DOINGS OF THE CHURCHES

Rev. Dr. D. C. Hughes' Resignation Is the Pourth in Baptist Circles.

DEBT AND MINISTERIAL WORK

Is It a Menace to Good Results ?- Topic for Next Week's State Sunday School Convention-Live News of the Religious World.

Church discord and lack of appreciation are given as the reasons for the reagnation of Rev. Dr. D. C. Hughes, poster of the Jackson Street Baptist church, Or. Hughes came to Scranton six years ago and was the main cause in building the handsome new church now occupied by the Jackson stre-t congregation. The membership increased, but there was no corresponding shrinkage of the church debt, and when the trustees recently met and could suggest no way out of financial difficulty Dr. Hughes gave them no-tice that he would resign as pastor. The minister kept his word, and will supply the pulpit tomorrow in the denn Avenue Baptist church and has an-nounced that he will not withdraw his resignation.

This is the fourth resignation in this

This is the fourth resignation in this Baptist district within a month, the three others being Rev. Warren G. Partridge, of the Penn Avenue church; Rev. T. J. Collins, of the Scranton Street church, and Rev. Hugh Guest, of Peckville. The summary manner in which Dr. Hughes resigned leaves no doubt that he felt personally aggrieved over the trustees' failure to grapple with the financial problem that confronts the Jackson Street church. confronts the Jackson Street church. The circumstance is an evidence of one of a minister's trials and suggests the of a minister's trials and suggests of question, "A church debt is how great a menace to a preacher's work?" The question can best be answered by preachers and church officers themselves, but this last resignation may be considered sufficient for congregations in general.

The Jewish "Succoth," or Feast of Tabernacies, which began at sundown on Wednesday, is in its celebration peculiar and of a character to impress upon the mind the remembrance of the early wanderings of the Jewish people. Services are held each morning and evening in the synagogue but the most peculiar feature of the celebration is the fact that in some parts of the world the people actually dwell in booths after the manner of their ancestors. In this country the celebration is limited by the surroundings amid is limited by the surroundings amid which the Jewish people are placed, but in the countries of Europe and Asia the in the countries of Europe and Asia the celebration is often carried on in elaborate manner. In this country the booths are seldom so elaborate of construction, though even here some of them are arranged in a very elegant manner. The celebration does not require that the booths be occupied during the progress of the entire feast, but simply that the meals of the family simply that the meals of the family be taken there. Often the family will have quite elaborate feasts to which they will invite their friends. Coming, as the celebration does, in the fall, an extensive assortment of fruits and vegetables usually form the principal items of these feasts.

He was chosen to his present position in 1892, and since that time has traveled extensively in the United States, visiting nearly all the conferences of the church, both north and south. He is a genial, scholarly gentleman, approachable, sympathetic, full of his subject, a delightful platform speaker, without startling or sensational methods. He served many of the leading churches in the central part of New York before he was chosen to his present position. He is a man of fine business sagacity and has done much to increase the income of the Church Extension society. The society he represents has been called the pet society of American Methodism."

NEWS OF OUR INDUSTRIES.

Happenings of Interest to the Stapel Trades and Particularly to the Trade in Iron, Steel and Anthracite Coal.

At the annual meeting of the stock-holders of the New York, Ontario and Western Joseph W. Price, vice-presi-dent of the company, who is also vice-president of the Grand Trunk, in an address to the stockholders, said: "The great problem before this company and the other American railways is the question of rates. Unfortunately American railway companies are prevented by law from doing what the railways are allowed to do in Europe. In Great Britain, for instance, all competitive traffic is recoled and divided on tive traffic is pooled and divided on agreed percentages, the rates being under the supervision of the board of trade. This secures stable rates, by which all traders, large and small, are secured against discrimination. If managers of competing lines in this managers of competing lines in this country were allowed by law to make such agreements it would be better for the railroads and better for the traders. inasmuch as the rate that would devel op the traffic is the best for both parties. I venture to say that unless this desirable object can be secured Euro-pean confidence in American railway shares will remain in the present dor mant state. I attended a meeting of the Trunk Line presidents last Friday, and I feel certain that the effort now and I feel certain that the effort now being made to secure better results is the most determined we have seen. I have only to say further that events of recent date, which I need not par-ticularize, have to a large extent de-stroyed European confidence in the published accounts of the American companies, and I would suggest as a subject worthy of the deepest consider-ation of American board of directors that an independent audit of their acation of American board of directors that an independent audit of their accounts should be secured in the same way as it is done in Europe. This might be obtained either through the addition of a bureau to the interstate commerce commission (if it can be treed from politics), or by the employment of independent auditors appointed by the shareholders, which is now done by only two rallway companies in the only two railway companies in the United States—viz., the Ontario and Western and the Denver and Rio Grande."
