The scaling capacity of magnificient Eim Park church was taxed to its ui-most last night by an audience that heard the pastor, dev. W. H. Pearce, preach on "Christ's View of LMe." The sermon was an appeal for correct liv-ing and was from Romans, xv, 5: "Ac-cording to Jesus Christ." Dr. Pearce cald: November Monsey, November Century Now for November. See them ! sald:

> There neither was nor is anything with-There neither was nor is anything when out a divine purpose. The celestial mark, the divine hand and an intelligent pur-pose are stamped everywhere. So man is of infinite design; he is one of God's grand-est and noblest works, yet is capable of great wretchedness in the face of being designed for a good and beneficent pur-pose.

great wretchedness in the face of oblink designed for a good and beneficent pur-pose. How did Christ view life? He viewed it as he taught li-that the abundance of temporality is not the best ambituon, that it is not a good ambituon. Christ was of-fered by Satan on the mount a world of empires and sceptres, but rather than bar-ter his soul for temporal abundance, he said he preferred going back into the wilderness and the sufferings that come of privation. So, by a grand example, we are shown that wealth, power and pleas-ure are not the end. Not a word should be uttered to dis-courage anyone in a legitimate worldig desire to reach wealth and position if the desire is not for self aggrandizement. He clean and manly to the very sockets of your soul and your search for worldig succeas will end nobly. In literature, in law, in medicine there is nothing which makes coveleousness a wrong if the de-sire is rightly bent. Gird yourself and win the most beguifful way in your pro-feasion or calling; there exists no sym-pathy for a groweller. In your success you will need lots of energy and a certain amount of rightsons combativeness, but above all is the fear of God; without it any succeass will be an empty shell. We protest against any accomplishment that is the end of life Should lie Subordinate to Itself.

An Image All May Worship

An Image All May Worship. The worship of God? Do we all realize what this means? Do we all know what it is to worship God in spirit and in truth? We criticise others, but how is it with our-relives? Do we see God's image in the per-solution of the set of Jesus Christ? Our Savior, Jesus Christ, is the express image of God's person, and this is an Image we all ought to worship. We can never wor-whip Christ too frequently nor too de-put to worship. We can never wor-whip Christ too frequently nor too de-tion the homage of our hearts, and has mere is a rich promise and a rich ra-word attached to this commandment. surance, promising to make good the difference if coal could be bought on Oct. Is cheaper than at that time. This particular railroad is now calling down benedictions on the head of the san-guine coal agent. They have coal to burn while their competitors cannot begin to get their orders filled. The Delaware, Lackawanna and Western is getting by far the best of the boom, as the Delaware and Hudson is doubly handicapped; first, by the drying up of their canal, and secondly by the scarcity of cars. Even though the boats were able to run the company would still be handicapped, as they are pursuing the fair policy of giving all their widely scattered customers a share of their output instead of selfish-ly selling to the handlest market. In addition to this their connecting roads are making use of the Delaware and Hudson cars, willingly paying the rent and per diem penalty, while the Delaware and Hudson road is so situ-ated that they do not get a chance to borrow, or, more emphatically speak-ing steal other companies' cars. It is not to be understood that the Dela-ware and Hudson docs not own a suffi-cient number of cars to do their busi-ness, for this is by no means true. The sorrow publicly expressed by the different organizations of which he had become an active memeber. That he was able to so indelibly stamp his character upon a community in which his stay was of such short duration shows well the manner of man he was and makes our grief even more poignant as we realize more fully our loss. Scranton may well be proud of the young representative she sent out to win his way in the battle of life, and she must needs mourn deeply the loss of one who, had he been spared, would undoubtedly have laid many laurels at her feet. One of our leading citizens, speaking yester-day of his career, said: "Measuring life by successes, rather than years, the life of Edwin Whittemore was well rounded out." The bereaved family have the sym-pathy of all, but the loss is not theirs alone; his friends were legion, and the hurden of this sorrow rests upon many. His life should he an inspiration to every young man, a life worthy of emulation.

tary tactics. He was a men of fine presence and spent money freely. He declared that he was the heir to the throne of Hawaii, and in other ways deluded people into the bellef that he was a person of some import-ance. The baroness was deeply im-pressed by the man and his storles, and soon they became betrothed. The bar-oness obtained the consent of her fam-ily to the betrothal, and the wedding what followed in due course was a great society affair. Many magnificient presents were received, including one that was ostensibly sent by the king of the Hawaii accompanied by his wife. Upon their arrival there the baroness was greatly surprised and shocked to learn that her husband in-stead of being the heir to the throne, was simply one of the many half-breeds of the islands. Be discovered that he was the son of a white man, a carpenter, by a Kanaka woman. When Wilcox found that his dupilcity had been discovered he feared that his wife would leave and denounce him. He therefore kept her under lock and key and ill treated her in other ways. At the beginning of 1895 Wilcox tried to foment a revolution against the re-public, was arrested, tried by court The reverend speaker said that some very excellent people have greatly mis-understood the spirit of this commandunderstood the spirit of this command-ment. Continuing, the speaker said: It is both philosophically and historical-by true that the use of images in worship has a tendency to dethrome God and to degrade man. Hence the reason for this commandment of the decalogue is not at all arbitrary; on the contrary, God gave this part of His moral isw in order that the purity as well as the spirituality of His worship may be preserved. The form of divine worship, as well as its object, is of great importance. We ought to make note of this, for. in these days and in this iand, religious worship has assumed many forms.
