SCHANK & KOEHLER,

410 Spruce Street. SEMINARY SHUT OUT. It Failed to Score Against the Bicycle Club's Eleven. The Scranton Bicycle club foot ball team journeyed to Kingston yesterday and defeated the crack Wyoming seminary eleven in two twenty-five-minute halves by a score of 12 to 0 in the presence of about 500 spectators, the majority of which were students of the school. It was an ideal foot ball day for the Semington team surprised their many friends and rooters by their manner in which they played. Rymer and Gendall put up a star game for the Semington while the whole Semington team, without exception, played in uniform, and their interference at times was simply superb. Decker played a star game, making the largest gain for Semington, while Walsh played quarter back like a veteran. Semington's line, as usual, was like a stone wall, the Semington backs being unable to gain at any point and often being thrown back for a loss. Rymer Won the Toss At exactly 3:30 the Semington team came trotting out on the gridiron, followed by the Semington eleven. Rymer won the toss and took the east goal. Decker kicked off and Rymer ran the ball back to the center of the field. On the line up, Semington ran around the end for fifteen yards, followed by Rymer around the other end

INDOOR BASE BALL HERE

First Game Was Played on the West Side Last Night. EXCITING, LAUGHABLE SPORT South Side Team Won by a Score of 6-3. Nine Innings Occupied About an Hour—Description of the New Sport.

The first game of indoor base ball in Scranton was played last night in St. David's hall on the West Side between a club representing that section of the city and the South Side club. The latter was a new sport, and the game was really an experiment and for that reason had not been advertised, but the result was such that the players had but little opportunity for practice. The possibilities of the game will be appreciated when last night's small score is considered and the fact that the players had but little opportunity for practice. Differs from the Outdoor Game. The sport is radically different from the outdoor game, although the rules are twenty-seven feet apart, yet it is rarely that the large, soft ball is batted outside the diamond. Last night's contest differs in many respects from the outdoor game. The players were so enthused that games are bound to be played at frequent intervals, whether the bases are numerous or not. However, the history of the game will reverse itself if in Scranton it fails to make a hit. Although last night's contest was highly successful, the cramped space available in St. David's hall detracted somewhat from the interest of the sport and it is quite probable that future games on the West Side will be played in Turner hall. St. John's hall on the South Side, the Thirtieth regiment armory in the central city and Court house armory in the North End will contain the games in those sections. The following description of indoor base ball will be read with interest in view of the prospects of its popularity in Scranton: The game was invented in Chicago in 1887, and came about through a frolic among the members of the Farragut club, who, in a spirit of fun on Thanksgiving Day of that year, threw around the hall an ordinary boxing glove, which was struck at by the players with a broom. With the players in position they commenced their sport without rule or wisdom, but there was great fun, and so the sport has evolved. It is Popular and Exciting. The regulations and rules are made to equalize the difference of size and surroundings from outdoor base ball, and have been found to work satisfactorily in making the game which is both popular and exciting. At first the sport was confined to a few of the social clubs of Chicago, which had organized a league, but during the past few years great strides have been made toward having the game spread all over the United States. Many of the Chicago clubs made trips to cities in the west and played indoor ball before large crowds of spectators, who had become initiated in the sport, and consequently extremely interested. For it is said of indoor ball that it is the most exciting sport which the winter months give for, the space allotted for play usually being somewhat confined, the spectators and players are at no great distance from each other, and the rapid action is of a very exciting nature. A different style of play is noticeable in the successful indoor player from that adopted outdoors. In sliding to bases there is perfect abandon, and in sliding well around the bag the arm is thrust out in passing, and the base held. In batting, the ball can be batted with the floor decides its fairness, this feature is one practiced by many of the best players. The short stops usually play close to the batter—about ten feet, one on either side of the pitcher, for in the indoor game the right fielder comes into the diamond and takes the position known as "right short."

Plunged Through the Line. Rymer kicked off and Cognins was downed without a gain. Connery, Zang and Gelbert plunged through the line for large gains. Decker carried the ball to Semington's fifteen-yard line. Tymer fumbled and Connery grabbed the ball and started down the field like a flash. With a clear field, it looked like a touchdown, but Gendall downed him on Semington's ten-yard line, after an eighty-yard run. Posner dived through the end and tackle for five yards and Connery was pushed over the line for the first touchdown. Decker kicked the goal. Plunged Through the Line. COMING ATTRACTIONS.

