Judge R. W. Archibald is at LaPorte. James C. Noll was yesterday admitted to practice in this county.
Mrs. John Brown, of North park, was called suddenly to Wilkes-Barre on account of the illness of her mother, Mrs. Corbett.
Mrs. Charles F. Wagner, wife of Mr. Wagner, of the county commissioner's office, is very dangerously ill of typhoid fever.

SPORTSMAN'S PARADISE.
At Elk Lake, near Montrose, the Pot Hunter is Unknown.
There is one class of local sportsmen who have tired of the gunning and fishing to be found in the woods and resorts within a radius of twelve or fifteen miles of Scranton; they have tired of the territory in this vicinity chiefly because it is largely frequented by "pot-hunters" and "pot-shooters" or, in other words, men who are professional and hunt or fish only for gain. The Tribune can vouch for a region in Susquehanna county in this vicinity of Montrose where the "pot" man is comparatively unknown, but where game and fish abound in all manner of variety.

FIREMEN'S BOOM.
Scranton's Volunteer Association Trying to Increase Its Membership.
The Volunteer Firemen's association held a well attended meeting last evening at their rooms, in Dur's hall. Seven new members were elected.
From present indications it is expected the membership list will number 500 before Jan. 1, 1896. The executive committee will make a tour of all the engine houses beginning next week, and will distribute the souvenir by-laws and certificates of membership to the several members.

SILKS.
In our Silk department we are showing the very nice styles in Fancy Tartan Silks for waists and trimmings. We are also showing for Haskell's Black Silks, which are guaranteed.

DEFENDANT'S CASE OPENED
Commonwealth's Side of Vishniski Murder Case Closed Yesterday.
SWANTAC RECALLED TO STAND
He Corrected Himself Regarding What He Testified to Tuesday—Attorney McGinley Opened for Defendant—Said Killing Was in Self-Defense.

Even greater interest was taken in the Vishniski murder case yesterday than on the day before. The crowds of curiosity seekers blocked both entrances to the court room. There were fewer anxious young men, however, present on Tuesday.
Mrs. Jankowski, the defendant's sister, and her husband were at the defendant's table all day. She had the infant buried in her arms, and the 23-year-old daughter a good deal clinging around her unfortunate uncle, pulling his hair and arousing madmanly sympathy.

The commonwealth closed its case at 2 o'clock. One of the commonwealth's witnesses admitted that Davidzak, the murdered man, was in company with others who were bent on a fight. The lines along which the defense expects to proceed are that the defendant did the killing in self-defense.
Chief of Police Simpson was the first witness called yesterday morning. He went to Buffalo with request papers to fetch Vishniski back. The defendant told him coming here on the train that he had killed Davidzak, and admitted that he killed him. The chief was asked by District Attorney Jones to explain the meaning of the story told by Theodore Swantac Tuesday afternoon.

Chief Contradicted Swantac.
Swantac swore on cross-examination that he told the story as he had been prompted to do by Chief Simpson. The chief denied that he arranged the story for Swantac to tell. The chief admitted that he paid Swantac's fare from Chicago to this city, and lodged him at Jordan's hotel, on Wyoming avenue, Swantac's address was 1214 North 10th street.

Only Asked Him to Tell the Truth.
Theodore Swantac was the last witness of the commonwealth. He was recalled to explain what he meant by the story he told the day before in relation to the killing. He was prompted in his testimony by Chief Simpson. He said he misunderstood the question, and that the chief only told him to tell the whole truth. Mr. McGinley called the court to direct District Attorney Jones to call Alex Jankowski, the defendant's brother-in-law, to the stand for the commonwealth. He was an eye-witness of the killing. Court refused to compel the district attorney to do this.

Attorney McGinley opened for the defense at 2 o'clock. He recalled about thirty witnesses. He proved that Vishniski fired the shot in self-defense, and having proved that to the satisfaction of the jury, he hoped that the verdict would be returned in favor of one that would restore to the defendant his liberty.

County Surveyor A. B. Dunning, Jr., was called to identify the map of the lot on which the murder was committed. He was put on the stand for the purpose of contradicting the evidence of John Barkovitz, one of the witnesses of the commonwealth. Barkovitz swore that he was at very close range to Vishniski and Davidzak when the former fired the shot that ended the latter's life. Dunning swore that Barkovitz told him he was too far away to be able to tell for a certainty who fired the fatal shot, though he thought Vishniski fired it, yet he would not be certain.

Important Witness for Defense.
Julius Drahbant was an important witness for the defense. He was employed as an assistant in a butcher shop on South Washington avenue Feb. 9 last, the date of the murder. J. H. Drahbant swore that he was in the next building to Peter Kziolzak's saloon. John Barkavitz, Felix Davidzak and Theodore Swantac were out on the sidewalk in front of the butcher shop. About 9 o'clock at night, the three men were considerably under the influence of liquor. Davidzak was in the worst condition, and he was cursing and shouting. The witness swore that Davidzak was uttering vile oaths, and threatening to kill some one.

IN THE OTHER COURTS.
Olyphant's Stone-Throwing Case on Trial in Court Room No. 2. Other Cases.
William Owens, of Olyphant, was put on before Judge Savidge in court room No. 2 yesterday afternoon, for murderously assaulting Thomas Murphy with a cobbler's stone, inflicting a wound on the back of the head so serious that for a time Murphy's life was hanging on a mere thread. Attorney Joseph O'Brien represented the commonwealth and At-

TRYING TO SCALP HERRING
Revenue Collector Faces His Accuser, W. J. Burke.
IT WAS A PRIVATE HEARING
Colonel Colquitt, the Government Commissioner, Places a Chinese Wall of Secrecy Around the Proceedings. Names of Witnesses Examined.

