HOLMES NOW HAS COUNSEL

He Gladly Avails Himself of Legal Assistance.

FEARFUL ODDS AGAINST HIM

An Overwhelming Array of Testimony Is Produced—After Battling for Hours, the Prisoner Finally Loses His Nerve—Effect of a Picture.

Philadelphia, Oct. 29.—Fairly enmeshed and with the shadow of the gallows looming darkly over him, Holmes tonight recalled the counsel that he dismissed from his service yesterday morning and gladly availed himself of their aid.

Fact after fact was piled up against him in pitiless array by the commonwealth and never once while he was alone did his iron nerve forsake him. He met each new criminalizing piece of evidence with the best of his untrained ability as a lawyer and combated it valiantly.

Holmes Remarkably Cool. Throughout his long and trying ordeal Holmes never once allowed himself to become angry or excited.
