DID THE BANK OF ENGLAND

Bidwell, McDonald and Noyes Now in This City.

WERE TWENTY YEARS IN JAIL

They Sold the Bank of England a Gold Brick for $5,000,000—They Say That Success in Wrong Doing Is Failure.

George McDonald, Austin Bidwell and Edwin Noyes of Haverhill, Conn., who went to England in 1873 and sold a gold brick to the Bank of England for $5,000,000, arrived in town yesterday on business. Our reporter interviewed them in the Wyoming. All three are splendid specimens of hearty manhood, who after serving twenty years in an English dungeon, have returned to the States, and are entering their underworn No. 10, to see them, would suspect that their lives had been passed in other than congenial surroundings. When asked if they had had all they wanted, Mr. Bidwell promptly said:

"Yes, more than I wanted, but not much more than we asked for and deserved."

They all came of good Puritan ancestry, and one naturally marvels how men of refinement and good ancestry would deliberately enter upon a scheme that if discovered would invite such serious consequences. Mr. McDonald is somewhat reserved and taciturn, and when our reporter asked him he was referred to his partner.

Austin spoke freely upon the matter, and very much like a philosopher as well. In effect, he said, "I had no idea that the gold brick was an erect, sturdy and as full of healthy growth as ever. Fancourt, the Wilkes-Barre florist, who has exhibited and competed in the same show in other cities, said he had never experienced better atmospheric conditions or temperature regulations. These precautions and the force of the plants from midnight until 9 o'clock in the morning explain the continued splendor of the show."

He won seven prizes.

Fancourt won seven prizes, $13, for bridesmaid, cousin, meteor and Mrs. Pierpont Morgan roses; mixed carnations and new carnations and a new chrysanthemum. Among his display was grouped a continuous and delicate throng which seemed to nestle favorably comment on, particularly, the bridesmaid roses and the carnations of the same name, and the three new chrysanthemums, the Lullula, the Mrs. W. A. Bryant and the Mary Hallstead, named for the daughter of George W. Hallstead, of this city.

Rev. G. T. Price, W. C. Clark, gardener to Colonel H. M. Boies, and John Watson, an old-time florist.

During the evening there were vocal selections by the Green Ridge Wheelmen's Quartette and a song by Hector H. James, baritone. Mr. James' selection, "Armstrong's Song," from the opera of "Robin Hood," by De Koven. Although suffering from a cold, Mr. James sang with great intelligence and spirit, and his intonation of the anvil with splendid effect. His lower tones are rich and deep to an extraordinary degree and he has a certain smoothness in the middle register unusual in so big a voice.

Some of Those Who Attended.

Among the spectators were noticed, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Parke, Miss Parke, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Sturges, Dr. and Mrs. W. E. Sturges, Mr. and Mrs. R. Sturges, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Sturges, Mr. M. J. Corbett, Mrs. Charles Connel, Mr. and Mrs. George Finn, Dr. and Mrs. G. E. Hill, Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Hill, Mrs. Robert H. Roberts, Mr. W. Allen, Miss Allen, Rev. and Mrs. G. T. Price, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. McDonald, the Misses Rice, Dr. and Mrs. H. H. Rice, Dr. and Mrs. C. T. Rice, H. C. Wallace, Dr. A. J. Connel, Miss Caro Dickson, Miss Emma Fuller, Mrs. Alex. Dunn, Jr., Rev. N. F. Stahl, Mrs. and Mrs. F. P. Christian, the Misses George Storch, Miss Silkman, Judge and Mrs. R. W. Archbold, Dr. Charles C. Lauch, James G. McClure, Harry W. Rowley, Mrs. Wm. W. Rowley, Mrs. Louis Healer, Miss Stevens, the Misses Kessel, Richard J. Beamish, Richard O'Connell, Mrs. L. C. Floyd, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Fulton, Mr. and Mrs. Will Finch, Mrs. Ambrose Spencer, Miss Spencer, the Misses Richmond.

Special Features Tonight.

Tonight the special features will be a series of readings by Miss Adela Breakstone. Miss Breakstone's work was so thoroughly delightful on last Thursday evening that, at a very general request, she was secured for tonight. She will be assisted by the Green Ridge Wheelmen's quartette and Hector James. Bauer's orchestra will furnish the instrumental music this afternoon, and the Lawrence orchestra this evening.

IT WILL CLOSE TONIGHT.

Some of Those Who Attended the Chrysanthemum Show Last Night.

To-night the chrysanthemum show in the Frothingham theater will end, and possibly on this account came the larger crowd to the show last night; it was the largest throng in the theater during any corresponding period since the exhibit was opened and contained many of the city's best known social, business and professional leaders.

The exclamations of delight by persons entering from the lobby were as hearty and expressive as at the beginning of the display, which showed that the exquisite blooms are an erect, sturdy and as full of healthy growth as ever. Fancourt, the Wilkes-Barre florist, who has exhibited and competed in the same show in other cities, said he had never experienced better atmospheric conditions or temperature regulations. These precautions and the force of the plants from midnight until 9 o'clock in the morning explain the continued splendor of the show.

THEY ATTENDED THE FAIR.

Members of Divisions 3 and 17 Went to Music Hall in a Body.

Members of Divisions 3 and 17, Ancient Order of Hibernians of America, met at the latter's rooms, on Lackawanna avenue, last evening, and preceded by Washington Drum corps of the Patriotic Order Sons of America, marched to Music hall to the fair of the Ancient Order of Hibernians.

