LOST A LEG.

A Carpenter Gets Caught on the Ashley Planes.

About 4 o'clock yesterday morning Martin Brace, a carpenter employed by the Jersey Central railroad, and re-siding on Moyallen street, this city. lost a leg on the Ashley planes.

He was riding down the planes, and, falling, was caught by the truck, which crushed his left ler so badly that it had to be amputated. The operation was performed successfully by Dr. James, of Ashley, and Dr. Dodson, of Wilkes-Barge. Brace is 55 years old, but will make a good recovery.

The woman who has been seen around the streets in a short, red skirt, with sombrero hat, red cloak and leather leggings, was before the mayor yesterday, charged with telling fortunes, the charge being preferred by a wo-man who boarded with her. The ac-cused woman said she was a Mexi-can-Spalnard, and her name was Annie E. Molesko, and that she was a palmist, not a fortune teller. She had excellent witnesses as to her good character, but the mayor held her in $300 bail for court, but said she could have forty-eight hours to leave town if she chose. She did choose and left. The mayor says he will break up fortune telling and faking in the city as far

Improvements have been made on prop-erty, industries are being contemplated around us, electric car accommodation have been afforded us, and yet the town is in darkness. Not even a rumor affoat that we will have lights. Travelers hasten to get out of town before nightfall, and on a recent occasion when several prominent men were doing busi-ness among us, which necessitated a few days stay here, they were ob-liged to go to Meosic, a thriving little town, that can boast of many advan-
