THE EPWORTH LEAGUE.

The First Day's Session in the Methodis Church.

Yesterday morning the Wyoming con-ference, Epworth league, went into ses-sion at the First Methodist Episcopal church of this city, on North Franklin street, and there was a big attendance of both delegates and citizens. The following ministers were also in attend-

of both delegates and cilizens. The following ministers were also in attendance at the morning session:

Revs. J. G. Eckman, O. L. Severson, J. C. Leacock, L. E. Van Hoesen, W. H. Hiller, L. C. Floyd, W. G. Simpson, H. C. McDermott, J. B. Sweet, W. Edgar, W. M. Hiller, Joseph Madison, Wilson Treible, J. S. Lewis, W. H. Pearce, D. D., L. C. Murdock, J. R. Boyle, C. H. Newing, H. Rawlinson, E. D. Cavanaugh, C. B. Henry, J. Schofield, H. H. Wilbur, A. C. Olver, T. M. Furey, J. F. Warner, I. J. Smith, Abel Wrigley, J. B. Sumner, A. D. David, H. H. Wilbur, J. L. Race and M. D. Fuller.

Rev. J. B. Sweet, of Ashley, conducted a song service that was heartily enjoyed, after which Rev. L. E. Van Hoesen read a paper on "Denominational Loyalty," in the absence of Rev. C. A. Benjamin. He said, among other things that there is a great necessity for different church denominations, for men do not think alike nor will they act alike. When you have made your choice so fo work, and belleve your act alike. When you have made your choice go to work, and believe your church to be the best and stick to it. The church has no use for the tramp Christian who finds any church good christian who hads any church good enough. Parents are often at fault in allowing their children to attend differ-ent churches and Sunday schools. Thus the fancy of the child becomes restless. We are prone to yield to circumstances of pleasure or prominence and go to other churches while visiting. The first duty is to your own church away from home as well as at home. The great Simpson believed that a sermon he preached to a handful of people on the frontier was good enough to preach to the Ecnumenical conference in London. Denominational loyalty implies faithful attendance in the services of the church as a religious habit. Armor keeps bright by use. Epworth leaguers too often go from their particular meetings home, avoiding the church service.

It is wrong. The league ought to help the church and the preacher by attending the preaching service en masse.

Another excellent paper was read by Miss Wrigley, of Factoryville, on the "Social Obligation of the Epworthian." She held that there should be no line of She held that there should be no line of social difference in the church, and the league in its work should be a perfect social democracy. New members need encouragement, absentees need looking up, and the sick and afflicted should be helped with words and deeds. Help others even if it costs an effort to do so, for religion that costs nothing is worth nothing.

The committee on resolutions as appointed comprised H. H. Wilbur, of Factoryville; Mr. Bristol, of Bingham-ton; A. C. Olver, of Thompson; I. J. Smith, Wyalusing, and Mrs. F. K. Par-sons, of Waverly. The resolutions that they reported commended the Epworth league and urged its advancement; complimented Dr. Banks on his excel-lent address, and extended thanks to lent address, and extended thanks to the Wilkes-Barre members of the league and to President Severson. A general discussion on the subject, "Obligation of the Epworthian to the Preaching Service," followed, and it was participated in by Rev. W. G. Simpson, Paul J. Sherwood, Rev. W. Edgar, of Carbondale, and Rev. L. C. Floyd, of Scranton, Rev. C. L. Sever-son, then gave an interesting talk on son then gave an interesting talk on the Chattanooga convention, and spoke of incidents in the Rebellion, where he served as a soldier under Hooker. Mr. Severson spoke of the sunrise prayer meeting on Lookout Mountain. He said thousands were there, it was a re-union of souls, it was a welding of hearts in song and praise of the Lord Jesus Christ. There was a little incident occurred in that convention which touches on the color line. It never should have been mentioned at the time. It was a mistake. For in that convention there was no color line. True, the convention was divided in sections as it should be. The east was separated from the west as the north was from the south. There was a place set apart for the delegation from Canada, and if there was a place for the colored delegation it was not because of their color. Rev. Mr. Severson is filled with old time recollections, and he tells them in an interesting way. The hymn, "Praise God, from Whom All Blessings Flow," was sung, and Rev. Mr. Chaffe pronounced the bene-

This closed the morning session. The afternoon session was very informal, and there was no set programme of business. The trolley ride, which was scheduled for yesterday afternoon, was postponed on account of the cold weather. Last evening very interesting ad-dresses were made by Harry C. Per-kins, of Binghamton, and J. Q. Creveling, of Plymouth.