Some of the Plays That Are Billied to Appear in City Theaters. The Allentown Chronicle has this to say of "Shore Acres" in the city Tuesday night: "Shore Acres" had its second presentation in this city last night in the Auditorium. It is a large audience. The beauty, naturalness and simplicity of this play grow upon an audience as they themselves and the history is revealed. The play is like a whiff of fresh air after one has inhaled the stultifying atmosphere of the swamp. It is pure, it is perfect. It is a simple story of simple folk, a revelation of the joys and sorrows of the life and ambitions of a household in Maine. All the accessories fit into the story. The characters are well drawn, the dialogue is nothing is exaggerated. The company is the same as regards the principals, with the one exception that the new addition is last season, James Lackey's "Marlin Berry" is to-day one of the most exciting parts of the play, and the portrayal of the ambitious, sordid, passionate and at last remorseful farmer is as clear cut as a cameo. It is the work of an artist. The same can be said of the personation of that lovable, patient, sturdy character, "Nathaniel Berry" by Archie Boydell. J. J. Connelly was again the lank, amusing Joel Gates, the grass widow, whose work was only second to that of the first named character. "Shore Acres" will be seen at the Academy of Music to-night and to-morrow night. O'Neill Friday and Saturday Night. James O'Neill's name is almost a household word throughout the whole land. His popularity is not confined to the city, it may be truthfully said of him that he has always been loyal to his trust as an artist, as he has only allowed himself to be associated with the best, purest and noblest in art. His long association with the Milton Aborn Opera company is a fact that is well known to every one in the American stage. This season he has included tragedy in his repertoire and during his forthcoming engagement at the Frothingham on Friday and Saturday he will be seen as "Virgilius" Friday night, while "Monte Cristo" will be presented on Saturday evening. Mr. O'Neill's first performance of Virgilius was given last season in San Francisco and it was a triumph of unadorned strength from every art-loving and conscientious critic. A Black Sheep at the Academy. When the theatre-going public see an announcement that the company is booked to appear here, they not only prepare themselves for the event, but can rely upon a night and to-morrow night on the road. Next Saturday evening at the Academy his latest and greatest success, "A Black Sheep," will be presented for the first time in this city, with the same cast and elaborate scenery which characterized the run of fourteen weeks in Chicago, and twelve weeks in Boston. Reeves' Company at Davis'. For the last three days of this week Al Reeves and his company holds the boards at Davis' theater. In this organization are a number of great novelties, including Nathan, the amiable wonder, Agnes Cherot, only lady hypnotist; Al Reeves, the band leader; the Hattis, musical experts; and many other interesting features. This company plays the best houses in the country, and has a national reputation for excellence.

Palmer Cox's Brownies.

On next Monday and Tuesday evenings and Tuesday afternoon, C. B. Jefferson, Kiaw and Krueger's company in the play of Palmer Cox's Brownies will be at the Frothingham. Since seen here last spring, the Brownies have been very popular, improved, while all of the best features of last year's piece have been retained. Such grand success as this is very rare, a terribly realistic earthquake and volcano, and the instant destruction of a magnificent palace are presented in a way that has been hitherto unattempted. The very height of stage-art has been reached in the grand climax of the final transformation, "A Night in Brownland," showing in marvelous white the unfolding into glorious life of the moon-flower and the sun, the most wonderful of such magnificence that words fail to describe it. Over 100 of the highest-arted artists are necessary for the gorgeous production. The world-famous Brownies are surrounded by beautiful women. Among the prominent features are the aerial ballet, danced in mid-air to the most superb electric effects, and the Oriental ballet, both of which created a furore. Milton Aborn Opera Co. The success attending the engagement of the Milton Aborn Opera company is well remembered by Scranton theatergoers, and the Academy of Music will undoubtedly be packed at every performance. Mr. Aborn made many friends when he appeared here last season, and will undoubtedly add many more to his list. Monday "Said Pasha" will be presented, Milton Aborn appearing as Haidad, one of the best characters he has ever played. His performance in last season's favorites will be in the cast, and will be seen to advantage in each other presentation. Seats on sale Friday morning for entire engagement.
