Arrangements were made for perfect-ing a guarantee to be presente to the national committee covering all ex-penses regardless of amount,

BICYCLE CRANK'S TRIBUTE

For the Scranton Tribune. God bless that man of genius, Got biess that man of genius, of brain and skill so grand, sublime, Who but two wheels had in his head Yet managed these to so combin As to produce a vehicle The like of which had ne'er been seen-'Twas this he called a Bicycle-No other name so fit would seem,

O. matchless, graceful, lovely steed, That never calls for food or drink, Nor tires in its headlong speed But lives and feeds on nought but wind Of all the things on legs or wheels That traverse earth or heavenly space, None can compare with this vehicle-his airy, fairy Bicycle.

That man a benefactor grand, That man a beneficator grand, To all the counters human race, Among the blest he'll surely stand The envide of all future days. No crown he needs, no chaplet rare To grace his brow, allve or dead Counties thousands bless the man Who had these two wheels in his head.

For hours, for miles, you speed along For nours, for miles, you speed along, (Tis romance rare combined with song, No bird on wing so blithe, so gay As you, when mounted, speed away, Forgotten now is care and sorrow, No thought of what may be to-morrow. To present happiness you cling And bid your soul for joy to sing.

Yes, bless the man of fertile mind Who brought this boon to human kind. The man with two wheels in his head We'll sing his praises—live or dead. He gives us hours all free from care, Of joy and happiness so rare, or joy and happlaces so rare, 'Tis heaven on earth, 'lis peace and blue, We'll blues the man who's done all this, likes-Barry, Nov. 2, 1995

Startled the Congregation.

Bishop Nicholson startled his hearers during his sermon in Grace Reformed Episcopal church wednesday when he intimated that the end of the world might be only two years hence. In discussing the coming of Christ, Bishop Nicholson said it would no doubt be in some flery way, but the destruction of the universe would not occur, merely a portion of it. "In 1886," he said, "one of the stars in the northern crown burned for two days with immense heat. Proctor, a famous astronomer, says that In 1897 the sun will burn up or explode. We know not that this is true, but I for one will welcome We know not that the increased heat with a hallelujah and 'Even so ecme, Lord Jesus,' " The statement has caused much comment in the church and many are inclined to believe that the end of the world is coming in 1897. Mrs. Soo Hoo Doo a Christian.

Mrs. Soo Hoo Doo, the wife of the Chinese merchant whose store is on Spruce street, near the Commonwealth building, was confirmed in Grace Reformed Episcopal church Wednesday night by Bishop Nicholson. The ques-tions of the Bishop and the ritual and the replies of the woman were inter-preted by her husband. Thus to Scranton possibly belongs the honor of containing a Chinese woman who is a Christian.

There may be other women of that nationality in this state, but it is doubtful if any of them are members of a Christian church. Besides Mrs. Soo Hoo Doo there were fourteen in the confirmation class, and eleven were received by letter into the church.

Minor News Notes. Rev. H. H. Harris, of the Calvary Basilist church, of Taylor, will preach tomorrow evening at the Jackson Street Baptist church.

Of the several preachers who have been heard from the pulpit of the Scranton Sreet Baptist church, Rev. Mr. Matthews, of Croatland, N. Y., who was heard last Sunday, seems to have created the most favorable impression.