Colonel Colquitt, the commissioner sent one from Washington to sift the charges preferred against Collector Grant Herring by his former employe, William J. Burke, began the taking of testimony yesterday.
The hearing was conducted in the marshal's office, in the federal building, and the greatest privacy is being maintained. Nobody is allowed to be present except the collector, the commissioner and the stenographer, John Taylor. Everybody, including the witnesses, were sworn to secrecy, and it was next impossible to get at the proceedings. A Tribune reporter presented himself at the hearing yesterday afternoon but was politely invited to retire.

Herring was questioning the witness when he espied the reporter, and raising his hand, to command silence, notified Colonel Colquitt that there was a reporter present. The august commissioner then requested the reporter to withdraw, stating that the hearing was strictly private. The reporter, it is needless to say, withdrew, and sought other sources for the desired details of the case.

Verdicts of Not Guilty.
Verdicts of not guilty were taken in the cases of the commonwealth against John Cavley, attempt at rape; Kate Reilly, prosecutrix; commonwealth against Dominick Kelly, entering with felonious intent on the premises of a same defendant, carrying concealed weapons; John Cavley, prosecutor, to pay the costs because he did not appear to prosecute.
Louis Martino was acquitted of robbing briquet Rodick. Matthew Coleman was acquitted of wantonly and cruelly abusing Thomas O'Donnell's wife, and the prosecutor was directed to pay the costs.

COMING ATTRACTIONS.
Some of the Plays That Will Be Seen in the Theaters of the City.
At the Academy of Music this evening Stuart Robson will present his new play, "Government Acceptance." His company is one of unusual excellence, having been selected for great credit with a view to the success of the characters in the story. As the scene of the play is laid in Washington, there are many clever facsimiles of life and characters to be noted in that city. The scenic artists have reproduced several historic spots, notably a view of Washington from Arlington Heights, with the sailing sun, turning the waters of the Potomac into a stream of pure gold. The drama truthfully pictures the doling of senatorial committees and there is some plot snare in the course of the political game, who allow themselves to be interested but never influenced. Mr. Robson as Robert Gordon has a character thoroughly in keeping with the political nature, a nature through which runs a stream of comedy and sentiment, blending as harmoniously as the tints of the sunset of the scenic artists.

Miss Adelaide Prince, the beautiful and gifted actress that will support Creston Clarke this season, comes from the Lone Star state and all Texans are proud of her talents as an actress of the profession. She won fame under Augustin Daly's management in London, Paris and New York. The London Telegraph said that her performance of "The Girl of the Year" was the best performance of that part they had ever seen. Her greatest success in New York was in "L'Enfant Prodigue" during the "L'Enfant" impression with the public and critics. At the Academy Friday evening.

Fast at the Frothingham.
On Friday night a new star in the theatrical firmament will appear at the Frothingham, the new play, "Faust," as the play with which to illustrate his talents as an actor worthy a position in the upper ranks of the profession. Mr. Callahan made a wise selection. He has become thoroughly familiar with the requirements of the difficult role of Mephisto through years of study and the experience gained as understudy to Lewis Morrison. Mr. Callahan's conception of the character of the wily demon is in every respect a credit and is never overdrawn or strained for effect.

Rice and Barton's Comedians.
Rice and Barton's clever company of comedians will present their funny farce-comedy, "McDoodle and Poodle," at David's theater on Wednesday, Friday and Saturday of this week. The comedy is very funny, and is filled with catchy music and interesting special effects. It is rated by the various members of the clever company, among whom are Rice and Barton, Miss Frankie Haines, J. K. Mullin, Miss Annie Dunn, Jay Quincey, Charles J. Norton, Whitney Brothers and other comedians. Last season this aggregation gave unbounded satisfaction.

GRADING OF APPROACHES.
City Controller Certifying to the Contracts for the Work.
City Controller Widmar yesterday certified the contract of King & Cleary for grading the approaches to Linden street bridge. The amount of it is $18,000.
Today the city controller will certify the contract of Peter Stipp for grading the approaches to the Hoaring Brook bridge. The amount of it is $12,400. The city controller has found sufficient money for the payment of both of the contracts.

WARD IN CUSTODY.
He Gave Himself Up Yesterday and Is Now in the County Jail.
Charles Wardo, who was one of the Italians concerned in the murderous fight at Jessup, where Michael Demarko was murdered by Pasquale Perretto, and who escaped after shooting Nicholas Demarko, a brother of the murdered man, came to court yesterday afternoon and surrendered himself to County Detective Leyschon.
Wardo was wanted as a witness in the Perretto case, but he could not be found. Wardo said yesterday that Perretto was the stabber of Perretto, after he came downstairs and had the revolver and stiletto in his possession, called Wardo out to the shanty in the rear of the house and asked him if he didn't want to take a hand in the fight, at the same time passing the revolver to Wardo.
Wardo went to Yorkville, N. Y., and worked in a sewer trench. The contract was finished a short time ago; that threw him out of work and he determined to come back to the coal fields. When he called at the house of James Washburn, of Winton, where he boarded before he skipped out, Washburn advised him to surrender to the authorities. County Detective Leyschon had Wardo pretty well rounded up, anyhow, so Wardo was easily persuaded.

TRIPPS FAVORITE HORSE.
Fell Dead the Other Day at the Age of Thirty-Seven.
Pat O'Conner, for years one of the most famous trotters in this vicinity, fell dead in one of the stables on the Tripp estate the other day. It was the favorite horse of the late Colonel Ira Tripp, and since the latter's death has never been driven by any one.
The animal was 37 years of age, and in its prime had a mark of 2:32, which, at that time, was considered quite fast.
