VENEZUELANS WILL FICHT England's Ultimatum Has Not Yet

Been Received.

BUT WAR TALK CONTINUES

The Newspapers Encourage a Spirit of War and Show a Disposition to Make Faces at Great Britain-Estimated Cost of a War.

Washington, Nov. 10.—The long delay in the receipt by Venezuela of Great Britain's "ultimatum" leads to the belief here that Lord Salisbury has had some difficulty in securing its delivery. The British government has no minister at Caracas, owing to the ill-feeling between the two countries growing out of the boundary dispute. For several years, therefore, diplomatic intercourse has been conducted through the German government, which is now represented at Caracas by a charge d'affaires. London dispatches, a fortnight ago, said that Lord Salisbury's "ultimatum" had been sent to Berlin to be forwarded from there. It is now suggested that the German government, owing to its friendship for Venezuela, may have declined to become the bearer of an aggressive note such as the may have declined to become the cear-er of an aggressive note such as the British premier is presumed to have written, and that the latter is still looking for a suitable medium of com-

The Venezuelan newspapers devote much space to a consideration of Lard Salisbury's reported ultimatum, of the Salisbury's reported ultimatum, of the details of which they are still ignorant. The tone of their editorials is firm but conservative. Digrio de Caracas contains an article relative to the boundary question which is significant, inasmuch as the paper is the semi-official organ of the administration. Referring

His letter closes with these stirring words of encouragement:

They show that the Venezuelans, when They show that the Venezuelans, when under Spanish rule, proved themselves to be a brave and warlike people, and that now, in the full enjoyment of freedom, their capacity for resisting aggression has been increased. They point proudly to the fact that 100,000 soldlers could be at once placed in the field, and assert that if the great navies of England could not subdue them 150 years ago, the chances of their success are even less promising to-day, It is also suggested that a force of 1.600 men be sent at once to the disputed territory. The paper which advocates this prints a table showing that the cost of uniforming, provisioning, and paying these troops would not exceed $200,000 a year.

POISONED AT WEDDING.

POISONED AT WEDDING.

In Both Cases the Mischief Was Caused by Pressed Chicken.

Ottawa, Ill., Nov. 10.—About forty persons were poisoned at a wedding in Grand Ridge on Thursday night, and only the prompt action of the village physician saved from death those seriously affected. It was the wedding of John T. Caldwell, the mayor of Cherryville, Kan., and Miss Alcetta Malacy, of Grand Ridge, at which the poisoning occurred. Soon after eating the supper the guests became ill, and great excitement prevailed. It is thought that the poison, through some chemical action, was formed in the pressed chicken which had been prepared several days in advance of the wedding. Many of those afflicted are still ill, including the bride and bridegroom. Clark Moss is in a dangerous condition.

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 9.—The state board of health has officially indorsed the report of State Bacterlologist Bay relative to the poisoning of 100 persons at a wedding supper in Sabula, Ia., which resulted in the death of seven people. Mr. Bay reported that the deaths and sickness were caused by poison contained in pressed chicken.

THE SULTAN'S CABINET. Specimens of Rescality That Surround

Constantinople, Nov. 10.—The recent change in the ministry here has not been conductive of any better feeling in political and diplomatic circles. In fact, the new ministers, generally speaking, are looked upon askance, as their reputations give no promise of any better government than that hitherto ruling. In fact the members of the new cabinet are nothing more than puppets of the Sultan, and whatever he wills will be, without any questioning law to them. Halil Rifat Pasha, the new grand viziar, was formerly minster of the interior, and it is openly charged while occupying that position he fostered the massacre of Christians. downright scoundrel.

There is the strongest feeling here against the Sultan, due, among many other things, to his choice of ministers. It was thought that possibly an attempt might be made on the life of his majesty as he went from the palace to the mosque to offer his prayers and the guard who kept the route was greatly strengthened.

guard who kept the route was greatly strengthened.

There is no doubt that the empire is passing through one of the most critical periods that has threatened it for years. The heir to the throne has no better policy than the suitan, so no advantage would be gained by deposing the latter in favor of the former.

Advices from the interior show that great destitution is prevailing and that the suffering from this cause surpasses that arising from the massacre. A very large number of persons are homeless and without food and there is no doubt that the suffering will increase during the winter. In several districts a familie is indicated.

Wazhington, Nov. 10.—Secretary Olney has received an intimation of the willingness of France to release John L. Washington, Nov. 10.—The interior department was advised by Hersey Monroe, of the United State Geological survey, now in the field, that he and his party were attacked and beaten with clubs and stones by a crowd of men on Campbell Creek, near Monmouth, W. of Postmasters for the Year.