The re-dedication of the Bethel Afri-an Methodist Episcopal church on South Fell street, took place yesterday afternoon. At 3 o'clock the bishop and afternoon. At 3 o'clock the bishop and conference clergymen entered the church and when they had passed half way up the alsle were met by Pastor Jeffries and his trustees, who presented the keys of the church to the bishop. The stewards presented a Bible and a copy of the discipline. The bishop then proceeded to the pulpit and with the clergymen conducted a responsive read-ing and the ritual of dedication was read by the bishop. The choir chanted the 122nd psalm

Monday's Awful Tragedy. The funeral of William L. MISS KAISER'S CONCERT.

The Grand Opera House Is Crowded Overflowing with Friends of the Gifted Singer-Her Remarkable Improvement.

The Grand was crowded to overflow-The Grand was crowded to overhow-ing last evening by friends and admir-ers of Wilkes-Barre's gifted soprano singer, Miss Sadie Kaiser, upon the oc-casion of the testimonial concert given in her honor by the Klara Schumann society. Every seat was taken, and so many persons were turned away that there is already a lively demand for a repetition of the concert.

Miss Kaiser selected as her initial number Ambroise Thomas' gladsome aria, "Io Son Titania," which offered ample scope for the display of her voice's flexibility. It required the singing of only a few measures to demonstrate that Miss Kaiser's voice had, during the variety of the concern of t strate that Miss Kaiser's voice had, during its year's training, notably strengthened and broadened. The chest tones were resonant and evenly sustained, while she threaded her way among the difficult runs and trills of the higher passages with perfect confidence and ease. In expression, too. dence and ease. In expression, too, there was noticeable improvement; and evidence of gain was also shown in selfpossession and poise. The verdict of the audience at the number's close was unmistakably cordial, and the enthusi-asm of the recall partook of the na-asm of the recall partook of the nature of an ovation.

The other "show" number on the programme, Bishop's "Lo, Hearthe Gentle Lark," was sung under the better circumstances that follow when once the ice is broken. In it Miss Kaiser gave even more vivid demonstration of the past year's cultivation. The ease with which its intricate warblings were sung was only surpassed by the truesung was only surpassed by the truc-ness of each separate tone and the fine discretion with which the theme was indiscretion with which the theme was the terpreted. When it had been sung the audience became almost riotous in its appreciation, and applauded madly for several minutes. In recognition Miss Kalser sang in tender fashion a dainty ballad, "The Silver Ring," which well folled the brilliancy of the number be-

Part songs by the Schumanns, pleasing solos by Mr. Anwyl and Mr. Burns, two charming violin solos by Miss Tidd, of New York, a player of splendid execution and artistic instinct; and a piano solo by Miss Wolff, also of New York, whose thorough command of the instrument was also shown in several exquisite accompaniments, supple-mented a delightful programme. Mr. Frank Humphreys accompanied Miss Kaiser with a flute obligato during one of her numbers.

Dr. Charles P. Knapp, the state medi-cal inspector, who recently examined the source of supply of the Crystal Spring Water company, has submitted his report to the state board of health, and a copy of the report was yesterday received by Mayor Nichols. A Geological Specimen.

W. P. Ryan, of the Laurel Run Coal company, recently secured a magnifi-cent specimen of a petrified stump, which was taken from the Baltimore vein, about 150 feet below the surface, which he shipped to Cornell university on Monday for the geological depart-ment of that institution. The stump is symmetrical, and was removed from the coal without being cracked or the coal without being cracked or chipped, and Robert G. McDowell, the freight agent of this city, mounted it upon skids, insuring its safe transpor-tation, the Lehigh Valley shipping it to Ithaca free of charge.

Monday night four robbers secured an entrance into the home of Benjamir Hayden, at the upper toll gate on the Hayden, at the upper toll gate on the Roaring Brook turnpike. With the aid of a heavy 2-inch plank they forced the front door open. With a yell they stepped to the bedroom door of Mr. and Mrs. Hayden and one of the men covered Mr. Hayden with a revolver. He immediately sprang from the bed and grappled with the intruder, while the other three clubbed Mr. Hayden on the head with a pick handle, which they head with a pick handle, which they had previously secured from the Eric and Wyoming Valley tool house by forcing an entrance there. In the mean-time Mrs. Hayden was kept in the room at the point of a revolver, until at last she saw Mr. Hayden lying on the floor, and, supposing him dead, leaped from the window about eight feet below and below the house and hid in the brush, where she was rescued some time after by her husband and George Mil-ler. After knocking Mr. Hayden down, the robbers seemed frightened at some-thing and fled. Mr. (Hayden's head is terribly cut and bruised. His wounds were dressed in the morning by Drs.
