the part of the stockholders.

The bonds which Klotz Bros. will issue will be turned over to subscribers as soon as the building is occupied by them. The mill, however, can not be transferred until ready for occupancy, and the settlement of the subscribins is necessary for its completion.

It should not be necessary to force the payment of the guaranties, which were made of their own free will. There is a deficiency which must be met at once, and it should be given the immediate attention of the subscribers.

PLAYS FOR OCTOBER.

This Month Will Witness Many Good Ones at the Grand.

Ones at the Grand.

The second month of the opera season has opened at the Grand, and will be most interesting on account of the unusual number of good plays which will be here during the month. The appearance of Joseph Murphy will be the first of a series, which will attract the attention of theater-goers. The leading companies on the road will be here and all performances will be first-class and give what they are guarancons.

Charles Hanford, the tragedian, will be here on the 19th in Damon and Pythias, and on the 14th Fanny Rice, one of the most charming comedians of the day, will delight the people. The famous Byrne brothers, in their "Eight Bells," and a production of "Zero," with seventy persons, will also be on the stage.

Chauncy Olcott will also be here, and other performances equally as good. The quality will be beyond the ordinary for October, and large crowds should be present at each performance.

REDEEMED BONDS.

City Treasurer Gramer Buys Securities.

Yesterday several of the bonds issued by the city matured, and City Treasurer Gramer redeemed them. The bonds were as follows: One city improvement loan, No. 5, amounting to $800, one city improvement loan, No. 6, amounting to $600, two city improvement loans, No. 3, amounting to $1,000 ceach.

ment loans, No. 3, amounting to $1,000 each.

This makes the total of $3,300 city improvement loan bonds purchased by the city in one day. Semi-annual interest was also paid today on city bonds as follows: On city improvement loan, No. 5, $60; on city improvement loan, No. 6, $87.57; and on loan No. 7, $87.50.

These amounts are paid out of the sinking fund raised for the purpose of redeeming and paying interest on the city bonds. A special tax is levied for this purpose, being a 3-mill levy this year. This tax is the subject of a great deal of misunderstanding on the part of the tax payers, and causes a great deal of questioning when the property owners come to the treasurer's office to settle their accounts.

What a Little Muriatic Acid Will Do if Used Rightly-A Rich Man Applied It Cunningly to Manufacture a Receipt for a Note but Was Discovered, Tried, Convicted and Sentenced to Serve Seven

H. Livingstone brought suit against W. W. Ward, the ex-sheriff of the coun-ty, for the recovery of $5,000, money baned on Ward's scaled note. The particulars are related by the Washington Post.

The court was presided over by Judge T. 3. Mackey. By consent of parties, the case was heard without a jury. the case was heard whaout a jury. Livingstone, the plaintiff, proved the execution of the note, and closed his case. The defense set up the plea that the note had been paid, and produced a receipt signed by Livingstone, dated two years previous to the trial, for the whole amount of the note, principal and interest; and a witness testified that he had seen the payment made in $100 bills, and four $500 bills to Livingstone himself on the day named in the stone himself, on the day named in the Admitted Its Genuineness.

The plaintiff took the witness stand, and on examining the receipt, admitted that it bore his true and genuine algnature. He solemnly protested, however, that he had not received one dollar from Ward, and had never entered Ward's house for any purpose. He declared that he was ruined, and that he and his wife would be made homeless by a false receipt which he could not explain, but which he had never knowingly signed. On cross-examination, Livingstone, who was an old man, admitted that his memory was very infirm, and that on a previous occasion he had received a payment of $200 from another debtor, which he afterward denied receiving, but which Admitted Its Genuineness terward denied receiving, but which he recalled to memory when shown his receipt. The plaintiff and his counsel at this stage of the proceeding were in utter despair, for their case was ap-parently lost.

Judge Mackey, who had made a close study of criminal history, however, di-rected that the receipt be handed to him. He then ordered the sheriff to proceed to the nearest drug-store and purchase a drackm of muriatic acid and purchase a drachm of muriatic acid and a small piece of sponge. On the return of the officer with the articles named, the judge said to the plaintiff:

"Mr. Livingstone, did you ever address a letter to the defendant, Ward, demanding payment of your money?

"Yes, sir," answered the plaintiff; "I wrote him many letters, but never received any reply from him."

Judge Mackey then said to the coun-

Judge Mackey then said to the coun-"I perceive that on the face of this receipt there are several peculiar brown spets, and the original surface opinion the defendant has taken a let-ter of the plaintiff and removed the writing with muriatic acid, and then written the receipt above the signa-ture. I will now apply this acid to the writing on the back of the complaint in this case, and it will be seen that the writing will instantly disappear and the paper will at once exhibit several brown spots identical with those on this receipt."

The acid was applied to the paper, and as the writing disappeared, the brown blots were seen upon its sur-face, and the crime of the defendant was clearly revealed. Ward Is Horror-Stricken. Ward, at this juncture, looked as hor-ror-stricken as Lady Macbeth, when, gazing upon her fair but murderous hand, she exclaimed, as she valuly rubbed it. "Out, damned spot!" The judge immediately rendered a decision in favor of the plaintiff, adding that it was the duty of the solicitor to have Ward prosecuted for his audaclous forgery.

Ward prosecuted for his audacious forgery.

The next morning Judge Mackey left for Georgetown, forty miles distant, to hold court. While there he received a letter from a friend, warning him not to return to Williamsburg, as he had promised to do in a few days, for the purpose of hearing an argument in chambers, as Ward had solemnly sworn to kill him on sight. In the days, how. to kill him on sight. In five days, how-ever, he returned to Williamsburg, and seeing Ward in the street, demanded if he had threatened to take his life. Ward answered that he had, but had aban-dond his purpose.

Ward was indicted at the next term of court and placed on trial for forgery. When the verdict of guilty was rendered. Ward rose and discharged his pistol at Livingstone, the prosecuting witness, and one of the balls passed through his coat. He was instantly disarmed, and sentenced to a term of seven years at hard labor in the penitentiary, where several years after he died.