Washington. Nov. 10.—First Assistant Postmaster General Jones has submitted his report. It calls attention to a saving in his branch of the service during the past year of $1,395,577. Mr. Jones recommends an appropriation of $17,000,000 to cover compensation of postmasters for the next fiscal year and $10,500,000 for clerk hire at first and second-class postoffices. He recommends the order recently promulgated by the president providing for the consolidation of fourth-class postoffices that are now excepted from civil service examination and says the only positions at first-class postoffices that are now excepted are assistant postmaster, private secretary and stenographer, cashier, and assistant cashier; at second-class offices, assistant postmaster, under whatever legal designation known.

Mr. Jones does not favor maintaining experimental free delivery service in towns and villages, but states that if the people still demand it he assumes congress will pass the necessary appropriation to establish the service.

GOOD SHOWING MADE.

Notwithstanding Certain Drawbacks.

Philadelphia, Nov. 16.—Pennsylvania foot ballers today were disposed to look upon the prospect of their eleven in a mre encuraging light than they had been previus to the game with State College yesterday. The men themselves were much encouraged by the showing made. The interference and team play was improved, as was also their defense, in spite of the fact that State scored much stronger. Captain Williams, Minds and Guard Woodruff gave unmistakable evidences that they are badly in need of rest, and they were sent to Atlantic City today for a few days to regain their health and strength. Haif Back Gelbert and Guard Wharton are still in poor shape, but it is expected that a few days' rest will see them fit again.

in the minds of the coachers as to the team's chances of victory over Harvard. That Harvard will present a much stronger article of foot ball against them than they presented against Princeton is pretty certain and Pennsylvania will need to play a much better game than did the Tigers. Harvard freshmen will probably defeat the Pennsylvania freshmen easily in their game next Saturday, as the local team is a very weak one.

YALE TO BE STRENGTHENED. The Concher Feels That the Team Ilas

Loafed Long Enough.

New Haven. Conn., Nov. 10.—The coachers of the Yale eleven held a consultation today and discussed means to strengthen the eleven. It is no secret to Yale that the team went to Brown yesterday to roll up a big score against the Providence boys, and the fact that their best efforts were ineffectual in doing better than score a single touchdown, while Brown was doing the same, has left the coachers in supreme disgust. The practice this week will be terrific. The coachers feel that the team has loafed long enough, and some hard work will be done.

The Princeton game is ten days distant and some radical reforms will be introduced into the development of the eleven. Hartwell and Hinkey have been selected as the virtual head coachers of the team from now until the end of the season, but will be assisted by a half dozen more who will arrive soon.

Lewis Jefferson, a Colored Desperado, Is Lynched by a Mob.

Homerville, Ga., Nov. 10.—Lewis Jefferson, the negro who last Tuesday night attempted a criminal assault on little Miss Wilson Frobel, after having been pursued by a determined posse, was captured and placed in jail. He made a full and complete confession as to his being the right man, and what his purpose was, and that he had committed more than one similar offense before, stating that this was not the first time he had run off and left little white girls screaming.

While he was being taken yesterday before the magistrate at Argyl for a committal trial, the officer, in going through a thicket, near town, was suddenly attacked from behind by parties unknown; was overpowered and the culprit taken off, hung up by the neck and riddled with bullets. The building will comprise a free library, reading rooms, music halls, symnasium, club rooms and swimming pool.

LIFE SAVED BY A KISS. Result of a Married Man's Flirtation with a Farmer's Daughter.

Topeka, Nov. 10.—It is not often that so small a thing as a kiss saves a human life, but if E. L. Baker, the baggageman on the recently wrecked Missouri Pacific train, near Neaton, had remained in his seat a moment longer his life would have been crushed out of him in that accident. A few hundred yards from where the wreck occurred lives a well-to-do-farmer. Several months ago his daughter stood in the kitchen doorway one day as the train kitchen doorway one day as the train went past the farmstead. Baker stood in the open doorway of his car, and, seeing the girl, carclessly waved his hand to her. She slightly returned the signal, and from that incident sprang up a "passing flirtation," as the train men call it.

On the day of the accident to his train Baker was sitting in his chair, and when the engineman whistled for the crossing near the farmhouse, Baker culckly arose to give his accustomed. quickly arose to give his accustomed salutation, which had grown into throwing a kiss to the girl. Just as his part of the greeting was performed, and before she had time to return it, the crash came, and Baker's car was a mass of rules in an instant. Wite mass of ruins in an instant. His stading in the strong door frame saved his life. As it was, he was pinned un-der a mass of rubbish, but got off with a few bruises and slight scratches. Pas-sengers succeeded in extricating him among the first, and when he was reamong the first, and when he was released and stood upon his feet the first greeting was from the farm lassle, who begged to know if he was hurt.
He assured her that he was not, and with a smile she blushingly ran back to the house. Then Eaker realized a new danger. An innocent "passing flirtation" was of consequence, but here was a pretty, bright young person suddenly becoming deeply interested in his welfare, and to satisfy a little wife with two children at his McPherson home that it was all right, was the anxious that it was all right, was the anxious problem in his mind. The girl and her father were around the wreck during the time they remained there, but Bak-er found himself too busily occupied with other matters to give her more with other matters to give her more than a passing notice.