There they mingled with the throng and took chances on the articles that were being chance off.

The men of the Ancient Order turned out in large numbers and did much to help along the fair. Musical selections on the piano were rendered by Miss Kate Saltry, in excellent manner, and William Gallagher sang Irish songs, solos. Speechmaking was eliminated from the programme.

Serious consequences were narrowly averted at 7 o'clock yesterday morning in the building of the steam pipe connecting the Clark company breaker with the company store on North Main avenue.

Janitor Miller Farringer had just turned on the steam in the cellar when occurred the explosion which hurled him almost a hundred feet to the floor. He was able to turn off the flow of steam and discovered that an elbow had burst. A part of the wall near the breakage was wrecked.

Mrs. Sillman, the mother of the child, went to Patrolman Meinzer's house during Sunday night and secured her baby. The officer was tired walking the floor with the child and was not at all loth to give it up.

BILLS WERE DOING.

Judge Archbold Refused to Confirm the Arrest of Rebecca M. Colby.

In orphan's court Judge Archbold yesterday refused to confirm the account of Rebecca M. Colby, administrator of the estate of Richard Colby, late of this city, for the reason that the funeral expenses were too large, $100; the monument to the deceased's memory was too costly, $200; and the bill of Dr. P. W. Lasse, attending to the body for professional services, was too high. The guardian's account in the estate of Martin Scanlon was confirmed.

DIVIDED THE CONTRACT

The School Board Fight Brought to a Close Last Night.

SLICE FOR ALL THE BIDDERS

Mr. Jacobs Wanted Uniform Desks, but a Majority Could Not Be Persuaded to Think His Way—Applications for Permanent Certificates.

The long-looked-for decision of the board of control as to what firm should receive the contract for furnishing $3,000 worth of school desks came last night.

Welsh, for the building committee, to which body the matter was referred, recommended that the contract be divided, inasmuch as the desks of the competing companies were about equal worth. The Hancy desk, at $1.80 apiece, Hill & Conell agents, and the Oxford desk, at $1.75, represented by Daniel Phillips, were each favored with $1,000 orders. The Springfield desk, of which T. F. Floyd is the agent, was given a $700 slice of the appropriation, and the Chandler adjustable desk the merits of which were set forth by Mr. Tewksbury, came in for a $300 order.

The report was signed by Messrs. Welsh, Williams, W. G. O'Malley and Jenkins. The other members of the committee, Mr. Jacobs, did not believe in dividing the contract and made known his sentiments in a motion to award the whole contract to Hill & Conell, representative of the Hancy desk, which he believed to be the best and cheapest.

The Amendment Prevailed.

Mr. Langstaff seconded the motion, but, before it could be put, Mr. Notz moved to amend by adopting the committee's report. The amendment prevailed by the following vote:

Ayes—Von Storch, H. J. O'Malley, Malcom Walsh, Court O'Hoye, Jennings, Williams, Notz, W. G. O'Malley, Carson—11.

Nays—Mitchell, Evans, Devanney, Barker, Wormser, Jacobs, Schriever, Langstaff—8.

Superintendent Howell, through the teachers committee, recommended the following teachers as applicants for permanent certificates: Misses Nellie Pickett, Mary Benedict, Mary Joyce, Alice Evans, Ella McTigue, Elizabeth Silkman, Ella Osland, Gertrude De Graw, Margaret Renniman, Julia Pottinger, E. G. Laurent. The president and secretary were instructed to sign the necessary papers to admit these applicants to the examination, which occurs on Nov. 23.

New School Necessary.

Mr. von Storch called attention to the necessity of a new building in the lower end of the Second ward to relieve No. 21 building, and advised that the building committee be instructed to select a suitable plot of ground in the neighborhood on which to erect a building when it becomes absolutely necessary. The board so instructed the committee. The pay roll for October amounted to $13,706.92, distributed as follows: Teachers, 12,156.11; substitutes, $224.1; janitors, $1,327.50.

A communication was received from Superintendent George J. Howe, announcing that he would be in his office every regular meeting night, ready to be called upon if the board wished to consult him.

TWO DIVORCES WANTED.

Cruel and Intolerable Treatment and Unfaithfulness the Cause.

Lizzie Jones, Reese, by her next friend, J. J. Jones, brought suit yesterday for divorce from her husband, George Reese. They were married on March 9, 1883, and lived together until Feb. 18, 1894. They abided in Hyde Park. She complains that Reese made it a customary pastime to offer indignities to her, such as to render her condition intolerable and life not worth living, to force her to withdraw from her home and she prays to be separated from him. Hulslander & Vosburg are the attorneys.

Samuel Nichols wants a divorce from his wife, Priscilla Nichols. They were married on July 12, 1892, and lived together until May 12, 1894, when, as he alleges, he discovered that she had been unfaithful to him.

BRUTAL MURDER.

William Krauer's Mutilated Body Found in His Store.

New York, Nov. 11.—William Krauer, a German, 40 years, was found dead in his store this morning with every evidence that he had been brutally murdered. Krauer's throat was cut from ear to ear. His left eye had been gouged out and lay upon the floor. His head was horribly battered and hacked. The body was found a hatchet, covered with blood, and a meat knife with a blade about a foot long, the blade of which was also smeared with blood. The body had been found in a pool of blood soaked into the floor, surrounded by the body.

An employe of Krauer's, it is supposed, committed the crime. The motive has not yet been learned.