When Baker arrived at home he told his wife all about it, and Conductor Patterson assured her of the manner in which her husband's life had been saved, when the wife frankly said that her husband could flirt with every farm lassic along the entire run if it would only save his life. All the facts have been carried to the girl, and between her and Mrs. Baker there has sprung up a friendship stronger and more enduring than usually results from a "passing flirtation."

THE BITUMINOUS COMBINE.

Soft Coal Operators Have Banded Together for Mutual Benefit-To Regulate Coast Prices.

Philadelphia, Nov. 10.—Negotiations are said to have been nearly completed by which practically all the soft coal operators of Central and Western Pennsylvania and the Cumberiand region interested in the tidewater trade have formed a combination for the allotment of tonnage, much like that which is supposed to prevail in the anthracite trade. This important deal which is understood to include the railroads as individual operators, has been attempted several times before, but could never be carried to a successful conclusion owing to the many conflicting interests involved. Recently, however, threats of strikes and the demora tion of prices have co-operated to bring the bituminous people together and the new combination, or pool, is the result new combination, or pool, is the result of numerous conferences. The parties to the deal are said to include the Pennsylvania, Baltimore and Ohfo, Beach Creek, Huntingdon and Broad Top, West Virginia Central, Maryland and West Virginia. The Norfolk and Western Chesapeake and Ohio railroads are said not to be included in the deal.

The operators interested in the movement include practically all, both large and small, whose mines lie in the country tributary to the railroads named, and whose products comes to tide. In

This does not mean that the offices of the individual operators are to be abolished, but that a strict watch is to be kept to see that the percentages allotted are closely adhered to. The effect of the deal will be, it is expected, that the output can be better regulated acording to the demands of the market than has been possible hitherto. market than has been possible hitherto, and that prices can be better main-tained than under the present fierce competition for trade.

Berlin, Nov. 16.—The declarations of Lord Salisbury in the speech upon the occasion of the banquet of the Lord Mayor of London last night and the official statement made by M. Berhelot, the French minister of foreign affairs, in Paris, sum up everything of an om-cial character that is known here in rein Paris, sum up everything of an omcial character that is known here in regard to the Eastern situation. The reticence of our foreign office remains nearly absolute and no information concerning the slightest idea of the general position is permitted to leak out.
Since Austria under the approval of Germany entered the European concert the semi-official press says the situation has cleared up very materially.
The Sultan knows Austria's power and disposition to take immediate action and dreads that more than any other in consequence, these papers assert, may be demanded of the Porte. Although Germany has joined the European league, she certainly has not committed herself to any project contemplating a European protectorate over Turkey, the occupation of Armenia by Russia, or any other scheme which would involve any interference at the present time with the powers of the Sultan within his own domains and the North German Gazette declares that the meantime will be in no wise endangered.

The correspondent of the Tageblatt in dangered.

The correspondent of the Tageblatt in Constantinople telegraphs to his paper that he is in a position to affirm that no warlike complications are likely to arise from the Armenian trouble and behind this soothing semi-official assertion remains a combination of unexplained facts suggesting that it is the intention of Germany to play the rear explained facts suggesting that it is the intention of Germany to play the part of the honest harbon in the matter. The principal one of these facts is the action of Count Goluchowsky, the Austrian secretary of state for foreign affairs, in first making overtures to Lord Salisbury calling attention to the fact that it would greatly strengthen the position of England if the triple alliance should be taken into the alliance of powers on the Turkish question unof powers on the Turkish question un-der conditions that Austria would in-stitute operations if required to protect the Macedonian population, Austria's geographical positon enabling her to do so at a moment's notice,

England's Position.

England's Position.

The assent of the English premier to this virtual proposal was obtained under Lord Salisbury's conviction that England would require a strong backing against the coalition of Russia and France when the time should arrive for the partitioning of Turkey. In view of all this while peace reigns for the rement under cautions ministerial utterances, nobody helieves that the Turk. terances, nobody believes that the Turk will be able to weather the crisis which confronts him very much longer. It is thought that paramount interest in the present position to the highest official circle here lies in the hope that the policy now being pursued will force England into the Dreibund. England has always been ready to seize advantages from the Central European coalition without committing herself to anything, but the time has come when she is confronted with the altered when she is confronted with the alter-native of choice between fatal isola-tion and a definite union with the con-tion and a definite union with the continental powers.

A semi-official paper in Hamburg, the Correspondenz, asks what practical meaning lies in the declaration of the English government that England will maintain her policy. What policy? The triple alliance, the paper continues, has not wanted nor does it want war, and Russia and France would not go very far merely to help Armenia. The situation in Eastern Asia has also to be considered, and in view of that situation England ought least of all to be disposed to drift into war. Her uitimate fate, therefore, must be to choose allies.
